2 States Hunt 11 Fugitives; Philadelphia Riot Quelled

Group Described As Desperate Men

Prisoners in Eastern Penitentiary Attempt to Burn Building.

Eleven desperate convicts shot their way out of the State Penitentiary at Michigan City, Ind., kidnaped a sheriff and a motorist and menaced two prison officials with death.

Rebellious convicts beat the warden at Eastern Penitentiary at Philadelphia last night during a riot in which they fired their mattresses. The attempted outbreak was frustrated, as was an earlier revolt.

Michigan City, Ind., Sept. 26 (AP). State police, sheriffs and other law officers of Indiana and Illinois tonight were hunting 11 desperate convicts who shot down a guard, kidnaped a sheriff and a motorist and menaced two prison officials with death, as they escaped from the Indiana State Penitentiary here today.

Successful in what appeared to have been a long-plotted break, the convicts speeded toward Chicago, 55 miles distant, in two automobiles commandeered from the men they abducted.

All Dangerous Men.

Two of the fugitives were sentenced for murder and five for bank robbery, all to life terms. The other four were serving sentences of 25 years for robbery or auto banditry. They were regarded as the most dangerous men in the prison.

After checking records of the fugitives Capt. Matt Leach, of the State police, tonight at Indianapolis said "You couldn't pick eleven worse men."

Capt. Leach said he believed Harry Pierpont and Joseph Jenkins to be the principal instigators of the plot and linked them with John Dillinger, now held at Dayton, Ohio, in connection with numerous bank robberies in Indiana, Ohio and Illinois.

Leach said Dillinger was arrested at the home of Jenkins' sister in Dayton and in the house they found a map of Michigan City. He said several other letters and papers were found, but Dayton officials refused to turn them over to him until today.

Speed Toward Chicago.

"If we had obtained them I believe the break could have been prevented," Leach said.

The convicts in the sheriff's car purchased gasoline about an hour after the break at Burdick, about 20 miles west of here, and sped toward Chicago. State police rushed there upon hearing the report, but they were too late.

The escape started in the prison shirt factory. Assistant Warden Albert Evans was summoned to the shop on pretext that he was needed because of a machinery breakdown.

He was greeted by seven men with pistols and four with clubs. The convicts disarmed Evans and forced him and D. H. Stevens, plant superintendent, to accompany them.

Taking with them a 10-foot steel shaft for use as a battering ram, the prisoners took Evans and Stevens

Italian Quake Costs 16 Lives

200 Injured and Hundreds Homeless; Refugees Sleep in Fields.

Rome, Sept. 26 (AP).—Latest reports tonight showed 16 persons killed, 200 injured and hundred homeless in the Abruzzi earthquake. Tens of thousands of emigrants to America came from that region.

Hundreds, still terrorized tonight, slept in open fields, huddling about huge bonfires to protect themselves from the chilly autumn mountain air. Soldiers and Fascist militiamen erected villages of tents. Hospitals were overtaxed.

All the dead and most of the injured lived in small villages.

Residents of Sulmona, a city of 19,000, found scarcely a home without a damaged roof, but less than 30 persons were injured.

Six were killed at Lama Dei Peligni. Several of the injured were reported dying.

Other dead were in the towns of Taronto Peligna, Fara San Martino, Casa Canditella, Toree-Dei-Passeri and Salle.

Elbert H. Baker Dead; Was Plain Dealer Head

Cleveland, Sept. 26 (AP).—Elbert H. Baker, 79, chairman of the board of the Plain Dealer Publishing Co., died tonight at Lakeside Hospital.

He had been ill only about a week and underwent an abdominal operation last Friday.

Kelly to Fight Return For Oklahoma Trial

Justice Department Photos.

United States agents ended their search for "Machine Gun" Kelly yesterday. With Mrs. Kelly (upper left) he was captured in Memphis, Tenn. The hunt for Kelly (upper right) was led by William A. Rorer, a special agent of the Department of Justice. He is a graduate of National University Law School here.

'Machine Gun' Gangster, Wife, 2 Others Held In Memphis.

Memphis, Tenn., Sept. 26 (AP). Secretly arraigned under the cover of machine guns at the Shelby County jail, George ("Machine Gun") Kelly tonight served formal notice of his intention to fight removal to Oklahoma City.

Kelly and his auburn-haired wife, Kathryn, with whom he was arrested here by Department of Justice agents and police this morning, pleaded not guilty when Lester H. Brenner, United States commissioner, visited their cells with officers.

The Press-Scimitar quotes Kathryn Kelly as saying her husband would have "cleaned out the whole tribe in Oklahoma City if he hadn't been caught."

"They just got him intime," she was quoted as saying, "or he would have killed them all. All his plans were made."

The warrants on which they were arraigned charged the husband and wife jointly with kidnaping Charles F. Urschel, Oklahoma City oil man, and taking him to Paradise, Tex., where he was held prior to the payment of $200,000 ransom.

Removal Delayed.

Although announcement was made earlier in the day that the hearing would be held tomorrow, officers said they had planned to get an order of removal tonight and take the fugitives to Oklahoma City by airplane.

The removal was delayed at the request of Federal authorities in Oklahoma City, who said they believed the witnesses in the kidnaping cases now on trial there will speak more freely if Kelly is held here.

John C. Tichenor and Seymour E. Travis, occupants of the house where the Kellys were apprehended, pleaded "not guilty" to the charge of harboring a fugitive. Tichenor and Travis will be tried here.

Were Well Guarded.

The four defendants were removed from the police station to the county jail under the eyes of the Department of Justice agents and police. Traffic was held up and onlookers were barred from the grounds of the two buildings. Mrs. Kelly turned her face from photog-

O'Riordan, the papers state, has been identified as one of the men who, July 31, 1927, kidnaped Abraham Fein, Detroit merchant, and held him two days until Mrs. Fein paid $14,200 ransom.

A hearing will be held Saturday.

New Jersey Gives Up Neu to Louisiana Court

Trenton, N. J., Sept. 26 (U.P.). Kenneth L. Neu, Savannah erooner, who allegedly has confessed to two murders, is to be taken to Louisiana to be tried for the killing of Sheffield Clark, Tennessee businessman.

Assured by Gov. Allen of Louisiana that Nau, if not convicted and sentenced to death, will be returned to New Jersey, Acting Gov. Emerson L. Richards today signed extradition papers for his removal to the Southern State.

Sacramento, Calif., Sept. 26 (AP).—Claude Forbes, convicted in Alameda County of murdering Harry Nelson, deputy assessor, and sentenced to be hanged at San Quentin Prison next Friday, was granted a fourth reprieve until December 18 by Gov. Rolph today so the State supreme court can finish its review of his appeal.

Forbes and Nelson's wife were convicted of killing Nelson. Mrs. Nelson was sentenced to a life term.

Sen. Thomas, Cheap Money Leader, Quits

Says Roosevelt Finally Must See Correctness of Policy.

(Associated Press.)

All advocates of inflation were urged yesterday by Senator Thomas (Democrat), Oklahoma, a leader of the campaign for cheaper money, to quiet their clamor to permit full trial of President Roosevelt's credit expansion program.

Thomas predicted the credit program would fail to lift and stabilize price levels.

He told newspapermen he would talk over his own proposal for a temporary cessation of the inflation agitation with various farm leaders, who have come to the Capital to campaign for the currency expansion.

Buckley for Note Issue.

The Thomas assertion came shortly after Senator Buckley (Democrat), Ohio, a member of the Banking Committee, had said following a conference with Mr. Roosevelt that inflation by issuing treasury notes "within modest limits won't do any harm."

Bulkley, declining to indicate the Chief Executive's attitude, praised the Roosevelt course of expanding commercial and banking credits, and expressed the opinion that "ultimately we will come to fixing the gold content of the dollar substantially lower than the old gold content."

Meanwhile, John A. Simpson, president of the National Farmers Union, in an open letter to President Roosevelt, copies of which were sent to members of Congress, called for remonetization of silver and retirement of bonds by issuing Treasury notes.

Says People Disgusted.

Under the inflationary power given the President in the farm relief law, Simpson told the Chief Executive, "you can kick the international bankers out of the National Capital any day you want to."

"I think the international bankers are responsible for the farm relief measure and the National Recovery Act," Simpson wrote. "It is their plan to destroy you.

"I know the people are overwhelmingly disappointed and disgusted with the program for recovery. They still have confidence in you, but no faith whatever in the program."

Thomas said that "the President, in being against inflation, thinks the proper way to bring us out of difficulties is credit expansion."

Federal credit made available to date, the Oklahomian said, aggregated $11,000,000,000 "already borrowed or in process of being borrowed to help us out and it hasn't done any good except to postpone the evil day."

Inflation "Only Remedy."

"Believing that inflation of the currency is the only remedy, while the administration believes in inflating credit," Thomas said, "it seems to me wise policy to permit the administration to test out its program.

"To date, the promise, hope and prospect for inflation has brought the only relief the Nation has experienced. It seems now to be wise for those who favor inflation to cease their efforts and admit there will be no inflation. Let the President's policy work out.

"The President will have to come to inflation in the end. My recommendation for stopping the inflation campaign is really a short cut to inflation because Mr. Roosevelt will find it necessary to inflate."

Lamson Denies Guilt as Court Imposes Death

Execution in Wife Slaying Set for Dec. 15; Friends Solicit Appeal Fund.

San Jose, Calif., Sept. 26 (AP). Death sentence was pronounced today upon David A. Lamson, Stanford University publishing house representative, convicted of wife murder, after he had professed innocence in a statement to the court.

Superior Judge R. R. Syer denied a motion for a new trial of the case growing out of the death of Allene Thorpe Lamson, Stanford Y. W. C. A. secretary, in a campus cottage last May 30. Lamson was asked to rise.

"Have you any legal cause or reason why judgment should not be pronounced now?" asked Judge Syer.

"I understand, your honor," said Lamson calmly, "that under the law and under this verdict you have no alternative but to pronounce the death sentence. I should like you and the people of this State to know that my conscience is clear before your judgment and before the judgment of God.

"I know in my heart that I have been a good husband. I loved Allene. I have done her no harm. I am as innocent of her death as you yourself. That is all."

Then Judge Syer read the sentence—that Lamson be taken to San Quentin Prison and there on December 15 be "hanged by the neck until dead, and may God have mercy on your soul."

Weeping women provided a somber undertone as defense attorneys served notice of appeal to the State Supreme Court. His sisters, Mrs. Willis Tholts and Dr. Margaret Lamson, accompanied him.

Millionaire's Niece, Who Vanished, Found

Long Beach, Calif., Sept. 26 (AP). Mrs. Gladys Christensen, who disappeared from the home of her uncle, Jonah Jones, jr., Long Beach oil millionaire, at Lake Elsinore, last Friday, was located today.

Aid to Hoover Linked in Ship Subsidy Quiz

Senator Black Charges "Favor" Received by Board Head.

Attempts to show a Hoover Administration official received favors from concerns to which he helped disburse $30,000,000 a year in Federal ship subsidies marked the opening yesterday of the Roosevelt regime's long-promised investigation of its predecessors' deeds.

The investigation, dealing with ship and air mail subsidies, was pressed by a special Senate committee headed by Senator Black, Alabama Democrat.

The developments were:

Senator Black charged the Steers Terminal Corporation, at the direction of Henry Heberman, president of the Export Steamship Co., parent organization, paid a $510 tailor's bill for T. V. O'Connor, Shipping Board chairman in the Hoover regime. This was conceded by a former Export official, but denied by Heberman, who was ill, as a physician felt his pulse.

Heberman testified the Shipping Board spent $1,825,718 repairing 18 ships sold by the board to his company for $1,171,431, and Black brought out the company had obtained extension of a loan for construction of four $2,000,000 ships after Comptroller Parmelee, of the Shipping Board, had reported the company owed $3 for every one it possessed and the then Secretary of Commerce Lamont had written that liabilities of $3,953,000 and assets of $1,172,199 constituted no reason for objection to the loan extension.

E. H. Neven, treasurer of the Export Steamship Co., testified that while Heberman was borrowing

Bank Bandit Shot With Own Pistol

Confederate Escapes in Chicago Attempt.

Chicago, Sept. 26 (AP).—A bank teller shot a robber with his own pistol in the Monroe street offices of the Bank of Nova Scotia today, and thwarted a holdup that might have netted $15,000.

In a fight on the bank floor, a confederate of the wounded robber beat two bank employes on the head with his revolver and escaped.

The wounded man, shot through the neck by the teller, also reached the street, but was caught by a traffic policeman.

Shot From Rifle Kills Boy As Chum Reloads Weapon

Love for Forbidden Guns Leads to Tragedy on Hunting Venture.

Youthful love of forbidden guns last night cost the life of Dudley G. Struve, 15, of 15 East Woodbine street, Chevy Chase, Md.

The youth was mortally wounded by a bullet fired from a .22 automatic rifle in the hands of his chum, John Henry Thompson, 14, of 6408 Beechwood drive, Chevy Chase, Md.

The two lads, with a third companion, Horace McCoy, of 24 East Woodbine street, had taken Thompson's rifle for a trip to the woods behind the Chevy Chase Fire House. They wandered on, shooting at twigs and other objects.

Boy Shot in Head.

The Thompson boy was reloading the rifle. The gun exploded, the bullet striking Dudley at the base of the skull. He told police he must have kept his finger on the trigger.

The other two boys dragged the limp form of their chum nearly a quarter of a mile until they met two colored men hunting squirrels. The men put the boy in a car and took him to the East-West Highway, where another man in a faster car took the boy and raced to Walter Reed Hospital.

The boy was pronounced dead on arrival there.

The Thompson boy collapsed when he learned the outcome of the shooting trip.

Young Thompson, son of Henry Clay Thompson, Washington automobile dealer, had purchased the gun a month ago with money received for his birthday anniversary. His parents had refused pleas for a gun for years and grudgingly consented when they found he had access to the guns of his companions.

Forbidden Use of Gun.

The Struve boy had been forbidden a gun by his parents.

Young Struve was the son of Mrs. Katherine Struve, a teacher at McKinley High School. His father has been dead about three years.

The mother was told of the boy's injury as she returned home from school. She hurried to Walter Reed, but the boy died before she arrived.

Dudley and John had been pals since they attended fifth grade. All three boys were students in the ninth grade at Bethesda-Chevy Chase Junior High School.

Brokers Win TaxationRow In New York

Mayor Decides to Veto Stock Transfer Levy; Exchange Stays.

New York, Sept. 26 (AP).—Mayor John P. O'Brien tonight vetoed the two proposed tax bills that had led the New York Stock Exchange to threaten to move to Newark, N. J.

By his veto, the mayor virtually eliminated the prospect that the Wall Street financial district would be shifted across the river to escape added taxation.

Richard Whitney, president of the Stock Exchange, told the mayor earlier in the day the market would abandon its plans to move if the tax measures were vetoed.

Mind Not Changed.

The mayor said his action was not to be construed "as a change of mind with respect to the original necessity" of enacting the bills, but was taken because of "a seriously threatened action which might prevent adequate return upon the State stock transfer tax, with resulting loss to the State treasury and the derangement of its budget."

The measures had been designed to raise between $12,000,000 and $15,000,000 for unemployment and home relief.

Urged by Untermyer.

These events followed the action of Samuel Untermyer, the city's financial adviser and author of the emergency tax program, in urging Mayor O'Brien to discard the taxes as an alternative to loss of the Stock Exchange business.

Plans for the Newark market had progressed rapidly before the city showed signs of surrender to the brokers. Besides arrangements for leasing the Newark Center Market building the exchange sponsors made provisions for a clearing house in the old Pennsylvania Railroad passenger terminal in Jersey City.

$10,000 Asked In Kidnap Note

Maryland Textile Head Is Warned of Death if He Tells Police.

Elkton, Md., Sept. 26 (AP).—A crudely composed letter, demanding $10,000 under threat of death to himself and kidnaping of his son, was received today by John Lawrence, manager, part owner of the Baldwin Manufacturing Co., a textile plant at Elk Mills.

The letter, postmarked at Enfield, N. C., instructed Lawrence to place the money at a certain spot behind a bridge that crosses a small stream near the Lawrence home.

"This is no idle threat," the letter said. "Your son is marked for kidnaping. Don't show this to police or we will kill you when we take Walter."

The son, Walter, is a young man prominent in local society.

Moffitt, San Francisco banker and paper company president, with two women and a chauffeur, scattered pedestrians with gunfire and then wounded himself critically.

Moffitt and a service station attendant overpowered the man, threw him from the banker's car into the street and raced for a police station as the two women screamed in terror.

The gunman, believed dying at Providence Hospital, was identified by police as William Wallace, 29, steamship steward.

Tampico Death Toll in Storm Placed at 80

(Copyright, 1933, by The Associated Press.)

Tampico, Mexico., Sept. 26.—Known death toll from last Sunday's hurricane, which buffeted this oil port several hours, was placed officially tonight at 80, bodies of whom have been recovered. 300 known injured and much of the city laid waste.

It was feared many more bodies were buried in the debris of houses or in the water from overflowing rivers which covered low sections.

This correspondent, arriving from Mexico City by airplane, the first to reach Tampico since the storm, found the city suffering from heavy property damage but without the high death toll at first feared.

Thousands Believed Hurt.

Half of the center of the city proper remained intact, but entire buildings were twisted to pieces. Wooden buildings, including several churches and motion picture theaters, were wrecked with few exceptions.

The populace seemed stunned by the catastrophe. Hundreds of homeless huddled in municipal buildings and schools. Others took refuge in parks. All were provided with small rations of corn, beans and coffee.

The water supply was exhausted and an epidemic was feared.

Hospitals Crowded.

Hospitals were crowded.

Fears were expressed the loss of life was heavy in the Puntilla district, on the right bank of the Panuco River. The Tampico railway station was destroyed, and all small houses in Llanos del Golfo, a vil-

Woman Returns Home, Allaying Murder Fears

Princeton, Ind., Sept. 26 (AP).—Mrs. Lilly Brock Elliott, 28, missing a week, today returned home and allayed fears she had been murdered in Chicago.

Her father said yesterday he feared the body of a young woman found in a Chicago swamp was that of his daughter. Mrs. Elliott said she had been "visiting in Evansville."

Millionaire Demands City Pay for Dead Pig

Yonkers, N. Y., Sept. 26 (U.P.).—John E. Andrus, known as the "millionaire straphanger" and rated as one of the 10 richest men in the United States, today applied for a tax appraisal of a dead pig, killed by a trespassing dog.

Andrus personally wrote to Tax Commissioner Timothy Murray for the appraisal, contending that he is entitled to reimbursement from public funds because of the pig's death.

District Woman Dies In 11-Story Plunge

Detroit, Sept. 26 (AP).—A few hours after Mrs. Goldie Rudin, 28, had attempted to leap from the window of a downtown department store, she lunged 11 stories to her death from an office building, where she had been taken to a physician's office by her father.

Her body narrowly missed a man and a woman entering the building

Rex Martin, an Assistant Air Director, Among Group Injured.

C. H. McColl in Wreck; Firemen Save Men Trapped in Water.

Rex Martin, of Chicago, assistant director of aeronautics, Commerce Department; William T. Miller, veteran experimental pilot, and Chester H. McColl, New York City, special assistant to Secretary Roper, were injured seriously last night in an airplane crash near College Park, Md.

McColl was making his first night flight in a demonstration of the use of radio beacons and weather reports. Martin is in charge of the air navigation division.

The plane plunged through a thick fog and crashed into a deep bog.

Waist-Deep in Water.

The injured men were in waist-deep water for nearly 15 minutes. Joseph Harrison, colored, of Lakeland, Md., attracted by their shouts, was the first to reach the scene.

With a companion, he waded into the water and attempted to extricate them from the wrecked plane. Aid was summoned from nearby communities.

The plane was demolished. The nose of its single engine was buried deep in mire and water. Occupants were apparently thrown violently against inside walls and partitions. The ship was a cabin-type Bellanca.

College Park Airport officials said Miller took off with his passengers shortly after 8 o'clock. The flight was to test ground lighting and landing flood lights.

Several friends of the Commerce officials had gathered to watch the flight. The plane, they said, turned toward Washington after several minutes in the air. Those on the ground left the airport, believing Miller had decided to land at Bolling Field.

Fog Blamed in Crash.

About 9:35 residents in the section heard the plane's motors. The roar indicated the ship was preparing to land. C. L. Stanton, also a Commerce Department official, was in a hangar. He said the plane crashed before he could reach the field.

Dense fog settled over the airport shortly after the plane took off. This was believed to have contributed to the crash. Faulty mechanism was another theory.

Miller and Martin were taken to Providence Hospital. Miller was apparently the most seriously injured. He suffered concussion of the brain, fractured right shoulder, fractured jaw, possible fractured left leg and severe shock, according to hospital officials.

Skull Fractured.

McColl was taken to Casualty Hospital. Physicians said he had a fractured skull, fractured right arm, fractured right shoulder and severe bruises and lacerations.

It was learned the plane recently has been used in testing radio beams for landing in fog.

Martin was appointed assistant director of aeronautics last June. He is 35 and has a wife and two children.

Until drafted by Roper, Martin

Blaze Suspect Admits Others

Dutchman in Reichstag Case Trial Says He Fired Palace.

Leipzig, Germany, Sept. 26 (AP). Admissions that he set three fires in Berlin were wrung today from Marinus van der Lubbe, Dutch brick mason, one of five men on trial charged with firing the Reichstag building last February.

The youth admitted he set fire to the Berlin city hall, the former imperial palace and a welfare office.

The court decided to limit defense privileges of both men, because Van der Lubbe had said too little and Dimitroff too much.

Monetary Aims Fill Roosevelt New York Trip

Pressing Issues Weighed on Train as Rogers Outlines Views.

By a Staff Correspondent.

New York, Sept. 26.—The pressing monetary problem upon which the Nation is awaiting anxiously definite word from President Roosevelt regarding the course the administration will pursue, continued to occupy the Chief Executive's attention today en route to New York on a vacation trip.

Mr. Roosevelt took advantage of his four-hour train trip from Washington to confer with Prof. James H. Rogers, of Yale, one of the administration's financial advisers. Rogers left the Presidential train at Trenton, N. J.

Commissioner Ray Stevens, of the Federal Trade Commission, accompanied the President as far as Philadelphia. His presence gave rise to speculation as to when Mr. Roosevelt will organize the foreign bondholders corporation provided under the securities act.

Bulkley Favors Issue.

There is growing agitation for organization of this corporation, designed to recover funds for American holders of defaulted war bonds.

The interview with Rogers followed closely a conference at the White House with Senator Bulkley, Ohio, member of the Senate Banking and Currency Committee, who said he saw no harm in issuing noninterest bearing Treasury notes to meet maturing obligations, within reasonable limits.

Ambassador Jesse I. Straus, who returned on a leave of absence from France because of ill health, gave the President a clear picture of what may be expected of France in settlement of her debts.

Until France mets unpaid obligations of last December and June, President Roosevelt will not take up the question of debts with representatives of that Government.

Crowds Hail President.

Upon his arrival in New York, Mr. Roosevelt was greeted by tremendous crowds, lining the streets all the way from the Pennsylvania Station to his home on East Sixty-fifth street. He was met at the station by Police Commissioner James A. Boland. Arriving at his home here he was met by his daughter, Mrs. Anna Dall, and her children, Sistie and Buzzie.

The President was accompanied from Washington to New York by his daughter-in-law, Mrs. James Roosevelt, who, with her husband, sailed tonight for Europe.

No appointments were planned here except that with Ambassador Straus, who was an after-dinner caller. Mr. Roosevelt was determined to take no part in the bitter New York mayoralty scramble.

Tentative plans of the President call for his departure from New York for Hyde Park by automobile tomorrow noon.

Mrs. Roosevelt Speaks.

Boston, Sept. 26 (AP).—The hope that out of the years of depression may come a better understanding by those at the top of business for those at the bottom was voiced today by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

"I hope," said the wife of the President in a voice charged with the fervor of conviction, "we are going to come to a day from which we have grown away in the rapidity of our material growth. We forgot that all business is founded upon the work of human beings."

She spoke at the luncheon which opened the Salvation Army's annual local campaign for funds.

large sums from the Shipping Board, a secretary to O'Connor was purchasing land in Florida for Heberman. The Export president not only conceded this, but added that in an effort to make "easy money" he also had used his chauffeur as a "dummy," putting 65 acres at Pinehurst, N. C., in his name.

Cattle Shupment Bared.

Heberman said he had sent a $3,500 shipment of cattle to a Mr. Pattiana in California who, it developed, was the father-in-law of Commander R. D. Gatewood, a Navy man assigned to the Shipping Board in charge of repair and construction of ships He also advanced between $15,000 and $16,000 to prevent foreclosure of the Pattiana ranch because he thought it was a "good investment."

It will be charged, it was learned, that 47 of the 52 contracts to carry ocean mail for a Government subsidy "to encourage the American merchant marine," were awarded at maximum rates after bidding had failed to develop competition and that therefore the contracts are illegal. It also is the contention of Chairman Black that millions of the more than $30,000,000 annual outlay for subsidies have been wasted.

In an effort to prove whether these assumptions are correct, the committee chairman called officials of the Export Steamship Co. as its first witnesses. The concern operates to Mediterranean ports with subsidy aid.

German Church Lands Sought for Farmers

Muenster, Germany, Sept. 26 (AP). Churches, monasteries and convents in Westphalia were called upon tonight by the Westphalian Nazi Farmers Bund to turn over their landed property as a gift to small farmer families "as a token of practical Christianity."

The same demand was made upon the aristocracy and other private landowners.

Bank Deposits Trend Viewed As Promising

Federal Reserve Board Notes Loosening and Increased Turnover.

Quickened production, expanding factory pay rolls and especially the use of bank accounts to speed recovery, last night drew approval from the Federal Reserve Board in its September Bulletin.

Bank deposits have become depleted as jobless drew on them, or they remained dormant as persons with money hesitated to spend.

The increased turnover of bank deposits was taken to indicate the public works program and NRA drive are causing people to buy and pay off debts and the merchants to add to stocks.

Deposits Loosening.

The loosening of deposits was viewed by the Reserve Board as contributing more to the quickening of business than the influx of new money.

It is the increased use of the deposits, however, which indicates a retraction of fear, which the board finds even more significant than the growth of deposit totals.

In March deposit turnover was at the average rate of 17 times a year, while for July the rate was 22 times.

Reserves Show Increase.

Expansion of reserve bank credit, plus a continued return of money, increased member bank reserves to $2,410,000,000 at the end of August, the highest level since February.

The September bulletin also comments upon the operation of the Glass banking bill which prohibits interest payments on demand deposits by members of the Federal Reserve System. Since the middle of June, when the new law became effective, interbank deposits have declined steadily.

The soldiers are John J. Callaghan and Solomon Churchill, of the First Coast Artillery, Fort Randolf, Canal Zone. Callaghan is from Lynn, Mass., and Churchill from New Haven, Conn.

Memories

War Nurse, Who Aided Judge, Faces Him.

Monessen, Pa., Sept. 26 (AP). Wounded after he went to the front in France 15 years ago, William Fields, an American doughboy, pleaded with a nurse:

"Please don't let them cut off my arm."

That nurse, Eleanor Schoolhart, of Monessen, was handed a parking ticket in Brownsville and told to see the burgess.

As she placed the tag on the burgess' desk, that official, the man she befriended, recognized her.

Alimony!

Banker Ready to Renounce Legacy to Balk Wife.

Omaha, Nebr., Sept. 26 (AP).—An attorney representing Harold Teachout, formerly a banker in Des Moines, Iowa, intimated in court today Teachout might renounce his share in a $300,000 estate if his divorced wife, Verone Devore Teachout, of New York, insisted upon the $33,000 alimony granted several years ago.

At a hearing on a motion to allow her $2,500 for expenses in the alimony litigation, Attorney G. P. North said:

"He will do this if Mrs. Teachout insists on her full pound of flesh."

The court allowed her $200 for immediate legal expenses.

Teachout seeks reduction of alimony judgment to $10,000.

into a ventilating tunnel under the prison buildings. There they held a conference. After the "council of war" each of the desperadoes picked up a bundle of shirts and they marched up to a cell block.

Guns Enforce Silence.

Each guard encountered was told: "We're taking these shirts out." Menaced by pistols concealed beneath the bundles of shirts, Evans and Stevens kept quiet.

Half a dozen iron doors were opened thus and the procession filed through. Finally, they reached a guard room, one wall of which formed part of the main gate of the prison.

At that point two guards, Guy Burklow and Fred Wellnitz, questioned the group. Wellnitz was slugged into unconsciousness by pistol butts. Burklow opened the outer gate.

Looking for money and weapons, the convicts entered the prison clerk's office outside the walls. One of a half dozen clerks in the office, Finley P. Carson, became confused and failed to observe a chorus of orders shouted at him.

Guard Shot Twice.

Bullets struck him almost simultaneously in the leg and in the shoulder. The desperadoes finished ransacking the office, and fled when they heard an alarm sounded.

As they fled they encountered Sheriff Charles Hill, of Corydon, Ind., who had just brought several prisoners in. They overpowered him, took his weapons, and forced him to carry four of them away in his automobile.

Prison's Worst Riot.

Philadelphia, Sept. 26 (AP).—The entire convict population of the Eastern Penitentiary—1,492 "long term" felons—revolted tonight and threw the old stone prison into the worst riot of its 103 years.

With smoke and flames shooting along the radiating corridors and yells that could be heard four blocks in the thickly populated neighborhood, the rioters grabbed the warden, Herbert (Hard-Boiled) J. Smith, and beat and slashed him severely before guards came to the rescue.

Igniting their mattresses, they shoved them through the bars into the corridors, setting up a flaming barrier that prevented the guards from entering the long tiers that radiate from a center hall like the spokes of a wheel.

The riot was put down shortly after midnight.

Born Divorced By Poet Wife

Former Texas Legislator Wins Chicago Decree.

Chicago, Sept. 26 (AP).—Mrs. E. Eunice Wilmans Born, poet, lawyer, former Texas legislator and gubernatorial candidate, today won a divorce from Henry Born, refrigerator manufacturer, on grounds of cruelty.

In January, 1930, less than a year after their marriage, she filed suit for separate maintenance and asked $500 monthly.

Mrs. Shannon Denies Seeing Kidnap Victim

Kelly Told Her Urschel Was "Drunk Friend," She Testifies.

Oklahoma City, Sept. 26 (AP).—Mrs. Ora Shannon, Texas farm woman, testified today in the Charles F. Urschel kidnaping trial that she had never seen the oil man while he was held prisoner on the Shannon farm near Paradise, Tex.

She said George (Machine Gun) Kelly, her son-in-law, who was arrested today in Memphis, and Albert Bates brought a man to the farm whom they described as an intoxicated friend.

It was the kidnaped Urschel, but Mrs. Shannon, who is on trial with her husband, R. G. Shannon, and son, Armon, said she did not learn about the abduction until later.

She testified her husband told her the following day of seeing Bates and Kelly, armed with machine guns, taking the blindfolded man out of the Shannon home.

"I knew then he was a bad man," she said of Kelly. "It came like a thunderbolt out of the sky. I was afraid of him."

Mrs. Shannon said Kelly brought Harvey Bailey, also a defendant, to the Shannon farm.

"He seemed like a nice man," she said.

Mrs. Shannon pointed to the desperado in the courtroom, explaining she first knew Bailey as McDonald and later as "Big Tom."

Matron Denies Kidnap Charge

Alleged "Finger Woman" in Luer Abduction on Witness Stand.

Edwardsville, Ill., Sept. 26 (AP). Mrs. Lillian Chessen, alleged to have been the "finger woman" in the kidnaping of August Luer, Alton banker, denied on the witness stand today that she had pointed out Luer as a likely kidnaping victim.

Fifth of the six defendants to take the stand, Mrs. Chessen, 50, appeared close to tears during the testimony.

She denied she had any part in the abduction of the elderly banker.

The State based its charge against her principally on the testimony of Randol Eugene Norvell, another defendant, who testified she pointed out Luer, assisted in the kidnap plans, helped write a note demanding $10,000 ransom, and forced him at the point of a revolver to write a second note, after Luer was released, demanding $16,000 from the family.

Extortion Demands Sent Carolina Women.

Charlotte, N. C., Sept. 26 (AP).—Willie Mae Wheeless, 15, was charged with mailing extortion letters to Carolinians by Federal officers today, who said she confessed, saying she needed money for college.

One of the extortion demands was directed to a woman now dead, the late Mrs. E. A. Judd, of Spartanburg, S. C., the letter demanded $3,000 and contained a kidnap threat.

Another extortion letter was received by Mrs. C. F. Harris, warning her daughter would be kidnaped unless $50 in cash was sent immediately.

Directed Hunt

Underwood & Underwood.

J. EDGAR HOOVER, chief of the Bureau of Investigation, Department of Justice, who directed the long search and subsequent capture yesterday of "Machine Gun" Kelly, notorious Southwest outlaw.

Kelly Capture Hailed as Blow To Underworld

Federal Agent Hoover Sees it as Victory in Crime Fight.

A telephone rang sharply, shattering the 2 a. m. stillness of the office of J. Edgar Hoover, where the director of the Bureau of Investigation of the Department of Justice had been waiting thoughout the night.

"Kelly is in Memphis."

Hoover reached for another phone and began calling agents in Chicago, St. Louis and Birmingham, instructing them to close in on Memphis by airplane.

George "Machine Gun" Kelly, quarry of Federal agents in a long, relentless search, the desperado who had evaded authorities of Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Illinois, leaving a trail of threats, defiance and possibly murder, had been run to earth at last in a Tennessee apartment.

Rorer Ends Hunt.

To William A. Rorer, 35-year-old Washington law school graduate, only four years a Federal agent, went the honor of making the arrest. With the cooperation of local police, Rorer completed the last step in the Department of Justice's quest of one more American bad man.

Well pleased at the arrest of Kelly, his wife and two other men, Justice Department officials last night were pushing vigorously their effort to apprehend others in their campaign against crime. They turned immediately to the intensive hunt for other members of the Harvey Bailey gang, the leader of which is now on trial for the kidnaping of Charles Urschel, Oklahoma City oil man.

Associates of Bailey and Kelly now being tracked are Wilber Underhill, Verne Miller, Richard Gallatas and Bob Brady, wanted in connection with the machine gun massacre of Federal and local officers in front of the Kansas City Union Depot, June 17.

"The capture of Kelly is the Government's ultimatum to the underworld that kidnaping is an extremely unsafe business," Hoover said last night.

"Kelly's capture means something to the underworld the average person doesn't understand.

"The criminal fears death more than anything else. At heart, they are all rats—dirty, yellow rats. They like to think they are above the law, but actually they operate most of the time with one eye on the electric chair."

Agent Rorer, who made the arrest with two Department of Justice agents and three Memphis police officers, entered Government service in 1929, the year he graduated from the National University School of Law.

When the reading of the warrants was completed, Kelly said:

"No, I won't sign that."

"You don't have to sign it," an officer explained. "That's the charge against you."

"How do you plead?" Commissioner Brenner asked.

"Not guilty," was the fiercely uttered answer. His wife also denied the charges.

Defies Jail to Hold Him.

"You can tell the world I'll be out of here before long," snarled the desperado to newspapermen in his jail cell, in defiance of Police Chief Will D. Lee and Inspector Will Griffin, who stood within earshot.

"They got me all right," commented the prisoner, "but keeping me is another matter."

Surrounded Apartment.

Sergt. Raney walked to the door and rapped gently. It swung open and there stood Kelly with a .45-caliber automatic in his hand.

But the snub-nosed shotgun was pointed dead at Kelly's heart. "Drop that gun, Kelly," snapped Raney.

A Memphis newspaper flashed an extra to the street and police, fearing that newspaper headlines might inspire Kelly associates to attempt to liberate him, mounted machine guns at all entrances to the police station. Two machine guns were constantly trained on Kelly.

"Through," Says Wife.

True to the role of many another bandit's wife, Katherine Kelly, who stuck by her husband in his triumphs, spurned him today when his game was up.

"I'm through with him," she said.

"I wanted to go back to Oklahoma City where father and mother are on trial to defend them," she said. "But Kelly told me he would kill me if I left him. I'm through with that guy forever."

Ohio Prisoner Confesses West Virginia Holdup

Steubenville, Ohio, Sept. 26 (AP). Thomas Furbee, held here in connection with several holdups, confessed participation in the robbery of a Huntington (W. Va.) bank last week, Sheriff Ray Long said today.

Long quoted Furbee as saying he and five other men participated. Earl Hebenger, held here with Furbee, was named as one of the robbers, the sheriff said. Hebenger denied complicity in the crime.

U. S. Pushes Franco-Reich Arms Accord

Joins With Poland and Italy in Preparing Ground at Geneva.

Geneva, Sept. 26 (AP).—Americans joined Italian, Polish and German delegates to the League of Nations in conference today to prepare the ground for bringing Germany and France into direct contact on the arms problem.

Polish representatives lunched with Konstantin von Neurath, German foreign minister, and Dr. Joseph Goebbels, Reich minister of propaganda. Their talks, it was announced, resulted "in clarifying the relations" between Germany and Poland.

A delegation from the international former servicemen's league called upon Arthur Henderson, president of the disarmament conference, and urged control of armament manufacture. Mr. Henderson said he was more optimistic than ever.

League circles awaited official notification of Argentine membership in the league, voted last night by the Senate of that country.

Fugitive Tells Tale of Torture

Flogged and Dangled on Rope in Prison Camp, Says Captured Man.

Los Angeles, Sept. 26 (AP). — A story of alleged torture, days without food, hours dangling on ropes with toes just touching the floor, floggings and threats against his life, was told tonight by Ben Jones, 34.

He was jailed by sheriff's deputies on suspicion of being a convicted murderer and a fugitive from a South Carolina prison camp.

Jones, business agent for a motion picture projectionists' union under the name of C. D. Cooper, was seized by authorities on the threshhold of his home, where he was kissing his young wife before leaving the city for a few days.

The arrest was made, deputy sheriffs said, on a tip from Mrs. Isadore Gore, wife of a theater operator, who said she recognized Jones' picture in a detective story magazine. He worked as Cooper for her husband.

Allan Dinehart, Actor, Must Face Girl's Suit

Group Records Attitude at Chicago Meeting.

Chicago, Sept. 26 (AP).—The American Brewers Association went on record tonight as favoring the present alcoholic content of beer.

"If beer of higher alcoholic content than 3.2 per cent is authorized by law it should be sold only in bottles and in connection with hard liquor," William L. Goetz, president, of St. Joseph, Mo., said. His views were embodied in a resolution which was adopted.

The brewery owners voted to support the code for their industry pending in Washington.

Davis Defends $125,000 Gift

Senator Devoted Life to Building Up Moose Attorney Claims.

New York, Sept. 26 (AP).—United States Senator James J. Davis devoted his life to building up the Loyal Order of Moose "without financial profit to himself," his attorney asserted today.

For this reason, defense counsel said at the senator's trial on charges of violating the Federal lottery laws, the society gave him $125,000.

The attorney, Charles J. Tuttle, accused Assistant United States Attorney Louis Mead Treadwell of bringing up the $125,000 to create the idea Davis had a mercenary interest in the order.

Antarctic Mail Costs 50 Cents

This Is Addition to Stamp Honoring Byrd Trip.

Explaining the comemorative stamp was being issued in recognition of the importance of the Byrd Antarctic Expedition, Postmaster General Farley stated yesterday a 50 cents service charge will be necessary to cover the cost of taking mail to the Antarctic.

He pointed out that the Postoffice Department has no means of providing mail transportation to Little America other than through the facilities of the Byrd 1933 expedition.

Issuance of the stamp, he said, was in keeping with President Roosevelt's wishes that the Government cooperate in every possible way with the expedition.

Tampico Storm Brings Losses To Americans

Mining and Other Interests Believed Big Sufferers in Great Hurricane.

Americans in Tampico apparently escaped injury, but American mining and commercial interests probably suffered heavy losses in the Tampico hurricane zone, reports received yesterday at the State and Commerce Departments indicated.

R. S. Carey, American vice consul at Tampico, advised the State Department that all Americans in the city are believed to have escaped injury. There are approximately 2,000 American citizens living there.

The extent of damage to mine and oil interests of Americans could not be definitely estimated, owing to crippled communications between the stricken area and Mexico City.

$150,000,000 Invested.

The principal fields of American investment in the region include oil and mining. For these two industries the total is estimated at approximately $150,000,000. In American oil operations, the chief investment is in refineries and pipe lines, many of which are far inland from Tampico.

Unofficial reports indicated these inland properties were not as hard hit as plants along the coast and in Tampico.

In the city wharves and refineries of four American oil companies were damaged by wind and tidal waves. The Atlantic Gulf Co. is one of the largest American operators in the city.

Next in importance is the Mexican Petroleum Co. of California. Standard Oil of New Jersey is represented by the Mexican-chartered Transcontinental Petroleum Corporation.

Firms Not Connected.

This firm has no direct connection with the American corporation of the same name. The American-owned Continental Oil Co. also operates a large plant at Tampico.

The International Telephone and Telegraph Co. installed a modern automatic exchange in the city in 1928. It was not damaged seriously.

American capital also erected the Tampico generating station of the American and Foreign Power Corporation, subsidiary of the Electric Bond & Share Co.

Through a Mexican-chartered subsidiary, the Pan-American Airways operates an airport and service field at Tampico.

Two Roper Aids Injured in Crash was secretary to Representative Kent Keller, of Illinois. A graduate of Northwestern University, he was an Army pilot during the war, receiving his training too late for service in France.

Miller is ranked by friends as the most competent night flier in the country. He has a wide reputation for executing skillful landings after dark on unlighted air fields. He has thousands of hours of flying time to his credit.

Graduated from the Navy's advanced training school in 1917, Miller flew in coast patrols during the war. Rising to rank of lieutenant, he resigned from the Navy in 1923 to become a pilot for Air Marine Airways, the first commercial air line from New York to Atlanta and Detroit to Cleveland.

Served as Passenger Pilot.

For several years Miller flew passengers from Miami to Nassau and from Miami to Key West and Atlanta.

Once when flying a two-motored, converted F5L, predecessor of the famous PN type ship, he encountered a stiff wind between Havana and Key West. To cap the climax, the plane's motor faltered and quit. The flying boat was forced to alight on the rough sea with nine passengers.

Passenger after passenger was swept overboard as Miller fought to keep the fragile craft afloat. Miller repeatedly leaped overboard and rescued passengers. After a three-hour fight the pilot and all his passengers were saved by a steamer. To Miller alone went the credit for rescuing five of the men and women.

Another of Miller's harrowing experiences occurred several years ago when an H52L flying boat he was piloting was forced down off Long Island. Two passengers were with him. An off-shore wind carried the disabled craft to sea.

Miller fought a raging sea three days and nights. His plane finally was sighted by a fishing boat and the occupants saved. Other narrow escapes marked Miller's life during the early days of aviation. Unmarried, he lives at the Chastleton Hotel.

McColl is married and has two children. He lives at the Jefferson Apartments.

Named Six Weeks Ago.

Until his appointment six weeks ago McColl was publicity representative for the National Credit Men's Association.

Eugene Vidal, director of the department's aeronautics bureau, decided to observe the test, at first scheduled for Washington Airport. A low ceiling caused cancellation of a fog device test also planned.

14 Witnesses Testify in Trial Of 3 Bankers

Prosecution Scores When Examiners, Borrowers Tell of Practices.

Cumberland, Md., Sept. 26 (Spl.). Fourteen Government witnesses have been examined in the trial which opened yesterday of Paul L. Hitchins, attorney and secretary to the bank board; Frank Watts, former cashier, and Emery G. Hitchins, president, Citizens National Bank, Frostburg, Md., charged with false entires and conspiracy.

Robert E. Watts, assistant cashier, son of Frank Watts, told of a loan that grew from $10,000 to $20,000 through accumulated interest.

Thomas B. Finan, Cumberland, bank receiver, testified as to a note for $22,000, alleged due the bank, signed by Paul L. Hitchins, attorney for his mother-in-law, Mrs. Bolton. Finan said that he wrote Mrs. Bolton the note must be paid but she ignored his letters.

M. J. Kemp, auditor of the Union Trust Co., Baltimore, told of a transaction involving purchase of $114,000 in stock by Frank Watts, who finally accepted $52,000 from the Union Trust Co. for it.

Stock Purchase Bared.

J. Glenn Beall, State senator, testified to borrowing $2,000 from the Citizens National upon the endorsement of Paul L. Hitchins, and that land had been purchased with the money. Later, when the property was sold, the $2,000 realized, Senator Beall said, was used to provide margin for stocks bought by him and Hutchins. The stock had been purchased by Beall with $4,000 additional borrowed from the bank. This $6,000, Beall admitted, was lost in the stock market crash, and is still owed the bank.

Paul M. Seabury, former bank examiner now with the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, testified that he examined the records of the bank in July, 1930. He explained there was a record of stock bought for around $113,000 by the bank that had depreciated considerably, and that over 20 members of the Hitchins family were borrowers, loans aggregating more than $200,000.

Attorney Signed Name.

Laurence Jones testified that he had given the power of attorney to Frank Watts who used his name without his knowledge on various notes endorsed by Paul and Emery Hitchins and Frank Watts. He was not notified of the transactions until they had been completed.

Mrs. Edith J. Mitchell stated, she, too, had executed power of attorney to Frank Watts, and the prosecution showed the power of attorney had been used without her knowledge to sign notes.

Orient Rebel Drive Planned

Chinese and Japanese Plan Battle Today on Irregulars.

Peiping, China (Wednesday), Sept. 27 (AP).—Gen. Fang Chen-Wu and his army of irregulars, occupying the North China demilitarized zone, today faced concerted action of Japanese and Chinese military forces, who agreed that Japanese troops would expel the irregulars from the demilitarized zone and the Chinese would disarm them as they crossed the neutral line.

Action against Fang's army, estimated variously to number from 5,000 to 50,000, was expected to start late today.

The Japanese had issued an ultimatum to Fang that he withdraw from the zone by midnight last night. Late yesterday, three Japanese bombing planes flew at an altitude of 200 feet over the Peiping legation quarter. Machine guns were carried and the bomb racks were seen to be full.

lage, were demolished. All that remained today at its site was an immense lagoon.

Although ships had been warned of the storm and took precautions, many were snapped from their moorings and either driven into midstream or beached.

The German steamer Adriac, anchored in front of the Sinclair dock, was ripped from its moorings and forced out to sea. There it collided with the British cargo ship Baron Nairn and the American vessel Sapinero, but without serious damage.

U. S. Rejects British Cruiser Delay Proposal

State Department Cool to Plea for Halt Until After Arms Parley.

Formal rejection of the British suggestion that this country defer construction of four, six-inch-gun, Class B cruisers until after the October disarmament conference, was announced late yesterday by the State Department.

The State Department's announcement yesterday read:

"In reply to suggestions from the British government that the laying down of any six-inch gun cruisers larger than those now in existence might be deferred during the life of the disarmament conference, or at least pending further discussion of the qualitative limitations of future ships, the American Government has replied that it did not see its way clear to alter its delayed naval construction program or to suspend the laying down of any projected ships."

Previously, President Roosevelt had indicated that the United States had no intention of delaying its naval construction and high naval officers had scoffed at the British proposal.

To date no nation that signed the Washington Treaty has built Class B cruisers up to the maximum of 10,000 tons. United States cruisers in this category are now under 7,500 tons, while Japan has built none larger than 8,200 tons. British cruisers have been limited to 7,000 tons.

The United States, observers said, has need of larger cruisers because of the distances separating its naval bases.

30,000 Called Out by Detroit Auto Workers

(Associated Press.)

Automobile workers called a strike in Detroit. Several thousand men walked out of a Ford Motor Co. plant at Chester, Pa. Bakery wagon drivers rioted in Philadelphia. There was threat of military intervention for striking truckmen in Connecticut. Coal miners massed at Clairton, Pa. A national strike of airplane pilots was averted.

The Detroit strike call climaxed balloting begun Saturday, and leaders said 30,000 men would be affected. It was called to support striking workers at Flint, Mich., to win recognition of the union, to force NRA conformity on employers, and a wage scale of $1 to $1.50 an hour for a 30-hour week.

Strike Over, All Fired.

At Flint, General Motors Corporation said the strike was over, because any recalcitrant employe was henceforth "off the pay roll."

The Chester walkout was described as a spontaneous movement, affecting 4,000 to 5,000 men, dissatisfied with wages. Ford officials in Detroit denied knowledge of it.

Deliveries of bread were restricted in Philadelphia as striking drivers overturned wagons and picketed bakeries, cut truck tires and threatened nonstriking drivers. The union demands closed shop, a 42-hour week and a wage increase. It claims 1,250 of the city's 1,500 drivers are out; employers said 600.

At Clairton 400 soft coal miners from adjacent Fayette County paraded and encamped around the Carnegie Steel Co. plant trying to persuade steel workers to join their strike.

Police Kept on Guard.

The plant employs 6,000. The marchers were not molested, though guarded by the police.

The Connecticut trucking strike has paralyzed movement of products, manufacturers told Dr. Edward G. Dolan, State NRA chairman, and he threatened to ask for militia to guard trucks.

The airplane pilots' strike threat was quieted in Washington, with announcement that a proposed wage scale would not be imposed, emanating from a conference of air line presidents.

Immigration Men Tell Chinaman His Name

Elko, Nev. (U.P.).—Immigration officers who arrested a Chinaman at Wendover, were mystified when he admitted he did not know the name under which he was admitted to this country in 1904.

The Chinese said he came into America before the immigration bars were raised. The agents looked into the matter, found his story true, and informed the Chinese his name was Wong Sung.

Home-Town Friends Recall Lardner's First Bid for Fame

Fear of Failure Haunted Budding Humorist on Leaving Niles.

Niles, Mich., Sept. 26 (AP).—From banker to factory worker, this town today mourned the death of a home town boy who made good in the big city—Ring Lardner, the humorist—who, oldtimers and newcomers freely admit, "put Niles on the map."

Oldtimers were reminiscing how Lardner, who died last night at his home in East Hampton, Long Island, began writing his witty baseball stories "just because he couldn't help it," and how he went with many forebodings to nearby South Bend, Ind., for his first newspaper job, that later led to fame and fortune.

Bascom Parker, jr., who once owned the local gas company, was Lardner's mentor, and today Parker told how soft hearted "Ring" was.

"Ring's first job after he got out of high school was to handle complaints from gas company customers," said Parker. "Ring was so soft hearted he couldn't hurt their feelings, and he didn't get along so well. But he used to go out to the local ball games and write humorous comments about the players. Finally I took some of them to the local papers and they printed them.

"The newspaper in South Bend saw the stories, and they asked Ring to work for them. South Bend is only 10 miles away, but Ring didn't want to go because he was afraid he wouldn't make good. So I held the gas company job open. He never came back. He went on to Chicago still fearful and again made good.

"Ring was slow and easygoing, and wouldn't hurt anybody's feelings. He was always good company."

Lardner's grandfather was an Episcopalian clergyman and the old Larner mansion, where Ring was born, still stands on a bluff along the old St. Joseph River here. A brother, Henry, is a clerk in the Niles postoffice; a sister, Lena, is a Niles music teacher.

Two Given Life For Abducting Girl

Indianapolis Men Found Guilty of Kidnaping.

Terre Haute, Ind., Sept. 26 (AP). Garfield Kelly, 27, and Elmer Davis, 22, both of Indianapolis, were convicted today of kidnaping Miss Evelyn Hyslop, 17, dance hall waitress, and given life sentences.

Miss Hyslop was kidnaped September 8. Her companion, Frank Whalen, was robbed. He was released, but Miss Hyslop was taken to East St. Louis, where she said both men attacked her.

Buying Spurts As Bank Frees Frozen Funds

Firms Cheered, While Tax Bureau Gets Overdue Payments.

Release of $8,000,000 deposits by the merger-created Hamilton National Bank not only greatly strengthens the city's credit structure, but, in the opinion of leading merchants, it has brought Washington to the verge of a trade revival. This was revealed last night in a survey.

The new bank started its second day with $2,500,000 piled on the teller's counters yesterday.

Wilmer J. Waller, vice president and cashier, announced the second day brought another gain in deposits and a decrease in withdrawals. He said "quite a number" of new depositors entered accounts. He added it still was too early to obtain accurate dollars-and-cents figures.

Money paid out has cleared off arrears in taxes, and building and loan notes, improved credit ratings of depositors and merchants, provided stores with funds to purchase additional stocks, as well as into heavy buying of merchandise by individuals.

Trade Revival Seen.

Dorsey W. Hyde, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, discussed the situation with bankers.

"They tell me," he said, "that the type of withdrawals which have been made do not indicate lack of faith, but are indicative of a trade revival. "The money is not going into other banks or hiding places, but into trade."

With the Commercial National Bank adding to the betterment with a $1,200,000 dividend yesterday, and with other banks scheduled to open shortly, Dorsey predicted better times ahead. He said improvement was noted in all financial quarters of the city.

Thousands of dollars from the Hamilton National were paid to C. M. Powers, District collector of taxes. While it was impossible to make an accurate accounting, Powers said, these checks relieved the situation resulting from failure of many to pay property and water levies because of frozen bank deposits.

Old Checks Cashed.

Harry Ostermayer, credit manager of Woodward & Lothrop, received Hamilton checks and was able to cash Federal-American checks which his company had in its vault since March.

"We have many customers who banked with the Federal-American and whose purchases undoubtedly were curtailed by that institution's closing," he said. "I am sure its place in the Hamilton set-up will help a lot in reviving trade."

William P. Littleton, credit manager of the Hecht Co. said Hamilton checks had been sent to that store by "persons who had been unable to make payments on their accounts for months."

The same improving conditions were found at Palais Royal, where A. C. Case, general manager, said he thought sales would show marked improvement in 10 days or so, "when people become accustomed to having money again."

Money Feels Strange.

R. T. Flanagan, collection manager for Mayer & Co., doing a large credit business in furniture, said although he received Hamilton checks both for old debts and new purchases, he expected the real improvement to come "when people get used to their money."

"Right now," he said, "there are some persons banking with Hamilton who are timid because they have been hard pressed, and others who are reluctant to withdraw for fear that might hurt the bank. Of course this fear is unfounded. We expect credit really to loosen up. Indeed, if we get all the payments on old bills which have been promised us with the opening of the bank we shall be well off."

Seabury's Return Stirs N. Y. Politics

Tammany Foe to Confer With Fusion Leaders.

New York, Sept. 26 (AP).—The figure of Samuel Seabury, arch foe of Tammany Hall, was thrust tonight into a confused city political situation.

Master mind of the fusion drive to defeat Tammany, Seabury, prosecutor of the Hofstadter committee, returned from a vacation in Europe, but refused to discuss the possible candidacy of Joseph V. McKee, former aldermanic president.

Met at the pier by Fiorello H. LaGuardia, fusion candidate against Mayor John P. O'Brien, Tammany nominee, Seabury said he would withhold comment on local politics until he has an opportunity to confer with fusion leaders.

Wild Cells!

Unruly Ones Cause Cancer, Says Scientist.

Chicago, Sept. 26 (AP).—Cancers are caused by "daughter" cells of the body running wild, Dr. Rollin H. Stevens, of Detroit, told the American Congress of Radiology today.

Dr. Stevens, president of the American Radium Society, explained that cells in the body are known as "mother" and "daughter." The first have the power of division and produce the "daughter" cells. The second do not divide, but evolve into the higher types of cells which compose the functioning parts of the body.

Cancer occurs, he continued, when the "daughter" cells do not evolve into others, but instead change their type and proceed to reproduce themselves, unnaturally and entirely without restraint.

Paying Starts To Depositors Of Commercial

15,000 Will Benefit as Closed Bank Refunds 20 Per Cent.

Payment of 20 per cent on proved claims against the institution started yesterday at the Commercial National Bank.

On account of rain, the bank opened at 8 o'clock, an hour before the scheduled time. There was no early rush and order prevailed in the lines to the paying cages.

This initial payment on 15,000 active accounts will amount to approximately $1,200,000, but disbursement is being made only on $1,030,601.70. The remainder represents 20 per cent for depositors who have not proved their claims.

Filing of additional claims has been suspended until October 9.

Col. Cooper, 64, To Be Retired

Fort Meade Commander Will Give Up Post Saturday.

Col. Harry L. Cooper, Infantry, for the last three years in command at Fort George G. Meade, will be retired Saturday, it was announced yesterday at the War Department. On that date he will have reached the statutory age limit of 64 years.

Col. Cooper saw service in the Spanish-American War as first sergeant and later as a lieutenant of the Pennsylvania Infantry. In 1900 he was commissioned a lieutenant in the Puerto Rican Regiment of Infantry. He was commissioned in the Regular Army in 1901 and served in the Philippines. His foreign service record also includes Cuba, Mexico and France.

Col. Cooper graduated from the Army War College at Langres, France and served later as commandant of the Second Division Schools at Chatillon-sur-Seine.

Prior to the transfer of the Tank School from Fort Meade to Fort Benning, Ga., Col. Cooper served as commandant and as president of the Tank Board. He holds the Distinguished Service Medal and a Silver Star Citation for bravery.

Upon retirement he expects to live in his new home between Washington and Alexandria, Va.

Emil Ludwig Backs Policies of Hitler

Noted Author in U. S., Says He Has Majority.

New York, Sept. 26 (AP).—The overwhelming majority of the German nation "jubilantly" accepts the Hitler ideals of "race, blood and war worship," Emil Ludwig said today.

The famous biographer of Napoleon and Bismarck, arriving in New York on the French liner Paris, said "Believers in democracy and peace should not blind themselves to the measure of prevalence of the new way of thinking in Germany.

"What is going on there now is not the forcible rule of but a single party. It is rather the overwhelming majority of the nation which jubilantly accepts these principles and is eager to further and uphold them," he said.

Cuban Sugar Mill Is Seized By Red Mob

Activities of Communists Overshadow Fight for Island Power.

Havana, Sept. 26 (AP).—Communist activities overshadowed political developments in Cuba today as Communists paid tribute to Julio Antonio Mella, slain in Mexico in 1928. About 200 Communists seized the Parque Alto sugar mill in Santa Clara Province.

Reports on the labor situation were meagre, but conditions were considered still serious.

The government's forces were augmented by 2,000 members of a student organization. The group was given the status of a civil guard.

Soldiers Carry Red Flags.

More than 3,000 Communists staged a demonstration in Havana at the Ward Line docks, where the remains of Mella were brought from Mexico in two urns draped in red flags.

Soldiers mixed with the crowd, some carrying red banners on their rifles.

At the docks several agitators spoke, assailing the Grau San Martin government. There were shouts of "down with Grau San Martin," and the usual cry of "down with Yankee imperialism."

Authorities at Cienfuegos broke up a demonstration of Communists. One Communist was wounded. Soldiers patrolled the streets.

Agreement Sought.

On the political side, two neutral mediators, Antonio Gonzales de Mendoz and Felix Granados, were attempting to arrange conferences between supporters and opponents of President Grau San Martin.

Dr. Carlos Finlay, secretary of sanitation, left for the United States, announcing he would make certain medical studies before returning to Cuba.

The president signed a decree ordering the 500 officers at the National Hotel to return to duty within three days. The officers have been besieged in the hotel since September 8, refusing to recognize the Grau government.

Woman's Assailant Killed in Louisiana

Victim Riddled by Shots After Confession.

Opelousas, La., Sept. 26 (AP).—John White, young colored man, sought for an attempted attack on a farm matron, was taken from a deputy sheriff today by a group of white men and lynched.

The body, riddled with bullets, was found in a thicket near the scene of the alleged attack. The woman viewed the body and identified the victim as her assailant.

He was captured today near Bristol, La., by a posse, and confessed, officers said.

Boy Killed in Faked Holdup To Cover Up Charged Loan

Chum Shoots Youth in Chest, Not Arm, When He Trembles.

New York, Sept. 26 (U.P.).—Plan by which two New York boys sought to fake a holdup, in which one would be wounded to cover up a $5 debt, ended tragically today with one of the boys dead and the other under arrest.

Joseph Gregorovice, 19, recently borrowed $5 from a neighborhood grocer, and charged it to his parents. He became worried yesterday, fearing they would find out.

Me met his pal, Louis Zeleaka, 17, and begged Louis, who owned a .22 rifle, to shoot him in the arm, so Joseph could tell his parents he had been held up and robbed. They went to the roof of the Zeleaka home.

There, according to the story Louis sobbed out to police, he aimed at his friend's right arm and pulled the trigger.

The bullet struck Joseph in the breast. Joseph was game, however. He told Louis to go downstairs to bed and he would manage to get to a hospital.

Scenic Highway Plan Outlined To U. S. Chief

(Associated Press.)

The groundwork for a broad scenic highway down the Blue Ridge crest from Shenandoah National Park in Virginia to Great Smoky Mountain National Park in North Carolina and Tennessee was laid here yesterday at a series of conferences.

It was suggested a branch of the proposed roadway to Mammoth Cave National Park in Kentucky might be sought later.

Senator Byrd headed a group, including Henry G. Shirley, the State highway commissioner, and James A. Anderson, State Public Works engineer, that presented the proposal to Thomas H. MacDonald, Public Roads Bureau chief.

The highway would be from 350 to 400 miles long and would cost upwards of $15,000,000. Shirley said about half of this amount would be needed for the Virginia link.

It would connect at Jarman's Gap in the southern end of the Shenandoah Park with the 100-mile long Skyline drive, now under construction through the park area.

Shirley and Anderson later discussed legal phases with officials of the Public Works Administration, from whom they hope to obtain funds to build the road.

Rosslyn Gas Firm to Fight Rate Slashes

Files Notice it Will Seek Injunction Against State Order.

Richmond, Va., Sept. 26 (AP).—Counsel for the Rosslyn Gas Co. today notified the State corporation commission it will seek an injunction against the commission's order reducing gas rates it charges in Arlington and Fairfax Counties.

The counsel said the order, issued May 31, 1933, is "confiscatory and has been confiscatory of the property of the Rosslyn Gas Co., deprives the company of equal protection of the law and, further, interferes with and imposes a burden upon and obstructs interstate commerce."

It added that it is in violation of the United States Constitution and therefore "null and void."

Rates Cut 30 Cents.

The commission ordered the company's rates reduced from $1.50 per 1,000 cubic feet to $1.20 for small consumers.

Upon receipt of notification the matter was placed in the hands of Assistant Attorney General Collins Denny, jr., who will represent the commission before the Federal court.

The notice said the company will "file a bill of complaint in the United States District Court for the Eastern District of Virginia against you praying for an injunction to prevent enforcement of the order * * * and will move * * * for a temporary restraining order."

Signed by E. Randolph Williams and T. Justin Moore, counsel for the company, the communication said it had been the intention of the company to appeal to the State Supreme Court.

In the light of a recent opinion in the State Supreme Court, the attorneys said, the Rosslyn company would be limited to "the record certified by the corporation commission."

Under this procedure, the company's counsel contended, it would be without opportunity to present additional evidence, and would not be afforded opportunity to have a judicial determination and findings based upon the independent judgment of the court on questions of law and fact involved.

Judge Lowell "Under Fire" In Ginger Case

Jurist Accused in Crawford Extradition Faces New Charge.

Boston, Sept. 26 (AP).—Federal Judge James A. Lowell, under fire in Congress for his decision involving a colored man wanted in Virginia for murder, today was disclosed as under investigation for his conduct of cases involving the shipment of poisonous ginger extract.

Representative Gordon Browning, of Tennessee, member of a congressional subcommittee, here to receive testimony concerning Judge Lowell, said charges against the jurist had been filed with the congressional committee on judiciary.

Light Fines and Sentences.

"The pure-food interests complained about the manner in which Judge Lowell handled the cases of Max Reisman and Harry Gross, found guilty in the Jamaica ginger cases in this court a few years ago," said Browning. The complaint is based on "the small fines and the small sentences imposed."

Several months ago Congress passed a resolution for action by the judiciary committee to determine whether impeachment proceedings against Judge Lowell should be brought as a consequence of his decision in granting a writ of habeas corpus to George Crawford, wanted in Virginia for a double murder.

Criticized in South.

Judge Lowell's decision, granting the writ because, he said, colored men were not permitted to serve on juries in Virginia, aroused Southern congressmen.

The subcommittee of which Representative Browning and Representative Randolph Perkins, of New Jersey, are members, today heard testimony in both cases. Tomorrow Judge Lowell will be heard.

Horse Found

Abandoned With Wagon on Southeast Street.

Traffic Officer W. J. Lynn discovered the animal yesterday, attached to a green, open wagon, at New Jersey avenue and M street southeast.

Sugar Pact Meets Another Setback

(Associated Press.)

Unsigned, the sugar stabilization agreement remained last night on Secretary Wallace's desk, and there were signs the buffeted pact had encountered another squall.

Officials concerned in drafting the agreement had predicted speedy approval by Wallace and had said it met White House approval and was satisfactory to the State Department.

From Secretary Hull, however, yesterday came the assertion that his department had no authority to "express either approval or disapproval" of the agreement and that it had not attempted to do so.

Injunction Asked in Dispute Over Yorktown Mine Depot

Government Says County Should Drop $10,000 Ejectment Suit.

Norfolk, Va., Sept. 26 (AP).—An injunction to restrain the County of York from prosecuting a $10,000 ejectment suit against Capt. R. S. Crenshaw, commanding officer of the Navy mine depot at Yorktown, is asked in an equity suit filed by the Government in the United States District Court.

The ejectment action is pending before the Circuit Court of York County and is similar to seven such actions filed in the Law and Chancery Court here several years ago by former owners of property now comprising the naval operations base.

History of Case Told.

Those suits resulted in judgments for the defendant naval officers and judgments were sustained by the Virginia Supreme Court. They later were brought in the Federal Court, where the first one tried resulted in failure for the former property owners. This case now is pending on appeal.

The Government's petition for an injunction says York County has brought an ejectment action against Capt. Crenshaw (not personally, but as commanding officer of the mine depot), on the county's claim that certain land in the depot formerly belonged to the county and the Federal Government took unlawful possession of it by Presidential proclamation during the World War.

The 13 tracts of land in question, formerly were roads, but the Government contends they belonged to the State in most part, and they lawfully were taken over by the Government in 1918, and authority was granted by the General Assembly for this.

Although the Government is not a defendant in the ejectment proceeding, it is the real interested party in the action and the prosecution of the action, the bill alleges, will result in embarrassment and heavy costs to the Government.

With these things in mind, the court is asked for a permanent injunction to halt the action and clear the title to the 13 pieces of property involved.

The ejectment suit claims $2,555.55 is due for back rent on the properties involved and $7,444.45 for damages alleged to have been done to them when occupied by the naval depot.

A GREATER BANK FOR GREATER WASHINGTON

O'Connor Tells Ad Group Status of National Institutions.

Total of $270,647,352 was paid depositors in closed national banks between March 5 and September 23, J. F. T. O'Connor, Comptroller of the Currency, told the Advertising Club of Washington at its luncheon yesterday in the Raleigh Hotel.

The comptroller said his department is directing the work of 1,140 receiverships, explained the fallacy of expecting entire deposits of banks in receivership to be recovered and gave details as to the number of licensed and unlicensed banks.

Washington, Comptroller O'Connor said, presents a good idea of the work of his office in reorganization, consolidation and merger of banks.

Merged Seven Banks.

"Here the reorganization division worked day and night for months," he said, "and finally merged seven Washington banks into the new Hamilton National Bank, which made available for depositors in the old banks approximately $9,000,000.

"I regret depositors of the United States Savings Bank did not also take advantage of this merger, which would have made available to them 50 per cent of their deposits. Today there is being distributed to the depositors of the Commercial National Bank more than $1,000,000."

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation, the comptroller said, has cooperated "magnificently" with his office.

Figures Given on Loans.

Since March, 1932, the R. F. C. has made 666 loans to banks in receivership in the amount of $68,409,600, of which $50,636,798.36 actually has been drawn by receivers and used in paying dividends. Of this amount, $40,850,665.41 has been repaid to the R. F. C. as of August 31.

"When approved plans are consummated," Comptroller O'Connor said, "less than two per cent of total deposits will be frozen in national banks. Other banks in hands of conservators either will be reopened through reorganization, consolidation, sale of assets under the Spokane plan, or placed in receiverships before January 1, 1934."

Four Plan Fight On Slaying Charge

Mine Guard and 3 Others Seek Early Hearing.

Waynesville, N. C., Sept. 26 (AP).—Doyle Alley, Waynesville attorney, was retained today to represent Dewey Potter, 34, mine watchman accused of shooting to death Thomas Price, 61, former Union Pacific Railroad executive here Sunday.

Alley said he would ask a preliminary hearing soon for Potter and three others held in connection with the case. They are Clarence Potter, 29, brother of Dewey Potter; Wayne Potter, 14, Dewey's son, and Eric Ledford, 22.

Price was slain as he was riding horseback on Lickstone Mountain, 8 miles southwest of here.

Bad Money

Man Who Found Bogus Coins Furloughed.

Cumberland, Md., Sept. 26 (Spl.).—William E. Davis, 24, formerly of Baltimore, charged with possessing and passing counterfeit money, was put on probation for two years by Judge William Coleman in United States Court. Davis, a boilermaker, jobless three years, found a bag of coins containing about 40 counterfeit half dollars in a box car here.

At first he did not know the money was counterfeit. He had been in jail more than 70 days.

Labor Board Averts Strike By Air Pilots

Fliers Charge Companies Plan Discrimination in Pay Changes.

A threatened strike of plane pilots was averted yesterday, the National Labor Board announced following a conference representatives of fliers and air lines attended.

The pilots protested against a wage scale which was to become effective Sunday. Senator Wagner, head of the board, asked that the scale change be postponed pending consideration of details.

The lines involved are American Airways, Eastern Air Transport, Transcontinental and Western Air, United Air Lines and Western Express. The scale provides an average annual income for fliers of approximately $7,000 for an average of 18 hours a week, or $7,700 for an average week of 21 hours.

Despite the fact that the scale increases pay, representatives of the Air Lines Pilots Association charged yesterday that discrimination was being shown against pilots because of their activity in organizing.

Thomas B. Doe, president of Eastern Air Transport, agreed not to disturb present pay conditions.

Wagner said the board would take immediate steps to obtain similar postponement by other major air line operators.

Wilson Ready To Help Draft Rum Curb Act

Drys Expected to Drop Stand-Off Attitude in District.

A decided change of attitude on the part of many Washington drys, notably leaders of the Antisaloon League, toward the problem of liquor control in the District, may be looked for with legalizing of strong alcoholic beverages.

Drys of the District, for the moment, are of three minds toward questions arising from impending repeal. There are:

2—Those who would remain aloof from all discussion of plans for liquor control here, electing to allow the wets to make laws which the drys hope will prove unsatisfactory, leading to return of prohibition.

Group Favors Action.

3—Those who feel they should take an active part in drafting of a liquor law for the District, taking advantage of every opportunity to hamper consumption of alcohol.

Shifting of the Antisaloon League from sympathy with the first and second groups to a strong stand with the third may be presaged by the statement yesterday by Andrew Wilson, the league's gray-haired, mildly firm president, that he favored participating in discussions of a Washington liquor law, to be held by the Senate District Committee next month.

The league, in its capacity as a federation of church and dry organizations, has been unable to hold a meeting on the question due to the absence from the city of many of its leaders, A. E. Shoemaker, its attorney and chairman of committees on protests and law enforcement, said yesterday.

"I am in favor of doing anything that will keep the public's acquaintance with alcohol down to the very minimum," Wilson said. "I would take advantage of every opportunity permitted to cut down the drinking of liquor."

When the beer bill was adopted last spring, Wilson, while caustically critical, refrained from taking part in the drafting.

It is not unreasonable to expect that the league will follow the lead of its president, who, it will be recalled, was instrumental in bringing about the Jones-Works act of March 3, 1913, whereby the District's liquor consumption was regulated—after a fashion—until arrival of the Sheppard law.

Other Drys May Follow.

Other dry organizations may be expected to follow the Antisaloon League's lead into the council chambers of the Senate District Committee.

Some league members will oppose Wilson's idea of participation in the drafting of any liquor laws. This faction will join with Mrs. W. Hiram Wadleigh, president of the District Chapter of the W. C. T. U., who has announced her refusal to assist in the formulation of any control plan.

It is the avowed intention of this group, according to Shoemaker, to allow the wets a free hand with liquor laws, in the fond hope that the legislators may be tempted to untenable extremes; allowing the wets, in other words, enough rope.

Job Fatal

Miner Killed Minute After He Had Begun Work.

Clarksburg, W. Va., Sept. 26 (Spl.).—One minute after he arrived to take a job in the Pecks Run Coal Co.'s mine on Pecks Run, near Buckhannon, Michael Prince, 58, of Pecks Run, was crushed to death this morning by a fall of slate.

Austria Hears Strike Threat

Socialists Answer Order Segregating Peace Disturbers.

Vienna, Sept. 26 (AP).—Threat of a general strike was issued tonight by Socialists of the shelved Austrian Parliament in answer to the government's decree segregating men suspected of actions against the peace.

An appeal to "the Austrian people" urged citizens unite in a demand the government refrain from carrying out its segregation decree.

Calling attention to the fact the Socialist party and trade unions had reached "grave decisions," the appeal warned Austrians against doubting the determination of Socialists to "defend the democratic liberty of the whole people and the rights of workers to organize."

The appeal was confiscated by the police.

Three Employers Here Face Seizure of Blue Eagles Today

Group First to Face Drastic Penalty for "Chiseling" in Washington; Compliance Board Hides Names to Protect Workers' Jobs.

Summary removal of Blue Eagles from the first three Washington employers charged with violating NRA agreements is expected today.

Gen. John A. Johnston, Compliance Board chairman, yesterday disclosed he would recommend immediate withdrawal of the insignia in all three cases.

He declared the District Recovery Board should be firm in dealing with the first violators to warn others that "chiseling" would not be tolerated.

Invitations Ignored.

The employers ignored invitations to discuss the charges before the Compliance Board, it was learned.

The compliance board took under advisement 11 petitions from employers who claimed their business interests will be imperiled if they are compelled to comply with NRA regulations. Allowances will be made in cases deserving adjustment, it was said.

165 Cases Settled.

Adjudication of 165 other cases was made by Raymond J. Waltef, executive officer of the board, while 52 cases were found unjustified after investigation.

The board will meet again at 2:30 p. m. next Tuesday. Other members of the board are Thomas P. Littlepage, secretary; Richard A. Dickson, Norman Lee Ingalls, Louis Levay, W. W. Everett, Etta L. Taggart and George W. Beasley.

Cooper Fights Woodin Stand On Closed Bank

Accuses Treasury Group of Personal Enmity in Injunction Suit.

Charging certain named officials of the Treasury Department had a "violent personal enmity for him," Col. Wade H. Cooper, president and majority stockholder of the United States Savings Bank, yesterday obtained from District Supreme Court an order requiring six defendants to keep hand-off his bank pending final settlement of his request that assets be kept intact.

The defendants are William H. Woodin, Secretary of the Treasury; J. F. T. O'Connor, Comptroller of the Currency; F. C. Awalt, Deputy Comptroller; W. R. Milford, in charge of local closed banks; W. Irving Shuman and Wilbur H. Zepp, conservator in charge of the United. They are restrained from "selling, pledging, transferring, or in any way, disposing of or encumbering any of the assets of the bank."

They are required to appear in court October 4, before Justice Jennings Bailey, and show cause why they should not be permanently restrained.

Col. Cooper, in papers filed yesterday, said his plan for paying 65 per cent of the deposits now in cash, with 35 per cent amply secured, repuires consent of 75 per cent of depositors and 66 per cent of stockholders. These requirements, he said, could be met, but the plan has been rejected by the Treasury.

The banker charged the "enmity" was aroused "because he dared to assert his rights in this court." He asserted further that the Treasury is threatening to liquidate the bank by having its assets disposed of by the conservator.

"Machine Gun" Kelly.

The Department of Justice may well be proud of the achievement of its Division of Investigation in trailing down and capturing "Machine Gun" Kelly and his associates at Memphis. Through the central information office at Washington all sorts of clews as well as misleading rumors were sifted out, and when Kelly was located the net was spread about him with instant rapidity. He was surprised by armed men, and although he was himself armed he surrendered without a fight.

Like the desperado Harvey Bailey, who did not hesitate to spray unarmed victims with machine-gun bullets, Kelly was meek enough when determined armed men confronted him.

The evidence that Kelly was a leading figure in the Urschel kidnaping case seems to be conclusive, even if he had not sent death threats to the prosecuting attorney and material witnesses. The technicalities of the law nowadays are such, however, that a miscarriage of justice is possible whereby both Bailey and Kelly might escape punishment or be let off with inadequate sentences. The Urschel case has become a test of the ability of the law to cope with criminals of the most desperate and resourceful type.

It can not be doubted that the Department of Justice will carry this case to its just conclusion, and that kidnapers everywhere will take warning.

The Street Car Merger.

Approval by the stockholders of the Washington Railway & Electric Co. and the Capital Traction Co. of the merger of these companies brings to a successful conclusion the long and tedious campaign for consolidation as a necessary prelude to modernized street railway service for the District of Columbia.

The merger will simplify the work of the Public Utilities Commission in bringing about a coordinated transit system, routes modified for greater public convenience, and bus lines adjusted to street car traffic. The new traction company, to be called the Capital Transit Co., will be managed by a board of fourteen directors. It will obtain power from the Potomac Electric Power Co. under a schedule approved by Congress. The transit company will be relieved of the cost of maintaining crossing policemen, as well as certain charges for repaving between tracks.

Under the act authorizing this merger the Public Utilities Commission is given powers which should be effective in developing a new and more satisfactory transit system.

Interstate Cooperation.

Local problems are often carried to Washington simply because facilities for adjusting differences among the States are lacking. Neighboring States frequently enact incongruous laws. The resulting conflict and confusion may lead to the introduction of bills in Congress and a campaign to extend Federal authority over local affairs.

A long step toward solution of these difficulties was taken when the practice of enacting uniform laws on subjects that affect the welfare of all the States came into vogue. By the enactment of similar laws with respect to extradition, traffic, etc., many States have been able to solve their problems without surrendering more power to the Government at Washington.

Another movement of the same general character now seems to be taking form. The General Assembly of Pennsylvania has called an interstate bus and truck conference to meet at Harrisburg on October 20 and 21 to iron out difficulties that have arisen under conflicting traffic laws. Seventeen Northeastern States are expected to participate, with the assistance of the American Legislators' Association. A similar meeting of representatives from 11 Western States has been called at Salt Lake City. Efforts are being made to assemble a third truck and bus conference in the Middle West.

The objective of these conferences will be to harmonize State laws so that commercial vehicles will be able to operate throughout the country without encountering petty inhibitions. If the conferences can also develop uniform regulations for buses and trucks, its work might be an important factor in reducing accidents and establishing fair competition. At any rate, it should be able to end controversies which now frequently impede traffic and encourage profitless reprisals.

Many of the problems confronting the Legislature of Ohio, for example, must also be dealt with in Georgia, Montana and Vermont. An exchange of information between State capitals is often of great service. One State may profit by another's experience. In seeking to bring the lawmakers of the 48 States into closer contact the American Legislators' Association has performed a useful service. That organization is now establishing an interstate reference service to coordinate the work of the various State legislative reference departments. Efforts of this sort not only tend to improve the quality of State legislation, but to divert local measures away from the legislative jam in Washington.

An Unhappy Man.

Sitting in his luxurious office in the City Hall, Mayor O'Brien of New York must sometimes wonder whether it is not all a gigantic frame-up. Rarely has a public official come out of an utterly harmless background to be submitted to "the slings and arrows of outrageous fortune" in the way this gentleman has. He must feel that the entire world has entered into a conspiracy against him.

In the confusion which followed the sudden demise of Mayor Walker, Tammany hauled him out of his obscurity to make him the head of its local ticket. It sent him around making speeches and more speeches, a thing that was alien to him. Surrogate John P. O'Brien tried, and he tried hard.

He told a Negro audience in Harlem how highly he prized the Negroes; he told an Armenian audience on the lower East Side how much American life owed to the Armenians; to an educated audience he described the joys of reading Horace "in the original Greek;" and finally, to New York in general, he declared his platform—"a kiddie in every home."

He meant well; and it was a source of pain and anguish to him that those cynical whippersnappers, the newsmen, took it into their heads to put a comic twist on every lofty thing he said. He was helpless if the cartoonists chose grossly to distort his features every morning and evening. He had tried to be a servant of the people and he was regarded as the prize feature of a circus. Surely, that was not his fault.

After election it grew even worse. The newspapermen, claiming that they were printing his statements verbatim, made such an ungrammatical hash of his utterances that he repudiated them. He was heckled in public city affairs meetings. He wanted just to be left alone, and they went after him and booed him. Surely, he could not help that.

He must now think with jealousy of the days of his predecessor, and of the blaze of glamor and charm that surrounded the office in Jimmie Walker's palmy era. Realizing how all the evils of the administration have fallen in a public shower upon his head, he can console himself only with the adage that "the sins of the fathers are visited upon the children."

And then there is the matter of the bankers' refusal to extend their loans to an almost bankrupt city, followed by the imposition of new taxes on brokerage houses, followed in turn by threats of wholesale financiers' removal to New Jersey—a vicious circle of which he was certainly not the cause.

Worst of all must be his present knowledge that the President is not only deeply interested in the coming city election, but is obviously antagonistic to the present mayor. The heap big chief is frowning upon one of the minor clan chieftains. That must be the most trying thing of all.

Mr. O'Brien is apparently an innocent man. The trouble is that he is too innocent: perhaps he has never discovered just what city government is all about.

The Tampico Disaster.

The extent of the damage wrought by the hurricane at Tampico is not yet fully known, but there is little doubt that scores of persons have been killed and enormous property losses inflicted. The wind, exceeding 100 miles an hour, demolished all except the stoutest structures and piled up the waters of the Panuco and Tamesi rivers, flooding the lower parts of the city to a depth of 14 feet. The storm is believed to have extended 75 or 100 miles into the interior. Shipping at Tampico and along the adjoining coast suffered severely.

The Mexican government is rushing aid and supplies to the storm area. By means of radio and airplanes this succor can be given promptly, thus saving life and preventing further suffering from exposure and hunger. The scene at Tampico is one of heart-rending destruction and desolation.

For the time being the commerce of Tampico is demoralized. This will cause heavy losses, much of it falling upon Americans. But the business of the port is too healthy to be deterred from prompt recuperation. Its people are already at work removing evidences of the terrible visitation of the hurricane.

Women in Industry.

American industry is being organized to reduce the volume of unemployment. Employers are being exhorted to do their part toward putting idle millions to work and increasing wage rates. Yet nobody knows with an approach to accuracy how many people are unemployed at the present time. We know even less about the effect of the depression upon the work and wages of women in industry.

The monthly employment figures published by the United States Bureau of Labor Statistics do not present a separate classification for men and women workers, and the elaborate studies that appear from time to time dealing with the status of women wage-earners are outdated before they appear. Such knowledge as we have, therefore, is either highly impressionistic and colored by prejudice or partial and specialized.

The lack of comprehensive information relating to current employment and earnings of women is particularly felt as industrial codes are framed carrying separate scales of minimum wages for men and women. One recently published tentative code, for instance, sets minimum hourly rates of pay at 35 cents for male labor and 30 cents for female labor in the northern zone, while in the southern zone the scale is 30 cents and 25 cents, respectively.

The Women's Bureau of the Department of Labor has protested against such inequality in hourly rates of pay under codes, alleging that it represents unfair discrimination in some cases. The bureau also points out that women constitute 37.5 per cent of all factory workers. Consequently, if any large proportion of them are paid substandard rates, the increase in purchasing power under the industrial codes will be correspondingly retarded.

Discussion of the problems raised by criticisms of this kind is apt to degenerate into wordy battles in which prejudice takes the place of an objective examination of facts. The temptation to generalize is encouraged because of the difficulties encountered in interpreting such facts as are known. It is impossible to determine the extent of the direct competition, actual or potential, which exists between men and women workers. Furthermore we have no comprehensive current information to show whether men workers have suffered relatively greater losses due to unemployment than have women or vice versa.

The unreliable and partial character of our information is shown by the fact that two Government officials who have an intimate knowledge of conditions in the labor field hold diametrically opposed views concerning the effect of the depression upon the employment opportunities open to women. One believes that they have been discriminated against; the other is convinced that the employer hires and keeps the worker who gives most for the least pay, regardless of sex. The last-named official, although opposing separate hourly wage rates for men and women under the industrial codes, admits that the double wage standard may work to the advantage of women in those cases in which the work is strictly comparable.

There would be less sentiment and more sense in discussions about the position and problems of women in industry, if it were always borne in mind that in the United States business is supposed to be carried on for profit—not with the view of putting women back in the home or taking them from it.

The way banks and municipalities are being urged to accept money by the R. F. C. and P. W. A. makes the average citizen think he had better incorporate himself.

There has been some criticism of brain trust influence, but to date this country has been saved from attempts at half-baked student government.

Zoning the Wild.

From the Boston Transcript.

In the winter, pa likes to grease the harness in the house, where it is warm. But ma says, "All right, pa, you can grease the harness in the house, but you must do it in the kitchen." And when she makes that stick, she has zoned the house.

This is the homely illustration they are using in Wisconsin to explain the new system of zoning counties. It is nothing new that cities and towns are zoned against business in residential districts, but it is a novelty to find a State zoning its counties in the matter of agriculture, forestry and recreation.

The reasoning on which this plan is based is very simple. In Wisconsin 80 per cent of the State is cut-over land, much of this very sparsely settled. It was found that where farmers and other settlers sought to occupy this land there followed a long train of expenses to the county for roads, schools, transportation, &c., which were out of all proportion to the costs for the same in settled areas.

The State made up its mind that there is plenty of good land on good roads in the settled areas and it was not necessary that every settler should set up such a train of public and private costs. To the claim that a man could buy land and do with it what he pleased it opposed the doctrine, through the law and in the courts, that the isolated settler had no such inherent right; that if he injures his neighbor by such use, as in the case of forest fires, or if such use is not in the public interest, as in creating costs which might be avoided, he should be restrained.

That is the philosophy of zoning, and Wisconsin is the first State to enact a law giving county boards the right to zone private land for agriculture, forestry and recreation. Thus an area may be set aside in which only forestry is permitted and farming is not allowed. The purpose is to keep down unreasonable public costs.

Thickly settled New England for the most part would seem to offer a poor field for the zoning of land, yet the idea may find its application even here, where plenty of good farm land may be found in the inhabited areas of many counties which should be settled first. Conditions are not identical, nevertheless back-to-the-farm movements are more or less common everywhere, and it would seem to be quite in line with good business sense to consider that zoning might prove as useful in the country as in the cities, where the zoning system has come to stay.

The Once Over.

NRA AND THE DRUG STORE.

Gen. Johnson is finding the druggists' code a bitter pill. And so are the druggists.

* * * *

The fly in the ointment is a clause providing that standard trade-marked drug products must not be sold at a discount of more than 21 per cent below the maker's price.

* * * *

The druggists oppose it as price-fixing, but the consumers will welcome it as making it possible for them to start out after a bottle of hair oil with a fairly definite idea whether it will set them back 54 cents or $1.

* * * *

The consumer is going to find it a great relief to feel that he can buy a gargle for 62 cents without passing a drug store on the way home and find it offered for 39 cents, with a good book thrown in.

* * * *

Washington has had to provide a separate code for drug stores instead of getting them to come under the general retail code. It all goes to show what has happened to the druggist in this country.

* * * *

He used to be a little side-whiskered man who spent most of his time in a back room making curious compounds, coming out reluctantly now and then to sell a nail file or a box of peppermints.

* * * *

You could have knocked him over with a request for his latest prices on fish hooks, bedroom rugs, etchings, pogo sticks, bathing suits and baby chicks.

* * * *

A drug store was a drug store, not a place where you could get anything from two tickets to a musical show to a set of Dickens, some headache tablets and a bale of hay.

* * * *

In an unwise moment some apothecary put in a soda fountain, and the profession has been going department store ever since, until today he could operate under all the codes so far devised, including the amusement and restaurant.

* * * *

* * * *

The "loss leader" is one of the evils NRA wants to wipe out. This is a system under which a drug store will advertise and sell stomach bitters, ear oil, or what have you below cost in order to lure the cash customers. Gen. Johnson says this must stop.

* * * *

Daily Talk About Books and Authors

THE SHELTERED LIFE

Ellen Glasgow has written the best book of her career. It is a good book because the characters are well drawn, it has intensity like a smoldering flame blazing at last, the style is distinguished, the meditations on life are suggestive, and the tragic climax unforgettable.

It is a study of dull life in a decaying community, where nobody—with one exception—has ambition or breadth of outlook. Nearly all the characters are devoid of intelligence. They have animal cunning and material wants. But they are apparently unaware of the universe or even of the world in which they live.

Now after the animal spirits of childhood have ceased to effervesce, there are only two roads to happiness. One is the road through religion. Nuns as a class are the happiest of all women. And there are plenty of men and women who find in religion not only a comfort but a tremendous incentive to energy.

Another road to happiness is through the intelligence. Joseph Conrad said that whatever might be the correct philosophical attitude, at all events this is a spectacular universe. So long as one is interested in ideas, one can not be altogether unhappy. It is only when one is thinking of oneself that one is sad. Education therefore produces happiness.

The explanation why the characters in "The Sheltered Life" are all unhappy except one, is that none of them has any religion and only one any intelligence.

Tomorrow—The March of Democracy.

By Robert Quillen

In a democracy, where action is delayed until a majority is convinced, all progress is made by compromise.

It is characteristic of our Government never to recognize the seriousness of a situation in the beginning. In every crisis it makes bad matters worse by adopting halfway measures of correction.

It calls for 60,000 troops to win a war that will require a million; it depends on optimistic prophecies to end a world-wide depression; it enlists a corporal's guard to enforce an unpopular law.

It may adopt adequate measures in the end, but delay invariably makes the problem greater and multiplies sorrows that one bold stroke, delivered quickly, could have prevented altogether.

Observe the campaign against "public enemies."

These men were encouraged to become criminals. In effect they were bribed by good citizens who valued a drink more than they valued the Nation's welfare and the safety of their families.

Accustomed to easy money unlawfully obtained, schooled in danger, scornful of the law and the law-abiding, and now deprived of their occupation, these men see no endurable future except in successful crime.

Few of them could hope for more than the wage of unskilled labor, even if they were willing to work. And fewer still could be content in ill-paid drudgery while a life of crime offers rich reward.

They are confirmed criminals. Every one is a potential killer. They are enemies of the whole public in precisely the same sense that Germans were during the war. And they are scattered by the thousands from one end of the land to the other.

What is to be done about them? They grow more daring with each success. Each day's headlines tell of new and bolder outrages, and countless extortions never are reported. In the very nature of things, their crimes will multiply and become more dreadful until they are destroyed.

Present methods of suppressing them have proven shamefully futile. The decent people of America want action. Ask any sound citizen what should be done and you will get the same reply: "Smash them if it takes the whole power of this Government."

The Road Builder.

Oft in the early days they used to smile,
Because he talked so much of better roads;
He saw men trudging many a dusty mile
And wagons rutted with their heavy loads.
He sensed the loneliness of those who dwelt
Near-neighbors, yet as strangers through the fall,
Waiting long months for winter snows to melt
Ere ever friend could venture forth to call.

"Build roads!" his preachment whersoe'er he strayed.
"Let friendships and let commerce find your door.
These will be yours when highways have been laid."
But there were those who shook their heads and said:
"Upon this topic dwells too much his mind.
Always through dust and mud we're doomed to tread.

And cruel isolation, bleak and cold
No longer prisons those a half-year through
Who keep their homes beyond the city fold.
Space has been mastered and the marshes tiled.
For all that mak s life sweet the way is cleared,
And those of us who doubted once and smiled
Boast the broad highways which he pioneered.

ODD FLYING CRAFT.

What's in a name? Adolf Rohrback, the famous German aviation designer, who claims he has developed a new plane that will fly forward, backward, hover in the air and rise and descend vertically, calls his new ship "Umlauffluegel Flugzeug." And it is just that, says the Pathfinder, because it has no propeller, no wings and doesn't look at all like the airplanes you have seen. What it really looks like is your neighbor's old reaper which has suddenly taken to the air. Both locomotion and lifting power are furnished by the revolving reels that take the place of wings. Descent and ascent are regulated by the angle at which these reel-like blades are set.

Along the Potomac

With

Carlisle Bargeron

IT WOULD seem the administration got off to a bad start in the New York mayoralty fight. The reaction has not been at all what it expected, and already it has begun to backtrack, although it still has considerable more backtracking to do if it really wants to disassociate itself.

Bargeron.

Unfortunately for the administration, the first publicity of its plans gave the impression it was more concerned in punishing Boss Curry, who opposed Mr. Roosevelt in Chicago, than in breaking up Tammany Hall. To this end it was planned to put Mr. McKee, who acted as mayor for a while last year, in the race as an independent Democratic candidate. Defeat of the Tammany candidate, Mayor O'Brien, would bring about Curry's displacement as Tammany leader. Tammany as an organization would be preserved, although, of course, the administration, through its award of Federal patronage and alliance with Bronx Leader Flynn, has succeeded pretty much already in confining its influence to Manhattan.

* * * *

ALONG with this went the unfortunate story that the whole was designed to solidify the Roosevelt-Lehman-Farley machine in the State and bring about Jim Farley's election as governor in 1936.

Well, if the New York Times knows anything about the sentiment of the city, it would appear it was not concerned in any such ambitious political plans as these, but that it was directed solely to ridding the city of the Tammany maladministration.

And it had made highly hopeful plans to this end before the administration stepped in. The various anti-Tammany elements had got together on a fusion ticket with Mr. Fiorello LaGuardia as the head and with such close friends of Mr. Roosevelt as Langdon Post and Chief Justice Kernochan, of the Court of Special Sessions, subscribing to it. Mr. Post, indeed, is a candidate on the ticket for borough president at Manhattan.

The dope was that the ticket had Tammany licked. For that matter, there is considerable opinion that this ticket still will win even with Mr. McKee in the field as a third candidate. For McKee to lose with the administration's support would leave Mr. Roosevelt in a ridiculous fix.

* * * *

APPARENTLY realizing on second study that the situation is not all to his liking, the White House already has disclaimed in a statement that Mr. Roosevelt will not interfere in the campaign. To emphasize this hand-offs policy, in fact, he refused to see his good friends, Mr. Post and Justice Kernochan, who came to ask him to lay off.

He will have to go further than this, however, if he really does not want to be tied up with the fight with attendant leadership risks that are involved. For one thing, it is strange he would assume that his refusal to see Mr. Post and Justice Kernochan would be taken as emphasizing his determination to keep out. It would more easily lend itself to the reverse interpretation.

Because, as the situation stands, he has talked freely with Mr. Farley, who is working on the McKee candidacy, and he has refused to talk to two men who want to keep out.

* * * *

AS the situation now stacks up, in fact, Mr. McKee's very entrance into the race will spread the impression that he has Mr. Roosevelt's support. It is not believed, indeed, that he would enter unless he does have some such private assurances.

No one would expect the President, even if he is supporting McKee, to stump the State for him, of course. He would give his support in other ways. By the same token, mere White House statements of denial will not disassociate him from the campaign now.

Most certainly he would never get over the impression that he is disinterested as long as Jim Farley is active. Jim is his Postmaster General and his political manager. Neither is anyone likely to be so naive as to accept an explanation that, "Oh, Jim is simply acting in his capacity as State chairman."

It would seem to be much better for the administration to get entirely in the fight or entirely out.

SUBSIDIZING POETRY.

Those who joined us a year ago in the hope that a way would be found to tide Poetry, a magazine of verse, over its increasing financial difficulties will be glad to know that this brave, little yellow-backed journal's future is assured, says the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Miss Harriet Monroe, of Chicago, who founded it 22 years ago and has been its editor ever since, can now announce that the Carnegie Foundation has provided support which will enable her to go on without worrying about who would meet the bills. Poetry has earned such security by dint of the hardest literary labor. Through its small pages, Miss Monroe presented many unknown names to the world—names like Carl Sandburg, James Branch Cabell, Joyce Kilmer, Vachel Lindsay, Sherwood Anderson and Ernest Hemingway. She founded it primarily in order to give expression to aspiring poets who were without recognition, and she has kept it true to that plan through the years. The Carnegie Foundation awards its subsidy to a thoroughly good cause.

Hull Explains Plan to Recoup Loss on Bonds

Step to Collect Money Abroad Will Have U. S. Aid, Secretary Says.

Secretary Hull yesterday further explained the plan to form a foreign bondholders' committee which would attempt collection of as much as possible of the millions of dollars invested by Americans in defaulted foreign securities.

Declaring government-formed committees of this sort usually encounter difficulties because of public misunderstanding of their functions, the Secretary indicated the committee contemplated will be composed of disinterested private citizens, but that its membership will have government approval.

Officials of the Government, acting in a rather unofficial capacity, would suggest names for membership on the committee, call conferences and in other ways facilitate setting up of the organization, he said.

Bankers who participated in the sale of foreign securities in this country would be barred from membership, Secretary Hull stated.

Members of the Federal Trade Commission have been working with the State Department on the committee organization, contemplated for many months and authorized by the securities act passed at the last Congress.

Secretary Hull said the British plan, which comprised a committee holding a government charter, is also being considered. Definite action may be expected soon, he predicted.

Ebbitt Hotel Sold at Auction

William E. Leahy, Trustee, Pays $120,000 for 11-Story Building.

The Ebbitt, 11-story hotel at the southwest corner of Tenth and H streets northwest, was sold, subject to court approval, at public auction yesterday, to William E. Leahy, trustee, for $120,000. Leahy's opening bid was $100,000, and James O'Donnell, retired capitalist, offered $110,000.

The sale, held in front of the District Supreme Court Building, was advertised by Leahy. Adam A. Weschler was auctioneer.

The hotel of 150 rooms is a concrete, brick and limestone structure, erected in 1924. Howard Etchison was the original owner, as well as builder. Stern & Tomlinson were architects. The building is approximately 64 feet wide and 62 feet deep. Its estimated cost was $150,000. The present assessed value is $330,804. Of this, $160,804 represents land and $170,000 building.

Subsequent owners are listed as Provident Hotel Corporation, Inc., and Mount Vernon Realty Co., Inc.

The 1933-34 bridge season officially made its debut last night at the Federal Clubhouse, 1515 Sixteenth street northwest, when 19 tables began first rubbers under auspices of the National Federation of Federal Employes. Hignett, Fixed Nitrogen; G. A. Wilkins, Patent Office; E. E. Eisenhart, Alastan.

NOW that fellow workers of Theodore (Ted) Waggy, Farm Seed Loan Office, Agriculture, have found he is a qualified aviation pilot, he is receiving more requests for plane rides than a large Zep could handle.

Ted was instrumental in cutting in half the cost of learning to fly in Washington. In 1928, he and 21 other young Washingtonians decided they would learn to fly, but could not afford the $35 per hour fee then charged for dual instruction. So they organized the D. C. Air Legion, bought a plane, cut the tutorial charge to $15 and by 1930 had soloed 57 members and bought another plane.

During this time Mr. Waggy was the chief moving spirit of the group, serving as manager and treasurer. In 1931 the club won the Wilbur Wright Trophy as the most outstanding flying club in the country.

The Air Legion is still active, using a Kitty Hawk plane with an air-cooled motor. Ted also is still energetic in the legion's program.

Railroad Loan To Buy Steel Is Favored Here

Movement of 700,000 Tons Seen as Recovery Aid.

A loan plan for financing a 700,000-ton movement of rails from steel plants to carriers was being drafted last night by administration leaders, to hasten recovery by bolstering credit everywhere.

The plan may propose interest rates so low and terms of repayment so generous that railroads can not afford to overlook the opportunity to replace worn equipment. Interest rates as low as 3 or 4 per cent on $25,000,000 of public works funds are considered.

The loans will run for 10 years, with no interest the first year and perhaps no collateral security.

While Federal Rail Coordinator Eastman discussed the project with Deputy Public Works Administrator H. M. Waite, Recovery Administrator Johnson, from a hospital room, kept check on recovery progress. He approved nine codes and took others under advisement.

Johnson to Return.

Early agreement of the retailers and druggists code was predicted, although a battle continued to rage around the "stop-loss" clause.

Codes sent the President included the lime, building supplies, optical manufacturing, textile machinery manufacturing, electrical battery manufacturing, advertising specialties, women's belt manufacturing and the knitting, braiding and wire-covering machinery manufacturing industries.

Deputy Administrator Simpson and General Counsel Richberg conferred with coal operators from western Kentucky and Alabama who have held aloof from the bituminous coal code because of opposition to minimum wage rates. Yesterday was the deadline set for them to come in.

The Kentucky group yesterday offered minimum wage rates of $4 for inside work and $3 for outside. The Alabama group also made overtures.

The administration is awaiting a code agreement from the anthracite industry.

Retail Code Indorsed.

The retail code's price-fixing provision appeared a matter that Gen. Johnson will have to settle. Deputy Administrator Whiteside said yesterday that 62.5 per cent of letters and telegrams received by the administration approved provisions of the code, and over 90 per cent specifically indorsed the stop-loss feature. This requires retailers to sell 10 per cent above wholesale price.

Talk of hastening the spending of the $1,600,000,000 allotted by the Public Works Administration continued yesterday and gave rise to reports the President may make a personal request for speed.

Meanwhile, the National Advisory Committee on Subsistence Homesteads announced that the $25,000,000 provided by the President for moving families from industrial areas to farms will only finance an "experimental" move. Chancellor Phillip Waltner, of the University of Georgia, yesterday urged a national movement.

Delayed Trial Of Krol Seen

Crowded Dockets Likely to Defer $161,000 Shortage Case.

Winchester, Va., Sept. 26. (Spl.) Max Krol, former vice president, treasurer and general selling agent of the Arthur G. Jones Woolen Mill here, who is under five indictments in connection with an alleged shortage of $161,000 in accounts of the company, probably will not go to trial before the November term of Winchester Corporation Court, it was learned from Commonwealth Attorney Reardon.

The prosecutor said that all courts of the judicial circuit presided over by Judge Williams, of Winchester, of which the Corporation Court is a part, have exceptionally crowded dockets and he did not believe the case possibly could be heard until November or probably December.

Krol, who is in jail here, has made no effort to obtain bail or counsel. He claims to be in ill health and frequently has been attended by Dr. B. B. Dutton since being brought here from Mineola, Long Island, Saturday.

Father of 13 Killed.

Legion to Plan Country-Wide War on Crime

National Convention Will Study Attack Methods at State Request.

Chicago, Sept. 26 (AP).—A plan for the American Legion to fight crime through its thousands of posts was added today to the subjects for discussion at the national convention next week.

National Commander Louis A. Johnson announced 10 States have petitioned for the organization to open war on racketeering, kidnaping, robbery, and other crime.

"A tour over 105,000 miles of the country has shown me that the Legion is the police department, as well as the chamber of commerce, in hundreds of smaller towns."

He indicated, however, that the national convention would suggest to posts that they watch colsely the effectiveness of police rather than enter into chasing criminals themselves.

Johnson said he was convinced the Legion would reassert its program for national defense, oppose recognition of Soviet Russia, urge checks on the spread of communism in the United States, and adopt the program for veterans' rehabilitation.

Best Policed City, Harrisonburg Title

Force Increased and Patrol Car Is Added.

Harrisonburg, Va., Sept. 26 (Spl.).—Harrisonburg will be Virginia's best policed city after October 1.

Rebating Charged On Federal Job

Norfolk, Va., Sept. 26 (AP).—John E. Rapelye, U. S. Engineer in charge of constructing the new Federal Building, was investigating today a charge that a bricklayer foreman had been taking a dallar a day from the pay of the men.

The matter came to a head when 58 men quit yesterday.

Officers today said this is not the first time charges of rebating had been made on Government work, and that work done at Langley Field, where a similar charge was made, is being investigated.

New Fountain Pen with Adjustable Point

Whatever point is best adapted to your personal handwriting, you frequently require a finer or a broader one. A very fine line makes for clearer book-keeping on checks, and a very broad one prints the address labels more effectively.

The new Eversharp adjustable point fountain pen writes nine ways. An adjuster slide on the point of the pen controls the size and flexibility of the point. When this slide is nearest the point, you have a fine firm line. Each notch toward the barrel gives a point of increasing flexibility and heavier line.

This pen comes in red, green, and black, and in three sizes, $5, $7.50 and $10. Come in and adjust one to your particular writing. It will prove invaluable.

Beautiful Girl Rare as June Day, Says Authority

New York, Sept. 26 (AP).—Beauty, be it skin deep or not, is as rare as a day in June, if John Robert Powers knows his subject.

And his subject is lips and hips and eyes and kindred things. He's a man who earns his daily bread selecting faces for advertising posters.

Mr. Powers speaking:

"A really beautiful girl who poses for advertisements can now earn as much as $200 weekly. But real beauty is scarce."

His subjects come from everywhere. He keeps their pictures in an album—the kind that once was seen in every parlor—and when an advertiser wants a certain type Mr. Powers supplies her for the photographer.

The ideal is smart elegance, he says. And 22 is a good age for the work. Their beauty must be irresistible and he says the chances are 100,000 to one against a girl having irresistible beauty.

New Philippine Governor General Has Sister as Hostess.

The tropical uniforms of the Army, Navy and Marine Corps have added much color and interest to the many entertainments in honor of Mr. Frank A. Murphy, the new Governor General of the Philippine Islands.

One of the most colorful events of the season was the recent reception in honor of the Philippine Legislature, when the butterfly-like mestizo dresses of the Filipino women mingled with the laces and chiffons of the European gowns. Mrs. Teahan wore an adaptation of the native dress, in yellow, as she greeted the local legislators and their wives. She was assisted in receiving by Mrs. Manuel Quezon, wife of the Senate President, and by Speaker and Mrs. Paredes. The celebrated "rigodon" was danced by a group of the officials.

First Lady's Humane Efforts Recall Crusades of Others

The interest shown by Mrs. Franklin Roosevelt in wiping out unfair conditions in the employment of women in "sweat shops" and other industries, recalls activities of other women of the White House along these lines.

When Miss Helen Taft, now Mrs. Frederick Manning, was a debutante, she devoted many hours to this work and was an expositor at an exhibition of "sweat shop" goods, and of goods made under the proper conditions, on F street, during the campaign carried on by the Consumer's League.

Mrs. Grover Cleveland inquired into the source of every article she purchased as to whether it was of the class to be made in sweat shops. She also fixed a schedule of wages for the home sewing women by the day, which was strictly adhered to by women of official circles of that day, and raised the wages of sewing women in private homes to a living wage.

The late Mrs. Frances Bowes Sayre, as Miss Jessie Wilson, cooperated with the efforts of her sister, Miss Margaret Wilson, to make the buying women of the country show responsibility for the conditions under which the goods they purchased were produced.

Shop Inspires Fall Planting Of Shrubbery

Now Is the Time to Plan Beautiful Foliage For Next Year.

By Ruth Anne Davis.

Just as the spring of the year brings with it pruning and planting, fall acts as an inspiration to set out the roses and evergreens that will show to such advantage many months from now, when the cold weather gives way to a warmer season.

A downtown horticultural expert is offering for sale this week the finest quality rose plants, and all kinds of evergreens. He will advise you about setting them out and caring for them during the winter.

Don't forget, if you have plans for a lovely garden next spring, now is the time for your shrubs. And even though your flower beds can't blossom forth for months to come, you can at least enjoy a bounty of evergreens.

And as for the velvety lawn you may be counting on, it's the proper time to begin on that. Don't fail to make inquiries, here and now.

You may never have tried it; nay, may never have heard of it, but the chances are if you do either you'll make it a permanent toilet item. It's this French dentifrice on sale in a Connecticut avenue store. It has a most unusual taste, which you can't help liking, and as for the scent — how describe a scent in so many words? You couldn't say it's sweet—it isn't. And yet it has an aromatic fragrance that suggests a cross between vanilla and mint. At any rate, the most satisfactory means of finding out all about it is to drop by the shop and see for yourself.

There's no use spending a lot of money on traveling if you can't do it in the proper fashion. And that means having the proper outfit, nice looking luggage and the little luxuries that make a trip a pleasure.

First and foremost in this regard is the traveling iron. There are all kinds of them, all sizes, all shapes, but you never saw one so completely equipped for a trip as the one in a G street store. It comes in a little leather case with the cord neatly tucked in alongside. The handle is bound with straw to make it easy to handle, hard to slip, and burn proof.

A working man's best friend and worst enemy is his alarm clock. It startles him out of a sound sleep and snoring crescendos, brings him back from a fourth dimensional estate to a work-a-day world. But it pries him out of bed with undeniable promptness and starts him off on his day's business. No matter how far into the night he may have dined and danced, he can depend on the alarm clock to set him on his feet the next morning.

We might even go so far as to say that among the first twentieth century robots to appear was the alarm clock. Which brings us to the pith of the paragraph: Some very nice ones in rose, bronze, blue and green, mounted on little pedestal bases, are on sale in a downtown store for 89 cents. They used to be $1.29.

No matter how nice your ironing board is, how much you paid for it, and all that, it won't be satisfactory without the proper kind of cover. Those we're accustomed to throw together are little more than makeshift affairs. They're a lot of trouble. Besides, why bother when you can buy both the covers and pads, all done up in a neat little package, for 65 cents. They're made to fit the ordinary standard size board.

It looks as though we're going to be beautiful or know the reason why. An F street store is giving lessons, free of charge, on the art of make-up. We gather in a semi-circle around the dressing tables and the instructor stands in the middle and tells us what to apply, when and why. And then we proceed to do it. At the end of the lesson, we not only should have accumulated a goodly store of beauty lore, but see it bringing results on our countenances.

For fear some of us more absent-minded ones will leave and forget just which cream or lotion came first and do the whole thing backwards after we reach home, the instructor presents written directions which act as a sure guide.

It's not only worth hearing about, it's worth seeing, this double-duty coat in a large department store. Wear it with the brown corduroy side up and you have a model top coat. In rainy weather, reverse it, and lo and behold, you have the ideal cravenette trench coat. For campus wear, or for traveling, you can look the town over and find nothing which will be more serviceable. It's heavy enough to be worn on chill days when you don't want to risk the elements with the new fur coat.

What's in Fashion?

Bright Accessory Sets Make Dramatic Touches

Directed by AMOS PARRISH

Information as to where styles of the type illustrated and their variations are available in Washington will be given by the Fashion Department, The Washington Post, on request.

It certainly is the fashion to "get together" this fall. Everybody cooperating with everybody else. And it's just as much a fashion in clothes. Witness those gay, bright accessory sets which are putting drama into new dresses, suits and unfurred coats.

Sets of two's, three's and even four's of hat, bag, belt, gloves, scarf, jacket, jewelry. No longer just a hat and any gloves and bag. But a hat, gloves and bag in the same color and of the same material.

The color is often quite bright—sapphire or pansy blue, wine red, rust, bright green. Sometimes it's dark . . . black or brown . . . when the dress or suit is bright.

Sets of Velveteen.

Velveteen is a fine material for such sets. It takes to these bright colors like a duck to water. Beret, scarf and gloves; sailor collar, gloves and handbag . . . they're all good choices to make in velveteen.

Corduroy makes sets of jackets, beret and gloves that look fine with a wool or silk tailored dress. A hat and scarf of tweed is another satisfactory combination. And so are sets of knitted wool or angora to wear with your sport things.

Contrast Materials.

And the trick is not to match the material of your costume in these accessory sets, but to contrast it. To use satin on rib crepe or wool, for example. And velvet, velveteen or corduroy on wool or silk.

And, of course, you can have more than one set for your costume and vary your looks as you like.

Gray and Green.

For instance, if you have a gray outfit, a set of bright green velveteen gloves, scarf and hat would go with your gay moods. Then when you still want to look bright but slightly less so, wine red makes a fine combination with your gray.

And for your still more sober but none the less smart hours, try brown accessories.

If you're handy with your needle or sewing machine you can even make some of these accessories yourself. For the pattern companies have designed sets of hat, scarf and gloves and it takes only an afternoon to run up the three items.

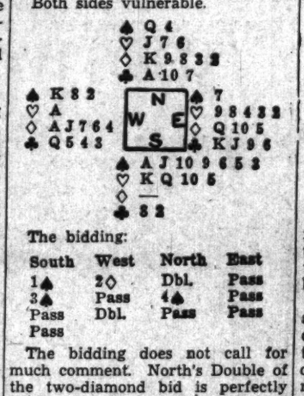
Culbertson's Bridge

Cutting off Communications.

Unusual plays in Contract Bridge do not occur as frequently as they used to. Nowadays most plays are more or less standardized, and plenty of rules have been laid down to allow a player to recognize a certain situation. However, there are still certain times when a player can make a play which does not fall into any particular category. I am not sure what the following play should be called, except that it is an example of a play to shut off communication.

South, Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.



The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1♠	2◇	Dbl.	Pass
3♣	Pass	4♠	Pass
Pass	Dbl.	Pass	Pass
Pass

The bidding does not call for much comment. North's Double of the two-diamond bid is perfectly sound, but obviously South can not allow it to stand. His distribution is so freakish that it suggests an attacking attitude rather than a defensive one. West's Double looks like a good gamble as he holds what seem like three sure tricks and several possibilities of another one.

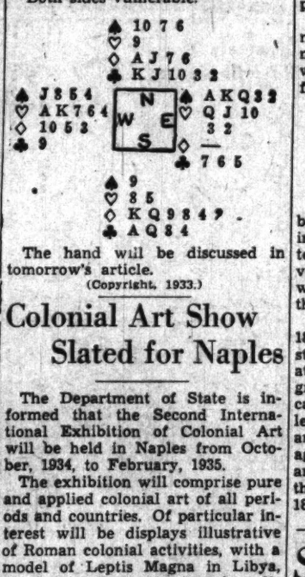
The Opening lead was the Ace of hearts, after which West shifted to a club. This trick was won with the Dummy's ace and the Declarer paused to consider the situation. He could take the spade finesse immediately but this was almost certain to lose. West's unusual Opening of the Ace of hearts looked like a singleton and it also seemed as though the King of clubs lay with East. If this were the case, a spade finesse would immediately put West in the lead and would allow him to lead a club over to his partner. Then a heart could be ruffed for the setting trick. Of course, this danger was present only if West held three spades, but the Declarer saw no reason for not providing for the worst possible distribution. To trick 3, therefore, he led the King of diamonds and discarded his losing club. Now no matter what West chose to lead he could not obtain more than one more trick with the King of trumps.

It is apparent that Declarer's safety play was very necessary. If he had led trumps immediately the exact thing which he feared would have happened and he would have been defeated one trick.

Tomorrow's Hand.

If East is doubled at a contract of four hearts, should he redouble or not?

East, Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.



The hand will be discussed in tomorrow's article.

Colonial Art Show Slated for Naples

The Department of State is informed that the Second International Exhibition of Colonial Art will be held in Naples from October, 1934, to February, 1935.

The exhibition will comprise pure and applied colonial art of all periods and countries. Of particular interest will be displays illustrative of Roman colonial activities, with a model of Leptis Magna in Libya, displays of the activities of medieval Venice, Genoa, Rhodes, the Dodecanes and the modern Italian colonies in Africa. There will be sections devoted to architecture, books, prints and maps; to missionary activities and to handicrafts, with exhibits of textiles, costumes, rugs, mats, jewelry and other articles.

The sale of many of the articles displayed will be permitted.

Ethiopia's Emperor Gives Processional Cross to Cathedral

An interesting addition to Washington Cathedral's collection of processional crosses is one sent by the Emperor of Ethiopia, in response to a prayer read in Bethlehem Chapel at the time of his coronation. It is of silver, plated with gold, 21 by 26 inches in size. The cross is engraved with intricate designs of small crosses at the top and on the two arms. On the face of the cross is inscribed: "Haile Selassie I, Emperor of Ethiopia, has presented this to Washington Cathedral, 1930."

This gift of a ruler, thousands of miles away from Washington, who claims descent from King Solomon and the Queen of Sheba, is carried in many processions at Washington Cathedral.

Shrine Raised To McGuffeys, Pupils' Guides

Original Works of Famous School Book Authors Preserved in Ohio.

Oxford, Ohio, Sept. 26 (AP).—The McGuffey Readers, heirloom of the Little Red Schoolhouse era, are being preserved for future ages in a shrine to their authors recently established here.

Reminiscent of the bygone days when country schoolmasters with hickory rods helped guide the destinies of the pupils who sat on hewn oak logs, a museum here contains the original works of two brothers who figured in the country's educational life for three-quarters of a century.

Many who still recall the imposing picture of Napoleon on his charger which graced the cover of the Third Reader believe one man was author of the "McGuffey Electic Readers." But the First, Second, Third and Fourth Readers were compiled by William H. McGuffey, once a professor in Miami University here and later president of Ohio University at Athens, Ohio.

Museum in Old Hotel.

The museum here has been established in a building that served as the town's hotel in the days when the McGuffeys were editing their works.

In it is furniture used by the family while in Oxford, placed as nearly as possible in the same location as the recollection of relatives permits. On the walls are many of the elder McGuffey's favorite pictures. Scattered about are books he liked and used.

Specific articles are the study table used by William H. McGuffey, his spectacles, the family Bible, letters and correspondence, his bed with its corn-husk mattress, bits of fancy work done by Mrs. McGuffey and the old bell that summoned to classes the students of Female College, predecessor to Western College for Women.

Books Built Character.

Moral lessons that still linger in the memories of some were taught by the McGuffey Readers. The McGuffeys believed their books should be character-building, as well as educational; should teach patriotism, honesty, industry, temperance, courage, politeness and other virtues.

Many stories were included in the readers similar to those about the lame dog which, after being cured, brought another lame dog to be doctored; of the kind boy who released his caged bird, of the cruel boy who drowned the cat and tortured flies by pulling off their wings and legs, and of the idle boy who talked with the busy bees, dogs and horses and reformed himself.

Of course, there was the story of George Washington and the cherry tree, and the "snow dog" of Mount St. Bernard.

First Appeared in 1836.

The first and second readers appeared in 1836 and the third and fourth readers the following year. A higher reader, "McGuffey's Rhetorical Guide," was published in 1841. In 1854 the entire series was revised into six books. There were five revisions up to 1901, when the new McGuffey readers appeared.

The modern method of teaching the mastery of words was not employed with the earlier readers.

The pupil spelled each word by naming the letters and then pronounced each syllable and then the word, as in the following stanza from the edition of 1844:

"I like to see a lit-tle dog,
And pat him on the head;
So pret-ti-ly he wags his tail

Both Brilliant as Educators.

The elder McGuffey, William, was born in Washington County, Pa., in 1800, and died in 1873. Besides teaching at Miami and Ohio Universities, he also taught at Woodward College, in Cincinnati, and at the University of Virginia.

Alexander McGuffey was born in 1816 in Trumbull County, Ohio, and studied Hebrew under his brother at Miami University. After being graduated at the age of 16 he became a professor at Woodward College. While teaching he studied law and was admitted to the bar at the age of 21. It was in his leisure as an attorney that he contributed to the McGuffey readers. He died in 1896.

Senator Davis Never Forgot New Suit He Couldn't Accept

Senator Jim Davis, of Pennsylvania, had the distinction of serving three Presidents as Cabinet officer—Harding, Coolidge and Hoover. Once addressing a group of women, Jim Davis told this story of his early life.

He spoke of his early days as a child laborer in the coal mines of West Virginia. Little Jim was only eight, but he went to work in the mine just the same. The Davis home was poverty stricken, but it was neat and clean, and Mrs. Davis kept Jimmie's one pair of trousers well patched and neat.

A richer neighbor liked Jimmie's bright eyes and singing of old Welsh songs, so she bought him a blue serge suit as a surprise. She gave it to him and insisted that Jimmie put the garments on at once. He ran home to show them to his mother. That Spartan woman told him: "Jim, we are poor, but we are not beggars. You will wear the clothes you earn. Thank the lady kindly, but tell her you can not accept the suit."

With lagging steps, little Jimmie, in the patched trousers, set forth to return the wonderful, new raiment. In after years, he became the Beau Brummel of officialdom, but, to himself, he never felt as well dressed as he had been in the suit of charity his independent mother would not permit him to accept.

Widow Outsmarts Scheming Diplomat

Rich Mrs. Leiter Finds Him Easy to Put in Place.

The late Mrs. Levi Z. Leiter was a woman of great common sense as well as great wealth. After her husband's death she lived almost entirely in Washington and often entertained diplomats at her hospitable board. One diplomatic guest with an eye perhaps to her teeming gold bags asked, "Is this house yours or your children's?"

Question of like import followed upon question until Mrs. Leiter very properly became rather irritated. Then she said quietly: "Yes, this house is mine; so are my jewels, my art treasures and my mind is my own, too, and it is all of it going to remain mine."

The diplomat departed soon afterward in search of a rich American widow who did not know her own mind quite so well.

I Will Not Be Alone.

By Katherine W. Smith.

I will not be alone tonight
Although no other feet than mine
Will rest upon my hearth, no eyes
Will watch the fire twist and climb
Into the chimney. I may reach
To touch a hand that should be near
And find it not, or I may speak
And question, though no one will hear.

I will not be alone, for I
Have memories that I can share
With you. My hearth is sanctified
Because your feet have rested there.

Cream and Oil Put Quick End To Blackheads

30 Per Cent of Women Suffer Blemishes That Can Be Cured.

Thirty per cent of all the women in the world suffer from a skin disfiguration known as blackheads. Blackheads can be prevented and they can be cured.

To prevent them, it is necessary to give scrupulous attention to skin cleanliness, from the early twenties onward. For the normal, healthy skin, occasional soap-and-water scrubbings are helpful, combined with constant use of mild lubricating cream. For the more sensitive skin, cream cleansings alone must suffice.

Cream Demands Care.

In using cream it is necessary that it be removed entirely when it has served its purpose. Especially must it be wiped completely away from those large-pore areas on the tip and sides of the nose, at the curve of the nostrils and across the chin. These surfaces, together with the armpits, inner elbow and soles of the feet, throw off more waste than any other skin area.

Eminent skin authorities now preach against the one-time-advocated practice of leaving cream on the skin overnight. They say the skin, to function perfectly, must be kept clean and must have opportunity for throwing off waste.

At the base of each pore is a tiny oil sac. By contracting and relaxing the muscles at the mouth of the pore, these sacs pour oil in infinitesimal but constant flow to the surface of the skin. This process cleanses the skin and keeps it moist, fresh and youthful.

Don't Clog Pores.

When the pores are clogged with cosmetics by day and a layer of cream by night they can not function. The oil sacs stagnate from inactivity, dirt seeps into the pores, is not rejected as nature intended and the blackhead results. It is simply a rooted accumulation of plain dirt. And it is one not easily removed once it achieves foothold. Ordinary methods of washing or cleaning will not remove blackheads.

To meet this problem a Washington beauty establishment gives a blackhead beauty masque treatment, which, in three sittings, is guaranteed to remove the accumulation from every facial pore. After that it is up to the individual to keep the pores cleansed and toned so that they perform their nature-appointed duty.

How It's Done.

In removing blackheads the operator first cleanses the skin thoroughly, then applies a stimulating cream to create vigorous circulation. Hot packs are applied to the skin to soften the blackheads, after which they are removed by expert fingers. Hot oil is liberally applied and a nourishing cream smoothed on and wiped away. Then a special masque is applied, which tightens the perfectly cleansed pores and draws away inflammation and redness engendered by the blackhead-removing process.

Even one such blackhead treatment brings a wonderfully clear, fresh tint to the skin and vitalizes the pores until they begin of their own accord to do their work.

"While we speak of 'closing the pores' in our beauty treatments, really we never do such a thing," the expert said. "The normal, healthy pore is an open pore, yet not a large pore. The function of cleaning and vitalizing the skin is to 'normalize' the pore. If our facial pores were closed, I am afraid the effect would be too awful to contemplate. We would have pimples, acne, eczema, blackheads—the whole almanac of skin eruptions."

The Family Marketer

Hominy, Mush, Scrapple Make Good Breakfasts For Cool Days.

With the advent of cool weather, breakfast foods take on an interesting aspect. In the first place, there's hominy, an old-fashion favorite that's apt to please every member of the family.

It will be in favor with the housewife because of its price, which fits in well with any budget. For 15 cents she can buy a quart, which should be enough for several servings. A hominy breakfast usually calls for sausages, fried temptingly crisp. They're 23 cents a pound in link form, or 20 cents for the meat.

Besides hominy, there's corn meal mush, recommended so many years ago by Benjamin Franklin, who told his friends there was "no better brain food." We're likely to smile a bit at this, but even so, we admit it has healthful qualities and is a general breakfast favorite.

You buy it by the cake, 15 cents for three pounds, and either slice it and fry, or eat cold with milk.

The hard-working man who likes a hearty breakfast may find scrapple just what he wants. Its meal and ground pork contents lend themselves very nicely to frying. Served with eggs and toast, you have a substantial meal.

Ham Another Favorite.

Meat dealers are having large sales on ham. It's a general favorite, sliced thickly, and baked with plenty of pineapple. Some prefer it cooked in milk. You may buy it sliced for 40 cents a pound. If you want it for frying, remember the slices should be thin, and for baking, very thick.

In choosing your slices, remember the ones well bordered with fat are likely to be the best in the long run.

Bananas, which have been scarce on the market for some time, now are beginning to come in plentifully. We can always count on them for delicious salad fill-ins, as well as for desserts, and best of all, they're splendid items for the school child's lunch basket.

Red Cabbage Coming.

The latter part of the week will see red cabbage on the market. As long as we shall be paying 12½ cents for it we should keep a good recipe in mind. Here's a real fancy one, called Red Cabbage a la Montargis: Divide two red cabbages in four pieces. Remove the core and the hard stalks from the leaves; mince finely, wash and drain. Place in saucepan half a pound of butter, and half a pound of bacon cut in quarter-inch squares. First blanch them and let them fry in butter. Add the cabbage, salt, pepper, and nutmeg. Moisten with a pint of broth and a gill of brandy.

Have six sour apples, peel, round, and core them with a tin tube, five-eighths of an inch in diameter. Lay them in with the cabbage, and cover the top with a buttered paper. Cook in slow oven for two hours and a half. Just when ready to serve, remove the fat and dress the cabbage in the center of a dish with apples around, arranging a small sausage between each one.

Lima Beans Are Back.

Lima beans surprised most everyone by returning to the market today for 40 cents a quart. Maybe the ostracism of the past few days did them good.

Mrs. Murphey John Foster, of Franklin, La., sends us this suggestion for cooking artichokes—which, by the way, are still 15 cents apiece! Cut top of artichokes off even. Run cold water through them, spreading the leaves somewhat. Drain, and then pour olive oil, or whatever oil you prefer, through the leaves. Boil as usual, adding several slices of lemon, much salt, and garlic.

It sounds interesting, doesn't it?

Celery cabbage is on hand today. According to a vegetable dealer, many people choose this variety because it can be cooked without spreading an aroma far and wide over the house. That's always a consideration which apartment dwellers, particularly, are interested in.

Even a Senator Couldn't Get Gay With This Lady

Former Senator Reed Smoot, of Utah, is noted for his gravity and dignity and is most circumspect in his speech.

He likes to visit the Washington Zoo with a small grandchild or two in tow. One day they were watching a parrot named Helen, which had become acquainted with the senator through a habit he had of scratching her head when she poked it through the bars of her cage. The senator laughingly said: "Come now, Helen, give me a little kiss."

Helen backed away, ruffled her feathers and screamed at the former literary censor of the Senate: "No, no, no. You go to h——. You go to ——."

The shocked senator retreated and is said never to have visited Helen's cage again.

What Today Means

"Libra."

If September 27 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9 to 10:10 a. m., from 4:30 to 5:40 p. m., and from 6 to 7 p. m. The danger periods are from 11 a. m. to 1 p. m., and from 8 to 9 p. m.

Influences operating on this date will more than likely be of a distracting nature. You will find it difficult to keep your mind on your work and unless you strive for alertness you will be left far behind when the day's profits are counted. Office help will be on their toes and prompt in carrying out orders; people waiting on the public in various capacities will be courteous and eager to please.

The child born on this September 27 will early in life begin to do its own thinking. It will not be hesitant about expressing its views either, even when it knows they run contrary to those of its parents. Not a disobedient little one, but a child likes to have its own way. Truthful and fearless.

If September 27 is the date of your birth, you are a very companionable person and an addition to almost any kind of a party. You have considerable moral courage and you refuse to bow to the public will because that is an easy way out of a situation. You have high ideals, and you stick to them, even in the face of ridicule. You have a good sense of humor and a keen appreciation of the ridiculous. As a cartoonist or caricaturist you could make a name for yourself. You probably have some artistic talents, possibly as a painter or pencil sketcher, and if you do not play some instrument you are at least deeply interested in music.

Born on September 27, your shrewd and analytical mind, coupled with a great desire to bring people to your way of thinking, would probably stand you in good stead should you seek admission to the bar. You interest yourself in the problems of other people and wherever there is a tangle of some kind, there you are usually found trying to straighten it out. Long hours of work do not phase you at all, as long as you are at something that appeals to you. You are an aggressive person, you are quick to see defects in the other person's armor and you do not hesitate to take advantage of the breaks that come your way, even if a move on your part spells disaster to the other. You believe that each one should be able to fight his own battles and take care of himself so you play the game hard and play to win.

Women Happy With Victorian Styles' Return

Frills and Furbelows Are Approved; New Coiffures Are Appearing.

There's more than one reason why women are singing the praises of the new Victorian mode. Not only does it enable us to enjoy our food without fear of added curves but, for the first time in years, it sanctions the frills and furbelows that every woman enjoys wearing.

In keeping with this tendency, coiffures are becoming more charmingly feminine than ever. The sleek wide waves that have covered fashionable heads are giving way to masses of crisp curls at the sides and back. When combined with the roguish new "high hats" that tilt forward over one eye, the effect is irresistible. Best of all, it is becoming to almost every type.

If nature has endowed you with naturally curly hair, a smart new trim will solve the season's hair problem for you. But if you rely upon permanent waves, as so many women do, make sure the ends are curly enough to enable you to achieve one of the new ringlet coiffures.

Without Machinery.

Whether you need a new wave all over your head or just at the ends, you can have it done quickly and comfortably the new machineless way. This method utilizes a clean, odorless vapor instead of machinery or electricity. Your hair is rolled in little scientifically prepared pads that heat automatically for a few minutes and then cool. At no time are you tied down or attached to any machinery.

What should be a crowning glory is a crown of thorns to many a girl. With all the aids to hair beauty that science and the beauty profession have in recent years contrived, we still hear the feminine wail, "I can't do a thing with my hair."

It's amazing how much a smart new haircut or a fashionable coiffure can do for a head of hair that is plain and uninteresting looking.

Conley Files; Fights Ritchie With 15 Points

Annapolis, Md., Sept. 26 (Spl.).—Dr. Charles H. Conley, of Frederick, who recently announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for governor, today filed certificate of his candidacy with the secretary of State here.

Simultaneously, Dr. Conley, through his political agent, Charles C. Jones, of Kensington, distributed a 15-point program that will be made the basis of his campaign. This was sent to party men throughout the State.

Would Cut Costs.

The program calls for drastic reduction in the cost of government, constitutional limitations upon the tenure of office of the governor, wide dissemination of detailed statements of the expenditures of State funds, reorganization of the State roads commission "to divorce it from politics," establishment of a public utilities commission "in the interests of the public," creation of an improved State banking system, reassessment of property to accord with present values and a compulsory audit of all State funds.

Also conservation and development of the natural resources of the State; popular election of the State treasurer, now selected by the Legislature; appointment of judges "only after proper recommendations of bar associations and a thorough personal investigation, rather than from political considerations"; decentralization of the State Government; maintenance of "a useful State health service, without frills;" high school standards without waste or extravagance, and laws that "will really protect trust funds and govern trustees in the investment of trust funds."

Files With Foe.

David C. Winebrenner 3d, secretary of State, with whom the certificate was filed, is a leader of the Democratic organization of Frederick County, opposed by Dr. Conley. Some years ago the Winebrenner forces unseated Dr. Conley from the chairmanship of the party central committee.

Dr. Conley is the first candidate of either major party to formally enter the field. The primaries will be held next spring and the election next November.

Conley Asks Backing.

Frederick, Md., Sept. 26 (Spl.).—Dr. Charles H. Conley, this city, well known Democrat, candidate to succeed Gov. Albert C. Ritchie, filed his certificate today for the nomination at Annapolis.

At the same time he mailed approximately 1,000 letters to leading Democrats all over the State, requesting their support.

R. Thorman is "Dick, the Barber."

"Dick, the Barber," has shaved every Vice President of the United States since Thomas Marshall.

Three Presidents of the United States have been shaven and shorn under the hand of Dick.

Intimate Glimpses.

Then a book store opened next door to his barber shop. Dick talked things over with the lady in the book store.

"How's this?" Dick asked.

"'Washington Whispers, Five Administrations in Five Chapters, by R. Thorman, Dick, the Barber,' to you."

"Fine," the lady said.

So Dick, now working under the code, goes out to his Virginia home and dictates to his wife—that is, he outlines his book to her.

Book Ready Soon.

Soon the book will be published.

As Dick puts it: "I probably know more about Washington than any man in the barbering business."

He has heard wisdom from the lips of Woodrow Wilson, Warren Gamaliel Harding and Calvin Coolidge.

When Coolidge was in the White House "Dick, the Barber" was often mistaken for the President, they looked so much alike.

Moscow Gives Warm Salute To Lindberghs

Moscow, Sept. 26 (AP).—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh topped off a strenuous day of sightseeing in the Soviet Capital with a visit tonight to a Russian ballet, the "Red Poppy."

While Mrs. Lindbergh toured several Russian art museums and inspected a number of modern workers' homes, the colonel was busy conferring with chiefs of the military and civil aviation services concerning the development of the industry, then was taken through a military aviation factory. In the late afternoon, the couple went together to visit Lenin's tomb.

Col. Lindbergh insisted his visit is "purely personal" and not intended as a goodwill tour.

"We didn't decide to come here until long after we left the United States," he said. "We are here merely because we wanted to see such an interesting country."

Regardless of the purpose of their visit, the Red Capital insists on treating them as welcome celebrities from a foreign land. Moscow papers have been full of their travels and the colonel's aviation exploits.

Last night at the opera a man arose during an intermission and shouted in Russian, "Hurrah for Lindbergh," and the entire audience rose and applauded for several minutes.

Home Lure Lasts 51 Years

Native of St. Marys in Half Century Has Never Missed "Public Tuesday" Home-Coming Celebration in Leonardtown.

Leonardtown, Md., Sept. 26 (Spl.).—Adhering to a custom peculiar to St. Marys County, which has made the first Tuesday in the March and September terms of the Circuit Court known as "Public Tuesday," Claude Lloyd, a native of this county, but now of Baltimore, never has failed to attend for 51 terms in succession.

Mr. Lloyd is 73 years old, but does not appear to be 50. He is salesman for a Baltimore firm and has been with the same firm since he was a boy. He is credited with knowing everyone in southern Maryland.

On "Public Tuesday" twice a year, every one from the whole countryside "comes to town," to greet old friends, to attend court, see and be seen.

Once the streets of Leonardtown on this big day were lined with horses, buggies, wagons and oxcarts. Hitching posts lined the main street on either side.

Residents of Leonardtown prepare for hosts of relatives and friends. They keep open house all day.

"Public Tuesday" comes twice a year, and twice a year for more than a quarter of a century has faithfully come Claude Lloyd, with his genial smile and warm handclasp, back to the old home town.

Chicago, Sept. 26 (AP).—Amos, a 9-foot black snake, is absent without leave.

Neighbors complained that Amos hides in the foundation of the home of Mrs. Frances Nowacki and makes a noise at them as they pass. Amos even frightened a police squad away, they said.

Mrs. Nowacki said the neighbors' fears were groundless—"Amos did not have a mean spot in its body," and in fact was great company for the children until "he" left home to live in the foundation.

Mrs. Nowacki tried baiting Amos with a white rat. Now she's wondering if she'll have to tear the foundation out to stop the complaints.

Former House Member Dead

Akron, Ohio, Sept. 26 (AP).—Charles Landon Knight, 66, widely known newspaper publisher, died tonight after an illness of two years.

He was editor and publisher of the Akron Beacon-Journal and publisher of the Massillon Independent. He had served as a member of Congress from the Fourteenth Ohio District.

His last active work with the Beacon-Journal, writing editorials, ended two years ago. He had transferred his active duties three years before that to his son, John S. Knight, managing editor.

Known as a fighter and outspoken champion of winning and losing causes, Mr. Knight voiced strenuous opposition to men, measures and institutions regardless of their popular acclaim. These included the Taft nomination in 1912; the election of Woodrow Wilson; America's entry into the World War, and the country's proposed membership in the League of Nations. He was an outspoken opponent of prohibition.

Mr. Knight entered newspaper work in 1896. Elected to Congress, he became known as an "insurgent" and opposed such administration measures as the Fordney tariff bill, a half-billion doller Naval appropriation bill, the Smith-Towner Federal Department of Education bill, and the Sheppard-Towner maternity bill.

He is survived by his widow, two sons, John S. and James L.; and a sister, Mrs. Bella Self, of Texas.

Koenig Quits As Manhattan G. O. P. Leader

Seeks to End Quarrel in New York; LaGuardia Believed Aided.

New York, Sept. 26 (AP).—Retirement of Samuel S. Koenig, for 20 years in control of the Republican party in Manhattan, was viewed in some quarters tonight as a valuable aid to the fusion-mayoralty candidacy of Fiorello H. LaGuardia.

Koenig retired before Thursday's meeting of the committee would have decided who would be elected leader. He said he was motivated by a desire to avert "further discord."

Behind the candidacy of Mellen was W. Kingsland Macy, State chairman, staking his leadership of the party in the State.

Mellen's campaign was based on the charge that Koenig for years had been in collusion with Tammany leaders.

Cermak Plot Is Told in Trial Of Policeman

Underworld Had Selected Gangster to Kill Mayor, Witness Asserts.

Chicago, Sept. 26 (AP).—A policeman testified today that Louis "Little New York" Campagna, "public enemy," was the underworld's selected excutioner for the late Anton J. Cermak, mayor of Chicago.

Detective Harry Miller, one of the late mayor's special policemen, gave the testimony in the trial of his one-time fellow officer, Harry Lang, charged with assault to kill in the shooting of Frank Nitti, former Capone gangster.

Miller made his accusation while Lang's attorney was questioning him concerning a conversation he said he had with Mayor Cermak two days before Nitti was shot during a raid.

Miller's testimony recalled the promise made by Defense Attorney William Rittenhouse that "startling revelations" would come out during the trial.

Rittenhouse told the jury that the late mayor lived in constant fear of assassination because of his activities in smashing the Capone syndicate.

Anti-Byrd Plan League Forms In Arlington

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Planning an aggressive protest against Arlington County going under the Byrd road plan, the Home Rule League was organized at a meeting at Clarendon last night.

Officers elected are Leo Lloyd, chairman; L. C. MacPherson, vice chairman; Mrs. Dorothy Dunn, secretary, and Walter U. Varney, treasurer.

Chairman Lloyd will name as members of the executive committee three persons from each of the eleven voting precincts today.

Harry A. Fellows, chairman of the county board, in addressing the meeting declared, "We can win our fight if facts are presented as they actually exist."

He said statements claiming taxpayers will save 50 cents in road taxes by voting for the Byrd road plan are without foundation. In fact, the present road tax is less than 20 cents, he stated.

Tax Receipts Lag.

Collection of taxes during the past fiscal year failed to reach budget estimates by $131,362.67, according to the report of County Auditor Elmer F. Newell, released yesterday.

The report shows a budget estimate for current taxes of $576,336.57 with collections amounting to but $444,973.90. The collection of delinquent taxes, however, exceeded the budget estimate by $37,031.55, the report showing $97,031.55 was collected.

The proposed county expenditures for the year were based upon an estimated total income, consisting of taxes, water department, gasoline taxes, and State aid for schools, of $1,045,586.57, whereas actual ordinary income totaled only $875,504.80, thus showing a decrease in the other revenues.

Offsetting the losses, however, was $350,000 from the company which had bonded former County Treasurer E. Wade Ball. Hence the actual revenues for the year were $1,402,504.50 as against a total budget estimate of $1,045,586.57.

Beer Sale Curbed.

In an all-day session at Cherrydale yesterday, the Arlington County Parent-Teachers Association unanimously requested a county ordinance to prohibit the sale of beer within 500 yards of public school property. The resolution, presented by Mrs. Gladys I. Monroe will be given to Commonwealth's Attorney Lawrence W. Douglas for action.

Other resolutions, asking reappointment of Mrs. R. N. Davies as school nurse, and requesting the appointment of a school dentist, also were adopted.

Chamber Meets.

The Arlington County Chamber of Commerce last night voted to continue its activities for the coming year.

President Walter U. Varney cited many things accomplished, the most important being enactment of the zoning ordinance.

A special committee consisting of Louis C. Carl, Monroe H. Stockett and Walter U. Varney was appointed to call upon H. G. Shirley, State highway commissioner, seeking an adequate approach to the Arlington Memorial Bridge.

Bonds Opposed.

The Thrifton Village Improvement League last night opposed the proposed sewer bond issue of $2,500,000 until the county officials give out data sought by the league.

T. C. Johnson, chairman of a special committee, reported he failed to learn certain facts.

H. A. Spilman, W. B. Wright, T. C. Johnson, E. D. Jones and H. C. Roberts were named to draft the league's action. The league favored the Byrd road plan.

McWane to Speak.

Fred McWane, Republican candidate for governor, will address the Organized Women Voters of Arlington County this afternoon. Allen B. McDaniel, new sanitary engineer, also will speak. The meeting will be in the Mount Olivet M. P. Church, preceded by a luncheon at 12:30.

WOL President Leroy Mark expects public demand for improved reception of those new Amalgamated Broadcasting System programs to bring his station the power increase it has sought for four years.

In other words, if listeners want to hear the Ed Wynn shows without interference that now exists in some sections of the WOL field, they should go to see the Radio Commissioners themselves. Mark says he's through. Furthermore, he understands that any sort of an uprising among the dial twisters would be far more effective than he in any of his more persuasive moments. Besides, it should be very impressive to prospective show sponsors.

The commission so far has disapproved WOL power increase applications on the ground the District's power quota is filled. However, if the commission wished to be liberal, a WOL petition could be granted, it has been pointed out, in view of the fact the total power ratings for the zone in which the District stations operate would allow for a power increase in the area of more than 5,000 watts.

In the Washington studios of the older networks there was quite a bit of excitement over the Wynn chain's inaugural. Most of the minds were pretty much impressed.

Apple Harvest In Full Swing In Four States

4,000,000 Barrels Will Be Reaped, Helping 5,000 Workers.

Winchester, Va., Sept. 26 (Spl.).—The annual fall apple harvest got underway in full swing yesterday in the commercial Shenandoah-Potomac-Cumberland belt, and according to the forecast of the United States Department of Agriculture, more than 4,000,000 barrels of apples will be harvested.

The harvest brought joy to more than 5,000 workers employed in the orchards with the possibility of $2.25-a-day wages in sight for the first time in many months.

The majority of the apples in this belt will be exported to Europe. Reports from the initial export auction told of Virginia Jonathans bringing as high as $7.70 per barrel, while Virginia Bonums sold at a top price of $7.70.

"Pickers' camps" have been established in the larger orchards. Large apple-packing sheds, many of them owned by cooperative organizations, are in full operation, packing the fruit. Commercial cold storages scattered throughout the Shenandoah-Potomac-Cumberland apple belt will receive the apples for storage until selling time.

Although many growers report having sold their apples, authoritative sources declare fewer apple crops have been sold thus far this year than in average years, due to the damage done the crop by insects and the hurricane of August 23.

According to the Government's apple forecast, the crop in the Shenandoah - Potomac - Cumberland belt will be divided as follows: Virginia, 2,025,000 barrels; West Virginia, 800,000 barrels; Pennsylvania, 754,000 barrels, and Maryland, 245,000 barrels.

3 Vital reasons FOR BUYING the New AIR-COOLED Gas REFRIGERATOR Now!

1 PRE RISE PRICES AND LOWER!

No need to tell you what this means. Most everything else has advanced, but we ordinarily stock a lot of refrigerators. Those on hand now have not been touched by the increase—selling at present at the lowest prices in the history of Washington! This alone is sufficient reason to BUY NOW. We must warn you though, that when present stocks are exhausted—which will be very soon—prices must go up!

2 LOWEST OPERATING COST!

The gas refrigerator costs less to operate than any other automatic refrigerator. That's because it uses only a tiny gas flame to circulate a simple refrigerant which does all the work. Add this saving to the natural economy of keeping foods fresh, the savings you can make by buying in quantity—and you'll find that you cannot afford to be without one.

3 NO COMPLICATED MACHINERY!

This is an important item among the many superior advantages of the gas refrigerator. It has no machinery to cause vibration, wear or noise. It employs a short-cut principle, utterly dependable, to obtain the same results as refrigerators that use machinery.

These are vital reasons for buying ...e new air-cooled gas refrigerator NOW, with only a small down payment and the balance in 30 months!

Conscience.

Man's conscience is an active thing, though sometimes it may sleep, and now and then he feels it sting, reminding him he's cheap. And now and then some heartsick gent, remorseful, full of woe, returns the kopeck or the cent he swiped long years ago. The grim collectors of the tax get conscience stricken notes from voters who were erstwhile lax in digging up the groats. The merchant, weighing out his kraut, examining his till, gets money from some mournful scout who dodged an age-old bill. Stern conscience may seem dead and cold when we are in our prime, but it revives when we are old, in life's bleak wintertime. Then we look back on evil tricks we pulled when we were young, and we are in a dismal fix, our hearts are sorely wrung. The man who gains a roll by guile his conscience may forget, but in the gloomy afterwhile it's bound to make him sweat. He'll wake up in the silent night, his conscience right on deck, and think about the trusting wight of whom he made a wreck. He'll pause, while wending to the kirk, amid the slush and snow, to think about the crooked work he got in long ago. He'll think, while playing Santa Claus, around the Christmas tree, of how he used to reach his paws for all the swag he'd see.

Stock Advance Yields to Loss In Final Deals

Fractional Decline Is Laid to Selling; Turnover 1,435,010 Shares.

New York, Sept. 26 (AP).—Stocks behaved indifferently today, advancing quietly until midafternoon, when a dribble of selling put the market into reverse and brought an irregularly lower close. Net changes were mostly fractional for the active issues.

Steel shares drew some following as a result of current plans for stimulating rail purchases. Utilities and rails were quiet, while metal issues looked a bit ragged and alcohols canceled the greater part of early gains.

U. S. Smelting Sags.

U. S. Smelting sagged 5 after its directors voted an extra dividend of 50 cents, speculative holders being eager to take profits as the "good news" came out.

Allied Chemicals rallied 4, but lost most of its rise; a regular dividend of $1.50 was voted on the common. American Can, which declared a regular of $1, sagged a point net. People's Gas, whose dividend was passed, slumped 8½.

Otherwise, there were small gains and losses for U. S. Steel, Du Pont, Westinghouse, General Electric, General Motors, Consolidated Gas, Western Union, Bethlehem and most of the rails. American Telephone softened more than 2 points, being rather heavy all day. Cerro de Pasco and National Distillers were each up a point at the finish. Chrysler eased 1⅝. Railroad equipment issues improved.

Firmness Points to Pools.

During its early firmness the market looked as though pools might be preparing to reassemble their lines. However, extreme gains were not very impressive among the rank and file of stocks nor did volume expand on the rise, and when wheat dropped more than 2 cents a bushel traders were content to let the market slide.

Fresh market influences were lacking. The damper placed on inflationary fires has had the effect of diminishing speculative enthusiasms among those who a week or two ago were buying stocks on the theory that currency expansion was coming.

U. S. Efforts Useful.

At the same time, it is felt in some quarters that the Government's efforts to assist basic industry, notably steel, adds measurably to the prospects of business for the autumn months. There are those who would rather see the market follow developments in trade rather than rumor and conjecture.

"American Metal Market said the steel trade was doubtful whether the rail buying program outlined at Washington would be carried out, "but if it is, much other railroad work should go with it."

The Federal building program, added this commentator, "seems to be scarcely any nearer than three months ago to furnishing the steel industry actual tonnage for operation."

Goods Markets.

New York, Sept. 26 (A.P.).—Cotton goods were in moderate demand today. Shipments are full. Rayon yarns are in strong demand for spot shipment and are scarce. Any silks available for immediate use are taken up quickly. Wool goods move freely and are being bought for spring in fair quantities. Burlaps are firm.

Freeing "Frozen" Deposits

Funds in Closed Banks Offer Profitable Field for Stimulating Recovery

By Ralph West Robey.

In its drive to make available the deposits tied up since March 4 in closed banks, the administration is attacking a problem the solution of which would be of genuine aid to business recovery. Further, it is a field in which there is a large opportunity to come to the immediate help of a large number of people.

The amount of such deposits is approximately $2,000,000,000 Even as compared with the total bank deposits in this country such a sum is large, being about 8 per cent of the aggregate in banks now open. It is over 35 per cent of the total money in circulation.

Any such comparisons as these, however, can not reflect adequately the real importance of these deposits. To appreciate this, one must consider the influence of the tying up of these funds upon the purchasing power of the depositors. In the case of thousands of them it means that they have lost temporarily the use of their entire working surplus out of which they normally would be making expenditures. To business organizations the loss of such purchasing power is even more significant. With them it means the "freezing" of the funds with which they had planned to carry on production and out of which they would have been paying wages.

Speeding Up Action Deserves Public Support.

From every point of view, therefore, the Administration deserves the full support of everyone in attempting to hasten the freeing of these deposits. At the same time it must be recognized that the problem involved is one of finance, not of charity. The task, in other words, is one of rehabilitating this section of our banking system, not of using closed banks as an excuse for passing around to a limited group a huge amount of money.

Unfortunately some of the plans being offered overlook this fact and apparently assume the only point involved is to make this $2,000,000,000 immediately available to the depositors. One large and influential group, for example, is proposing that the Government guarantee the amount through issuing enough money to meet any withdrawals that are requested. There is neither sense nor justice to such a plan. It must be regarded merely as a means for getting the Government to print paper money.

These depositors should not be given any preference over those in banks failing before March 4. They all belong in the class of those who placed their funds in institutions the managements of which made serious errors. Whether the losses resulting from these errors caused the bank to be closed on March 3 or March 4 obviously does not provide a sound basis for distinguishing between the depositors.

Payments Should Be Limited To Underlying Values.

Instead of wasting time making such distinctions, accordingly, we should be concentrating our energies on getting the deposits tied up in all closed banks—those that failed before March 4 as well as those that failed to open after the "holiday"—made available immediately to the extent there is value behind them. Once and for all we should put an end, on the one hand, to the unconscionable long time it now takes for a depositor in a failed bank to get his funds and, on the other hand, to the immense loss he suffers because of shrinkage of value in liquidation and unnecessary expenses.

In doing this, however, it must be borne in mind that if there is no value behind deposits there is no justification for making payments. In those cases the funds must be considered as lost—lost just as completely as they would be if the money had been thrown overboard in the middle of the Atlantic. This is regrettable, of course, but no amount of magic can alter this basic fact. We can socialize such losses, by having the Government shift them to the rest of us through taxation, but if we do this we are leaving the field of finance and adopting a policy of charity. Such charity will not aid recovery.

Bond Market Sags Half Point In Quiet Sales

Traders Still Hesitate on Inflation; Dealing Up to $10,066,000.

New York, Sept. 26 (AP).—The bond market followed a rather dull and irregular course today, as most traders and investors, still confused by inflationary uncertainties, hesitated to take on further sizable commitments.

Sales totaled $10,066,000 par value, with a large part of this turnover being accounted for by a few specialties such as New York Traction issues. The average for 60 domestic corporate loans eased one-half of a point.

Prime investment bonds generally maintained a steady to firm position, but some of the secondary rails and utilities transformed early gains of a point or more into similar losses when stocks turned heavy in the last hour.

Traction bonds, usually dormant, were quite active at advances of 1 to around 4 points on reports that higher fares might be inaugurated in order to ease the city's existing financial stringency.

Among issues that ended fractionally to about a point higher were some of American Telephone, American I. G. Chemical, American Metals, American Smelting, Colorado Industrial, Consolidated Gas, Detroit Edison, Goodyear, Postal Telegraph, Sinclair Oil and Utah Power.

Industrial and utility losers included loans of American & Foreign Power, Childs Co., International Paper, International Telephone, McKesson, National Dairy, Warner Bros. and Western Union.

Losses of a point or more were recorded by Ilens of Allegany Corporation, Chesapeake Corporation, Rock Island, St. Paul, Denver & Rio Grande, Erie, Illinois Central, Missouri Pacific, New York Central, Southern and Wabash.

Wabash second 5s dropped 9¼ points. Issues of Chicago & North Western, Pennsylvania and Union Pacific improved.

United States Government securities were fairly firm. Obligations of Denmark, Colombia, France and Germany were up 1 to 2 or more points.

Credit Group Plans to Check Trade Frauds

Fund Is Being Prepared to Detect Racketeers in Business Lines.

Trade rackets are to be checked by a "fraud fund" being prepared by the National Association of Credit Men.

Believing the impending repeal of the eighteenth amendment will cause rum-runners and allied racketeers to turn their talents to other fields, the national association is preparing to resist their entrance into merchandising rackets.

It is estimated that an annual loss by fraud of $500,000,000 is borne by manufacturers, wholesalers and jobbers throughout the United States every year.

Example of Preparation.

The Washington Association of Credit Men, of which Louis M. Hewlett, Griffith-Consumers Co., is vice president, is the local affiliate of the National Association of Credit Men.

A typical example of the preparations being made is the textile fraud fund, devoted to the investigation of commercial fraud in the textile industry.

Continuation of this fund is assured for the coming year, through subscriptions contributed by members of the textile industry, affiliated with the Silk Association of America and several other nationally known independent textile firms.

The fraud fund, which has been in existence for almost 10 years, will be administered by the fraud prevention department of the National Association of Credit Men, under the supervision of the subscribers.

Aiming at reduction of dishonest bankruptcies; the issuing of false financial statements; of concealment of assets and of other fraudulent practices, the fund provides resources for the aggressive investigation of such cases, and for assistance in their prosecution.

Many Cases Investigated.

A large number of cases are investigated each year, and an effort made to discourage continuation of unethical practices. The cooperative and aggressive action of credit men in the textile industry, jointly opposing commercial fraud, presents one of the most effective means of eliminating the white collar theif, it is believed.

Since June 1, 1925, the credit association's fraud prevention department, operating in all lines of commercial activity, has brought to justice thousands of commercial criminals.

Its record includes 4,016 cases handled; 2,723 indictments and 1,450 convictions on evidence gathered by departmental operatives and presented to prosecuting authorities for action. Dollar recoveries of assets total almost $2,000,000.

Unit Works Silently.

Because this department works silently and turns over its evidence to Fedarel and State district attorneys for court use, its activities are little known. Its investigators are trained men, most of them being former members of the United States Department of Justice, the Postoffice Department and the Customs Service.

Neither the National Association of Credit Men nor the fraud prevention department is a money-making institution. The association is supported by fees paid in by members scattered all over the United States, and the department, by the association.

The department does not prosecute; it employs no court lawyers. But when a case comes to trial in which it has furnished evidence, the men who dug up the facts "si: in" with the State or Federal prosecutor.

U. S. Dollar Gains On Foreign Marts

New York, Sept. 26 (AP).—The American dollar fluctuated rather narrowly in foreign exchange dealings today as the cooling of inflationary sentiment apparently halted the flight of capital and caused European speculators to suspend selling operations.

The British pound sterling held to a fractional range all day and finished ½ cent easier at a cable rate of $4.74. French francs were only .02½ of a cent lower at 5.95½ cents. Dutch guilders yielded .15 of a cent at 61.40 cents and Belgium belgas and Swiss francs slipped .08 and .12 of a cent, respectively.

The Scandinavians were virtually unchanged, while German marks, Canadian dollars and Japanese yen were only slightly in arrears.

Minerals Yearbook Proclaims Brighter Future for Mining

(Associated Press.)

Optimism regarding the future of the mineral industries and prospects of recovery from the severe recession it suffered during the past four years is voiced by the Bureau of Mines in issuing the Minerals Yearbook for 1932-33.

"Advancing consumption has persisted through a century, indicating a deep-lying tendency to grow, and it can not be repressed indefinitely," says the bureau. "The steady rise of living standards was made possible chiefly through increased utilization of minerals and metals.

"From 1860 to 1929 our population was multiplied by 4, the value of agricultural production by 6; that of manufactures by 22, and that of mining output by 60."

It is pointed out that the mineral industries employ more than 1,700,000 men and furnish more than half the tonnage handled by railroads, placing these industries in a key position with relation to national business recovery.

An optimistic note contrasting with the general depression of minerals during recent years is found by the Bureau in Statistics on gold and natural gas. Production of these two commodities still exceeds the average yearly quantity produced during the "boom" period. Production of petroleum and salt also have held up well.

On the other hand, all other mineral commodities have suffered major declines, with pig iron the great loser among the important metals. There were also extreme decreases in copper and zinc.

"While prices of many mineral commodities have fallen below cost of production, it is obvious that such a condition can not continue indefinitely," the Bureau of Mines points out.

"Three years of steadily declining consumption caused accumulation of excessive stocks, while recurring distress sales drove prices downward, a trend that recently has shown progressive abatement. With drastic curtailment of production the increase of stocks generally has ceased and surplus stocks are more strongly held than in the past.

"Improvement of consumption lately has been evident, and the record of the past provides assurance for the future."

Insurance Advertising Group Starts at Meeting

New York, Sept. 26.—A new insurance advertising group, composed of leading life insurance companies of the United States and Canada, effected organization at a meeting in Chicago Monday under the name of Life Advertisers Association, and elected Nelson A. White, of the Provident Mutual Life Insurance Co. of Philadelphia, as their first president. Organization of the association is for the purpose of formulating and promoting advertising policies designed to further the interests of the institution of life insurance. Other officers elected were as follows: Stephen Swicher, of the Equitable Life of Iowa, vice president; D. Bobb Slattery, of the Penn Mutual Life Co. of Philadelphia, treasurer, and Bart Leiper, of the Pilot Life Insurance Co., Greensboro, N. C., secretary.

Daily Yield of Oil Rises 12,314 Units

Tulsa, Okla., Sept. 26 (AP).—Production increases in Oklahoma, Texas and elsewhere, put the Nation's daily average crude oil output 12,314 barrels higher last week, Oil and Gas Journal figures show. Only in California was there a sizable downward revision in line with allowance figures recommended for the various States under the recovery administration. The Western State reduced its daily average 15,250 barrels under the previous week to a total of 474,750 barrels. The NRA figure is 480,000 for California.

Oklahoma production jumped 14,125 barrels, to 578,765 barrels; Texas, 11,948, to 998,415 and Eastern fields 3,000, to 127,000. There were slight reductions in Kansas and the Rocky Mountain section, Kansas dropping 2,785 barrels, to 127,315 and the mountain area, 810 barrels, to 81,610 barrels daily. In East Texas, there was a 5,245 barrels gain, to 475,245 barrels.

The United States figure was 2,494,700 barrels daily for the week ended September 23 as compared with 2,482,386 barrels the previous week.

C. & O. Railway Workers Get D. C. Navy Yard Jobs

Clifton Forge, Va., Sept. 26 (Spl.).—During the past few days a number of persons formerly employed at the C. & O. Railroad shops here have departed for Washington, D. C., where they have secured positions as machinists in the Navy Yard.

It is reported here that 2,000 machinists are needed in the Washington yards on account of the enlarged building program of the Navy Department and that these men are being called at the rate of 200 a month.

Trade Trends.

(Associated Press.)

Home Furnishings—In response to more active consumer interest, drapery, upholstery and curtain manufacturers have been operating full schedules and are said to be showing marked gains over last year's figures. Carpet and rug mills are reported ahead of last year, mainly as a result of exceptionally heavy orders in July.

Lead pigments—Battery manufacturers continue to buy on a fairly active scale, but the movement to the paint manufacturing industry has slackened.

Dried fruits—Dealers report a turn to more active conditions during the past few days. Jobbers have booked a good volume of orders in the more popular items.

Blankets—Mill agents say that reorders are slow, reflecting light consumer buying as a result of unseasonably warm weather over most of the country.

Steel—Trade interests hear that makers of semifinished steel at Pittsburgh are considering fourth quarter prices, which, according to present expectations, will be unchanged from those of the third quarter.

Greater Coal Activity Is Laid to New Code

Oakland, Md., Sept. 24 (Spl.)—Evidence of the singning of the coal code accounts somewhat for inquiries received here the past week by the Stanley Coal Co. and the Laurel Valley Coal Co. from Eastern plants regarding contracts.

Both of these companies secured sufficient business to put their forces of approximately 250 men on a five-day schedule. The new business has greatly relieved the unemployment situation.

Wheat Slumps When Buyers Turn Sellers

Chicago, Sept. 26. (AP) — Ripped suddenly apart by more than 3 cents break in prices, the wheat market saw gains turned into losses late today.

The chief apparent reason was a quick reversal of market position by houses that earlier had been conspicuous buyers. Careful observers said news factors had no apparent effect and that a general tendency was shown to await Washington administration developments regarding financial affairs.

Wheat closed unstable at nearly the day's bottom level, 2 to 2⅜ cents below yesterday's finish; corn, 1¼ to 1¾ down; oats at ½ to 1¼ decline, and provisions unvisions unchanged to 10 cents off.

Wheat Shows Strength.

Most of the day an undercurrent of strength showed itself in wheat. Talk was heard that shortened yields of all domestic grain crops had made price advances necessary to control proper distribution. It was contended that such advances promised to lead not only to agricultural recovery but to a continued industrial upswing.

A maximum rise of about a cent a bushel took place, helped by widespread notice taken of a statement by a bull leader that price advances effected through currency inflation tended to diminish general purchase power for the time being.

He said wages and general income lagged under such circumstances, thus reducing the volume of the domestic market for what farmers wanted to sell.

Unwilling to take risks.

Early buyers of wheat, however, appeared unwilling to risk overnight uncertainties, and with no aggressive new speculative demand in evidence, the market suffered a sinking spell in the final transactions.

Corn and oats gave way with wheat. Primary receipts of corn were larger than either last week or a year ago, and reports indicated that the 1933 crop was now largely beyond frost danger.

Farm Income Put At $7,670,000,000

New York, Sept. 26.—The Standard Statistics Co., of New York, now estimate probable 1933 gross farm income at $7,670,000,000, exclusive of possible cash bonuses to be received from the Government.

This is 46 per cent in excess of the Government estimate of $5,240,000,000 for 1932 gross income, but 36 per cent below that of 1929, and about 55 per cent below the peak recorded in 1919.

Including the expected additional cash income of some $250,000,000 under the terms of the marketing act, total income may be expected to reach close to $3,000,000,000.

A Flying Visit With Barbara Stanwyck—Other Theater News

Screen Star a Potent Magnet At Box-Office

Barbara Stanwyck is prettier than you think.

Dark reddish brown hair, large, steady, dark brown eyes that look directly at you; clear, fair skin, unblemished by any great amount of makeup, even for her stage appearances; full red lips that smile easily and, often, a youthful figure and erect carriage; small, well-shaped feet—this is the impression that was immediately conveyed to William C. Ewing, "Bill," to you, of the Warner Brothers executive offices, and this column when they crashed her dressing-room in the Stanley Theater on the flying visit to Philadelphia yesterday afternoon. Flying visit is literally what it was.

Of this simple and unadorned beauty—Miss Stanwyck parts her hair on the right side and combs it high off her face—and extremely effective natural coloring, the cinema makes the least possible. As the camera reproduces her, Miss Stanwyck is not nearly so good looking as she is when met in person.

This, and the fact that she has never before appeared upon any Washington stage, are among principal reasons theatergoers of the Capital should feel a keen interest in the appearance on the Earle stage, beginning Friday, of this beguiling young star of "Ladies of Leisure," "Illicit," "So Big," "The Miracle Woman," "Ever in My Heart"—not yet seen here, but on its way—and numerous other films of the first rank.

Will Not Rival Aimee.

It will be a source of some satisfaction to Miss Stanwyck to learn that she will not be playing in opposition to Sister Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton, whose engagement at Loew's Fox was canceled yesterday afternoon, when she opens around the corner at the Earle on Friday.

Not that she especially feared the competition, but it happens that her act consists in large measure of scenes from "Ladies of Leisure" and "The Miracle Woman." It is in the last-named picture that she assumes a role that is popularly supposed to have been modeled more or less minutely after the career of Sister Aimee.

The scene from "The Miracle Woman" which Miss Stanwyck utilizes in her 15-minute act is the one in which she pounds the pulpit with some vigor, smashes a microphone and vehemently proclaims that her brand of evangelical soul-saving is nothing but a racket!

Miss Stanwyck's right hand yesterday afternoon was heavily bandaged with adhesive tape as a token of the realism with which she plays this scene. When she sets about hammering the pulpit and smashing microphones, she really hammers the pulpit and smashes microphones!

But that is not so much the point as her view of what effect rival engagements of her offering and Sister Aimee's might have on the general public.

"There are a great many people," says Miss Stanwyck, "who derive spiritual solace from the teachings of Sister Aimee, no matter what some of the rest of us may think of them. The particular scenes I am doing from "The Miracle Woman" are directly opposed to the ardent evangelism of the founder of Angelus Temple. For the sake of those who believe in her, the rest of us should not do anything to shake their faith until we have something as good, or better, to offer in the place of what we destroy."

That is a kindly and a philosophical view and one which Miss Stanwyck evidently sincerely entertains. There can be doubt, therefore, that she will be pleased that Sister Aimee will not be a competitive booking next week.

Tours for "Vacation."

Although she has never appeared professionally in Washington, Barbara Stanwyck is not unfamiliar with the National Capital, having visited here several times, although not within the past 10 years. Her recollection of the city is as it was before the Mall Triangle Building project got under way. She will never know the old place now!

This idea of personal appearance tours appeals strongly to Miss Stanwyck. She is, in cold point of fact, more the theatrical trouper than she is movie star.

"This is my vacation," she says. "Every time I have a respite between pictures, I find myself on one of these vaudeville tours and, much to my surprise, when what I think I want to do is rest, I love it. This tour will continue until the Warner Brothers send for me to come back to the Coast. I have heard something about a story called "Gambling Lady" and another one having something to do with China, but nothing definite, so I don't know when I shall give this up. Perhaps very soon; perhaps not so soon."

By a strange coincidence, Frank Fay, Miss Stanwyck's husband, with whom she recently appeared in "Tattle Tales," also is playing vaudeville dates and is booked into the Stanley in Philadelphia the day after she leaves.

"Improving the Mind."

Of all her pictures she likes "Ladies of Leisure" best as a finished product, but remembers "So Big" with the greatest pleasure in the making, because little Dickie Moore was in it and she, like everybody else, loves little Dickie Moore.

During her four-a-day appearances, Miss Stanwyck spends her entire time in the theater, making no effort to go out between performances. Yesterday afternoon when we bounced in upon her she was curled up on one end of an overstuffed couch bettering her mind with a volume of "Marie Antoinette," which could have been nothing under the sun but the pursuit of cultural knowledge since, if memory serves, Norma Shearer is to impersonate the character on the screen.

When Miss Stanwyck confided in an unguarded moment that she was born in Brooklyn, it was, of course, a natural assumption that she had attended Erasmus Hall High School. Everybody else did.

"No, I never attended Erasmus," she said, "because I never got that far. I know that since Clara Bow, the Gish girls, the Talmadges, Anita Stewart, Alice Lake and I don't know how many other film stars went there, I should have gone there, too. But the eighth grade seemed about all I could manage at the time. Hence all the books."

Song and Dance Out!

There is nothing gushy about Barbara Stanwyck. She is a level-headed, intelligent young woman, whose chief anxiety on this tour is that "her public" shall like her.

She can't quite understand why a girl who started out as a dancer and a singer, after reaching film stardom, can not continue to be a singer and dancer if she wishes, but that seems to be among the things that are definitely "out" in Hollywood.

"I did a song and dance at an affair in Hollywood one night and got the most unmerciful panning I ever received in my life. I like to dance and I like to sing. But that seems to have nothing to do with it. Singing and dancing apparently aren't quite high-hat enough for the film colony. So I no longer sing and dance—at least not in the act!"

That is going to be about the only thing in Miss Stanwyck's week of personal appearances at the Earle that the public will have reason to regret.

Appearing in Person Next Week

A veteran of chorus, revue, legitimate drama and the cinema, Barbara Stanwyck will make her first appearance on any local stage at the Earle Friday as vaudeville headliner. Miss Stanwyck first came to fame on the stage in "Burlesque" and more recently has appeared as costar of "Tattle Tales" with her husband, Frank Fay. Unlike many screen stars, she is said to present a real act, worthy of discriminating attention.

The Stanley Theater in Philadelphia is an ultramodern theater of huge capacity. The current bill there has Lionel Barrymore on the screen in "One Man's Journey" and Herb Williams, the "nut" pianist, sharing headline honors with Miss Stanwyck on the stage. It was packed yesterday afternoon at 3. When we stopped by Herb's dressing room to say a brief "hello," he gave Miss Stanwyck full credit for attracting the crowds. "Of course," he admitted modestly, "I entertain them after they get here, but she's the one who's pulling them in." And as nearly as could be judged by a little casual evesdropping here and there, she was. But that is quite a bill, at that!

Briefly Stated.

Odds and ends of theater chatter: Arthur Tracy, famous "Street Singer" of the air, supplants Sister Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton as headliner of the vaudeville bill at Loew's Fox, beginning Friday . . . Something better than a fair exchange, if you ask us . . . The round trip by air to Phila between the hours of 1 and 6 p. m., yesterday, caused this department to miss previous screenings of "The Emperor Jones" and "Stage Mother," dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Phil Spitalny and a CBS party in honor of the Boswell Sisters last night . . . Something less than a fair exchange, some may think . . . Walter Huston, able actor whether on stage or screen, is reported to be headed for Washington to remain for several weeks making scenes for a forthcoming M-G-M feature . . . Tomorrow, Sidney Lust, the Capital's foremost independent motion picture exhibitor, will inaugurate his classes in visual instruction in the Hyattsville public school in cooperation with Superintendent Orem, of Prince Georges County schools . . . Mr. Lust furnishes theater, operators, educational films and all the facilities, the schools having only to furnish the pupils . . . Not a hard trick, under the circumstances . . . A new Community Chest drive film is to be made this year, with Jack Connolly, of Pathe News, supplying professional photographers to do the dirty work . . . Beginning today, Loew's Fox is showing special newsreel shots of the Washington Nationals and the New York Giants in tune-ups for the world series . . . The vote on Sunday movies, now barred, in Hyattsville, Md., will be held next Monday . . . Mount Rainier will vote on the same issue on Saturday, October 21 . . . Reports on Eugene O'Neill's new comedy of remembrance, "Ah, Wilderness," with George M. Cohan, are not so hot . . . Without Mr. Cohan, they say they would be still more lukewarm . . . Theresa Helburn will direct "Mary of Scotland," the new Maxwell Anderson play, starring Helen Hayes, due at the National October 23 . . . "Criminal at Large," at the National, is worthy of anyone's time and money, the production and acting being so excellent that an officer of the Stage Hands' Union, New York, No. 1, in the audience Monday night, went back stage to check up on the stage crew, thinking it was a regular traveling road attraction . . . Imagine his embarrassment!

How to Keep Well

The Proper Temperature.

A lady of social standing and, at the same time a parlor farmer undertook to fake reports on tuberculin tests of her dairy farm. Being equally short on honesty and information, she wrote in the temperature of each of her cows before and after each test as an even 100. The normal temperature of a cow varies through several degrees and no two cows are expected to have exactly the same temperature.

Most of us have a mistaken notion about the normal temperature of the human body. We have heard that it is 98.5. We interpret this as meaning that the normal temperature is exactly the same at all times and in all parts of the body.

The fact is that the temperature varies normally at different times at least as much as a fraction of a degree. Furthermore, there is a normal difference between the temperature as it is recorded by thermometers placed under the tongue, under the arm, in the nose or in other accessible locations sometimes chosen for the purpose.

We get many letters from mothers who are agitated because their children seem to run a half degree of fever daily and have done so for months. They write they can find no cause and they are in a state of desperation. The reply they get is to lay away their thermometers, to break themselves of the temperature-taking habit, and to go on their way in faith and peace of mind.

Cyst.

Mrs. B. B. writes: What is a cyst, and is it dangerous? I was told by a doctor that this would have to come out as it keeps growing. Is it so?

Reply.

A cyst is an accumulation of something, usually fluid, within a cyst wall. Most of them are due to retention. A blackhead is a cyst. Yours is probably an ovarian cyst. Many women have them. They are not dangerous of themselves.

The advisability of having an ovarian cyst removed depends on its size, the rate at which it is increasing in size, how much it is in the way, and whether or not it causes much inconvenience.

Forest Camp Will Be Set Up In Washington

Fort Du Pont Picked as Winter Home; Another at Fort Hunt.

Washington will have a chance to see how the reforestation army works this winter, as one camp will be established here and another will be established at Fort Hunt, Va.

The District camp will be at Fort Dupont, on Alabama avenue southeast. The men will be engaged in landscaping and planting in the National Capital parks and in work on the National Arboretum. The reduction of the fire hazard in wooded park areas, the construction of trails in parks, and erosion control will also be done by them.

The Fort Hunt company, 12 miles south of Washington, will do similar work along the Mount Vernon Highway. Barracks will probably be built at Fort Dupont, but at Fort Hunt they can be housed in present quarters.

Both companies will consist of about 200 men, who will work under the direction of the superintended of National Capital Parks. Those to be sent here have not been selected, but it is likely that they will be taken from the Far West.

The location of the camp at Grottoes, Va., will be changed for winter work. This group will set up its new camp along the Skyline Drive in the Shenandoah National Park.

IT TAKES HEALTHY NERVES . TO DIVE TO THE BOTTOM OF THE SEA

FRANK CRILLEY, champion deep-sea diver of the world, retired naval diver, holder of the Congressional Medal of Honor, the Navy Cross and other decorations, about to go over the side in a nerve-wracking, deep-sea descent. Crilley says: "I smoke Camels and have smoked them for years. They are a milder cigarette and they taste better. But more important than that to me—they never upset my nervous system."

DIVING FOR FUN calls for healthy nerves, too! You can smoke all you want and never have jangled nerves, if you switch to Camels. The costlier tobaccos in Camels are milder, and they taste better, too!

A MATCHLESS BLEND

IT IS MORE FUN TO KNOW
Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand.

Steady Smokers turn to Camels

FRANK CRILLEY says: "Deep down under 300 feet of water, working feverishly under terrific pressure—no place for a nervous man! That's why a diver's nerves must always be in perfect condition. And that's why I smoke Camels and have smoked them for years. They are a milder cigarette and they taste better. But more important than that to me—they never upset my nervous system." His heroic feats prove his statement.

Camel's costlier tobaccos are milder, do taste better. They never get on the nerves. Men and women whose very lives depend on healthy nerves have discovered this. Your nerves will confirm it. Start smoking Camels today and learn the difference.

Cronin to Hold Back Naming Opening Pitcher Until Game Starts

This Morning

With Shirley L. Povich.

WHEN you see staid old citizens of the Capital buttonhole their friends on the street and go through the motions of Carl Hubbell's screwball delivery, it's high time to inquire into all this Hubbell hubbub.

The bear stories concerning the Giants' southpaw wafted down this way from New York have "taken" Washington until fans here are wondering whether this Hubbell is man or beast, who will rend the bats from the very hands of the Nats.

This probably is no time to debunk Hubbell. It can be better said with base hits by the Nats. But I can introduce a bit of evidence to the effect that the Giants' ace southpaw is not invincible. Looking back in the 1933 records, I find that Hubbell has lost 12 games this season. Those defeats did not find their way into the record books without cause.

There are no reports that Giant fans are quaking in their boots at the mention of Earl Whitehill. Yet the Nats' star southpaw has a better record than the Giants' ace. As contrasted with those 12 defeats absorbed by Hubbell are only 8 lickings taken by Whitehill, who has won 1 less game.

National Hitters Weaker.

And Hubbell has been working in a league that is acknowledged as a weak-hitting circuit, pitching with a ball that Alvin Crowder says gives the hurlers a big edge. In stiffer competition Whitehill has compiled a record that fails to equal Hubbell's only in the matter of shutouts. But with Whitehill pitching that National League ball, who can tell?

The Hubbell hubbub has failed to frighten the Nats. They have beaten Lefty Grove and Tom Bridges. They made mince meat out of Lefty Gomez this season. Hubbell couldn't make the grade in the American League as a rookie, and previous to this season he had been no great shucks in the National. It does not seem to me that the Nats' fate against Hubbell is a foregone conclusion.

Crowder Quite Calm.

Hubbell, the Giants or anybody else in a baseball uniform holds no terrors for General Alvin Crowder, of the Nats, the guy with plenty of nerve, but no "nerves." When Crowder faces the Giants he'll be no more ruffled than if he were pitching an exhibition game in Podunk.

"Crowder greeted the National League ball with open arms. "So that's the thing they've been throwing in that league," he said. "Say, that's a break for us. No wonder those Giant pitchers have been winning. Some of the guys on our club will make it do an outside loop.

"That ball won't hurt us as much as the American League ball will hurt the Giants. Wait till some of their infielders try to stop that jack-rabbit. And their pitchers had better know how to duck. It looks like a break for us, this difference in the two balls. If a base hit gets through our infield with the National League ball, it will surprise me.

Cheap Seats Shunned.

Clark C. Griffith, of the Griffith Stadium Griffiths, begs to report that the $3.30 pavilion seats are being given the go-by by Washington fans, who have deluged the ball park with requests for the $5.50 grandstand tickets.

"I can't understand it," said Griffith. "Back in 1924 and 1925 when the entire country was prosperous, those $3.30 seats were the first tickets sold. We didn't have enough to go around.

"Now, when there's supposed to be a depression, they will have nothing but the $5.50 tickets. It's beyond me. And most of those seats out in the bleachers are better than the $5.50 seats and $6.60 boxes way out in left field, that the fans are crying for."

Okay, Mr. Griffith. No charge.

Chicago Writers Challenge Landis

Chicago, Sept. 26 (AP).—Baseball Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis' right to appoint official scorers was challenged today by the Chicago Chapter of the National Baseball Writers Association.

Commissioner Landis appointed James Cruisenbery and Harry Neily as official scorers, for the city series between the White Sox and Cubs.

The Chicago writers held a meeting today and countered by naming Herb Simons and Eddie Munzel, sports writers. It was decided to appoint a committee of three, which will ask Commissioner Landis to rescind his selections. If he doesn't, the writers will abide only by the decisions of Simons and Munzel during the scoring of the series.

"Mr. Landis may run organized baseball, but he can't run the baseball writers," was the outspoken opinion of the writers at their meeting today.

Jackson Key Of Giants' Infield

NEW YORK, Sept. 26 (AP).—One of baseball's brightest minds, rabid in his enthusiasm for the Giants, sat taut in the press box of the Polo Grounds, his eyes glued on the small spot Travis Jackson covered at third base.

The Giants were starting their final drive to the National League pennant. Jackson, the veteran with the patched-up knees, who at 28 already had one foot in the minors, was subbing for Johnny Vergez against the Pirates.

The Pirates didn't start dropping them down to the man with the wobbly knees, just a few short seasons ago the greatest shortstop in baseball. The Giants took that game and the series. Vergez lost his appendix in Boston. Jackson took his place regularly. Still the Giants soared. The opposition never did get to bunting him down, as they bunted down Rogers Hornsby, slow and tender-footed, when he tried to play third for the Cardinals.

Series May Be Different.

It may be different when the Senators storm into the Polo Grounds next Tuesday for the opening game of the world series. If they start rolling them down the line to Jackson there'll be many another strained face among the Giants' supporters in the press coop. For as Travis Jackson goes, particularly after bunts, so will the Giants' infield go, and with it, possibly, their chances for the championship.

There have been many examples in world series play of substitute third basemen playing the hero's role. Baseball men insist that through the regular season, third basemen, for all the defensive work they do, should be forced to buy their way into ball parks. But not so in the championship play.

Overanxiety, the pressure of dramatic, big money conflict often does things to hitters. Instead of swinging normally, you find them pulling at balls, or cutting too soon. All of which, no matter what side of Columbus, Ohio, Sept. 26 (AP).—Rain canceled the third game of the little world series scheduled tonight between Columbus and Buffalo, each of which already has won one contest.

Tonight's game would have been the first of two night tilts here. The cancellation put the night games over to Wednesday and Thursday.

Sharkey Faces Loughran Tonight

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 26 (AP).—Ready for the bell, Jack Sharkey and Tommy Loughran are prepared to answer two big questions for the boxing world when they square off at the Phillies ball park for 15 rounds or less tomorrow night.

The fight fans are asking whether the Boston sailor man was affected by his recent defeat at the hands of King Levinsky, and they want to know how much of the old-time cleverness the Philadelphia boxing master retains.

Confidently each battler intends to answer the question—Sharkey to show that his belief that he could have taken the wild-swinging Chicagoan "in another five rounds" was well founded, and the former 175-pound ruler to demonstrate that the left jab and clever ring generalship which made him famous are still with him.

Would Escape Oblivion.

Determination, born of the realization that defeat may open the pathway to pugilistic oblivion, has added itself to cool confidence each man has in himself as he faces the comeback trail.

Sharkey put it aptly when he declared that if Tommy is victorious "I'd be crowded out of the first ten, I guess. I'm going to whip him so decisively they'll have to put me right up there at the top again."

Loughran realizes the same thing and he also has a defeat in the record books in his last start—a decision bow to the veteran Clevelander, Johnny Risko—but he claims he's the ring master of old and will take the former heavyweight titlist.

Rosenbloom and Walker In Garden Bout Nov. 3

New York, Sept. 26 (U.P.).—Maxie Rosenbloom, world light heavyweight champion, and Micky Walker, former middleweight king, were matched today for a 15-round bout at Madison Square Garden, on November 3. Rosenbloom's title will be at stake.

It will be their first meeting, although promoters have been trying for two years to bring them together.

Cronin Outclasses Giant Star Both in Fielding and With Stick.

(Herewith is the fifth of a series of articles comparing the rival positions in the coming 1933 world series.)

BRITTANIA may rule the waves and Capone may have waved his scepter over gangland Chicago, but the Emerald Isle of Erin is in control of the shortstop situation in the world series.

Joe Cronin vs. John Collins (Blondy) Ryan. That's the set-up: Two sons of the Ould Sod one generation removed from County Cork. Washington's kid manager, acknowledged as the greatest shortstop in the major leagues, versus the Giant rookie of 1933 vintage who has fitted himself into the New York pennant-winning machine with all the ease of a star to the manner born.

Nationals Have Edge.

But it is at shortstop that comparative world series records give the Nats their greatest edge. Our star, Cronin, totally eclipses the rookie, Ryan, both at bat and in the field.

Contrasted with Ryan's anemic .229 batting average is Cronin's lofty percentage of .310, which shows a commensurate number of extra base hits Ryan has not collected. And in the field Cronin has performed at a .958 gait, as contrasted with Ryan's .949 percentage.

Holy Cross spawned Ryan in 1930, when he joined the White Sox, to be released to Atlanta. The Giants purchased him from Buffalo at the end of the 1932 season after a career in the minors marked by spectacular field plays, but comparatively weak hitting.

Spark Plug of Infield.

But Ryan is the spark plug of the Giants' infield and author of that famous telegram, "They can't beat us," when an injury kept him from making a midseason road trip with the Giants. His greatest feat in the minors was hitting three home runs within a week, with three men on bases each time.

Joe Cronin has established himself as a money player all season by refusing to allow his managerial duties to affect his ball playing. Like Ryan, he is the spark plug of the infield.

"Greatest since Wagner," is the mantle that falls about the sturdy shoulders of Cronin, who overcame a discouraging baseball beginning to show his mettle with the Nats and set a new high level for shortstopping in modern major league baseball.

8-Rounders to Feature at Twin City

Lopez-Genaro Bout Expected to Be Best of Trio of Headliners Carded.

THE war clouds looming on the Twin City front tonight may presage only a bloodless revolution—or they may, upon closer inspection, prove to be the usual rain clouds. On paper, the Laurel abattoir "club fight" card promises an evening dedicated to massacre, carnage, butchery, destruction and a wee bit of boxing. In actuality, the gullible fans, who believe that a fight turns out as it looks on paper, may be in for a most pacifistic evening.

The most promising of the three eight-rounders scheduled for the edification of the bloodthirsty will present Tony ("Half Pint") Lopez, a Cuban pepper-pot, with the kick of a red-hot rhumba, against the somewhat aged but not infirm Mickey Genaro, whose chief claim to distinction is that he has met the best and lives to tell the story.

Lopez' Future at Stake.

If Lopez can hurdle the experienced and crafty Genaro, he will be pointed for bigger game by his managerial staff.

Ray Bowen will try to keep his fragile chin out of the reaches of the wild swings impelled by one Pepper Young, of Norfolk, in another eight. It is generally conceded that if Bowen is able to keep from parking his chassis in the resin for three rounds, he stands a good chance of picking Young to pieces, with well-placed feeble punches, to see what caused him be dubbed Pepper. Pepper gives no evidences of having earned the name in the ring—at least not lately—and Bowen would be performing a great public service if he solved the mystery.

Stablemate Matched, Too.

Joe Gauzman, who eats at the same training table with Lopez, will endeavor to untangle Jimmy Tramberia, of Baltimore, in the remaining eight rounder. Tramberia, of Italian extraction, has of late patterned his fighting after his national dishes—spaghetti and pastafazoola. His weaving and ducking is as puzzling as a full platter of either of these foods to some fighters, but Gauzman may string him out.

Two fours of unknown pedigree will round out the bill. The fun is scheduled to start at 8:30.

Post Sponsors Match Play Golf Tourney for District Women

THE Washington Post will sponsor a match play with handicap tournament for women golfers of the District at the Columbia Country Club course October 23-28, inclusive.

Arrangements for staging of this unique event were completed Monday at a meeting of executive and tournament committees of the District of Columbia Women's Golf Association at Indian Spring Country Club.

Annual Trophy Offered.

A beautiful trophy, to be contested for annually, will be awarded by The Post, and the District association will conduct the tournament. It promises to be the outstanding event of the feminine golf season, since no other tournament of this type has ever been conducted by the association.

The tournament will be open to all players regardless of club affiliation and handicap, but the handicap limit is 18. Those with higher club ratings may compete, but must accept the limit.

An 18-hole medal play handicap qualifying round will be held October 23, and the first 32 low net scorers will compose the championship flight. Five rounds of match play with stroke allowance will begin October 24, with one match slated daily for five days.

Chance for Everybody.

The tournament is of such a nature as to offer the high handicap players an even chance of winning from those with lower club ratings. There will be an entrance fee of $1.

The executive committee, headed by Miss Elizabeth C. Harris, association president, enthusiastically accepted The Post's decision to award the trophy, a replica of which also will be given the triumphant player.

Silence Bars Giving Foe Any "Edge"

Team Chock Full of Pep in Early Workout on Slick Field.

J. EDWARD CRONIN, boy manager, signaled for a faster pace by the Nats yesterday and his ball players responded with a bristling two-hour workout that smacked of spring training enthusiasm.

Overlooking no bets, Cronin commanded the squad to appear early at the park to accustom themselves to the high sun expected to prevail when the world series games next week are started at 1:30 p. m.

Particularly did his pitchers heave-to with a will, though they did little heaving. Al Crowder, Earl Whitehill, Monte Weaver, Walter Stewart and Jack Russell, the "big five" on whose shoulders will fall the brunt of the pitching burden, shagged flies for an hour and cavorted all over the premises in a workout calculated to sharpen their physical edge.

National League Ball Used.

The short session the pitchers devoted to hurling the ball, they spent with the thicker National League pellet with the raised stitches. This was to accustom themselves to the sphere they will be using the first two games at New York.

"Gimme that ball," yelled Al Crowder when they unrapped a new shipment of the National League spheroids. He motioned to Luke Sewell to don a mitt and slammed half a dozen pitches into it.

"No wonder that's a curve baller's league," said "The General." "With practice, a guy ought to wrap that ball around their necks. Those raised stitches are a big help."

Earl Whitehill was not so enthusiastic. "You can't tell yet," he said. "Lobbing 'em up there like we did today isn't any test. After we get in the game and start bearing down, we might be able to do something with it. But it ought to help a curve ball pitcher."

Meanwhile Cronin's rookie pitchers were hurling the regulation American League ball to the hitters, and once again the temporary seats abutting left and center field fences were the targets of the right-handed sluggers, Cronin, Schulte, Bluege, Sewell and Dave Harris.

Wary of the slippery diamond which still bore traces of the morning rains, Cronin canceled all practice for his infielders, who concentrated on batting practice. With the start of the series only six days away, Cronin is taking no chances as to injuries.

Won't Say Who'll Start.

Yesterday brought further indications that Cronin is giving thought to some deep strategical maneuver concerning his pitching assignments in the series, particularly in the first game. He declined flatly to name his first pitching hope.

"I'll tell you this," he said. "Nobody will know who is going to pitch that first game for us until game time, at 1:30 o'clock, Tuesday. I don't know, myself, as yet, and I'm not worrying about it. I'll say this, though: all my pitchers will be ready. You can depend on that.

"I'm not going to give the Giants any edge by announcing my pitchers before the game time. If they knew it was going to be a right-hander, they'd get a week full of hitting practice against right-handed pitching. And if they knew it was going to be a left-hander, they'd have all their left-handers pitching to the hitters.

Predicts Victory.

"Whoever I nominate, I expect him to win. We've got the best right-handed and the best left-handed pitching any manager could ask for, and I'm going to let the Giants worry about which one it's going to be."

Braves Beat Giants, 5-3; 20th Win for Cantwell

New York, Sept. 26 (AP).—Lanky Ben Cantwell, of the Boston Braves, became the third National League pitcher to win 20 games when he turned back the Giants, 5 to 3, today in a struggle with Roy Parmelee. Other flingers to reach the 20-game mark are Carl Hubbell, of the Giants, and Dizzy Dean, of St. Louis.

The Boston infield pulled Cantwell out with four double plays, and Pinkey Whitney provided the winning runs with a homer in the third inning. The lean left-hander gave the champions ten hits, while Parmelee allowed only six.

Silent Shot, Choice, Accounts for Purse in Feature on Card at Havre de Grace

Victor Pulls Away Near Finish

Pomponius Ends Up in Second Hole; Guardian Is Third.

By Staff Correspondent.

HAVRE DE GRACE RACE TRACK, Sept. 26.—Made the favorite for the first time in his racing career, Silent Shot, son of Under Fire, accounted for the main end of the purse in the Perryville, the day's feature at this course. Victory came by a margin of a length and a half over W. R. Coe's Pomponius. Guardian was third. The only other starter was Granite Prince, which finished as they were hanging up the mutuel prices.

Tipton allowed Silent Shot to follow the swift pace set by Guardian to the far turn. At that point, he worked his way ahead and, as Guardian tired, Pomponius came up to challenge. Tipton put a little more energy in his riding and Bejshak went to the whip on the Coe representative. However, Silent Shot was not to be caught. Tipton and his mount drew away at the finish.

Silent Shot ran the mile and 70 yards in 1:44 1-5 and paid off at the rate of $4.40.

Polly Egret Winner.

Polly Egret, the property of the Fair Fields Stable, won the first race under the clever handling of Cruz. The boy kept the filly close to the pace set by Pharatime and drew away in the stretch. Willow King was third, a well beaten favorite.

Five straight times Dreel has gone to the post and five straight times he has won a race. Backed into favoritism today, Dreel gave his backers no anxious moments. He was away in the first flight, battled for the lead with Candescent for a couple of furlongs and then pulled out to an easy victory. Greyglad closed fast to take the place from Candescent.

Meade rode his fourteenth winner of the meeting, bringing Prometheus home ahead of Hernando in the third, a 6-furlong sprint. Eternal Maid, a field horse, was third in the group of 11 that accepted the issue. Prometheus was always close to the leaders and went to the front on the turn.

Dodgson, an 8-year-old, showed those that faced the barrier in the fifth race that he still has speed in those old legs by driving to a victory over Pelham and Considerate. Parity took the sixth and Fleet Flag overcame much interference to annex the final by a nose from Chief's Troubador.

Foxx One of Six.

Jimmy Foxx, Athletics' slugger, is one of only six players in all major league history to "hit the cycle," that is, get a single, double, triple and homer in four times at bat in one game.

Strange as It Seems —By John Hix

Charles H. Calhoun, sr., well-known Washington, Ga., attorney, playing in a foursome with city officials on the afternoon of August 16, last year, made a hole-in-one on the third hole. A few minutes later his 17-year-old son, Charles, jr., playing in another foursome, approached the same hole and, goaded on by fellow players who told him not to let "Dad" beat him, holed his tee shot. Both father and son made the same hole-in-one within a few minutes of each other, although they were not playing together.

Chicken Soup Springs, near Steamboat Springs, in Nevada, is just what the name implies. The mineral water from the springs, by some strange trick of nature, tastes amazingly like good chicken broth. The Strange As It Seems motion picture company, in filming the natural oddity, found tourists enjoying the mineral water soup which was served in soup plates along with salt and crackers.

Not to start an argument, but how many is a pair of twins? A twin is, by definition, one of two children born at one birth. In the plural, "twins" is defined as two children or young produced at one birth. It would seem, then, that a pair of twins is four children. On the other hand, the expression "a pair of twin" is incorrect grammatically, and it is necessary to say "a pair of twins" to mean two children.

Dear Al: Havre de Grace Race Track.

Well, friend, the 2-year-olds scamper for the big dough today. Ten thousand greenbacks, iron men or boys, as the gamblers call $1 bills, will be waiting for distribution between the first four horses in the six-furlong sprint, the Eastern Shore Handicap. Wise Daughter carries top weight of 122 pounds. Don Meade went up on Tony Tipton yesterday in the jockey race here. The score is now 15 to 14. Having picked Levinsky to beat Sharkey, I favor the Bostonian to take the Philadelphian tonight. Where is that "daily double" that some writers insisted would be conducted in Maryland? The "double" at Detroit yesterday paid a lone ticket holder $3,318 for $2. BILL.

First race—Modern Times was preparing for a race of this sort when she sprinted the other day. Appeared to be fit and should take care of this field. Soeur Blanche has gone well in tests here and can be depended upon to be close. The Doctor for the show end.

Second race—Flying Cherokee gets in a field more to his liking and I'm looking for a real race. Zembla comes off a good effort at Rockingham and may be the one to beat. Kindacorn for the show.

Third race—Stand Pat lost his last in a stretch drive by a head. Appears to have the edge on anything this field offers. White Cloud and Saint to take care of the others. The last named is a first time starter with the backing of at least one clocker.

Fourth race—Sation demonstrated his speed here earlier in the meeting and gets the call over Indian Runner. Both are in top shape and anything close to them at the finish will be lucky. Character, of course, should have won that last outing. Gets in light today but bites off a big chunk in the top pair. Jamestown may and may not be close. Just getting ready.

Fifth race—Pova goes for the Benning dough in the Eastern Shore. Tuned in a sizzling race the other day and was under 1:12 despite being eased up during the last sixteenth. Bazaar and Wise Daughter for the other awards.

Sixth race—Lazi Canter finds one in this that he can win. Has been raced into good form. The sleeper here may be Tut Tut. This baby has been groomed for a killing. Cruz may ride. Helen's Alibi to show.

Seventh race—Gabbo appears as good as any of these. Will have Captive and George Jessel to take care of.

James' 77 Tops First Day's Qualifying Field in Columbia Golf Title Event

Medal Round Completed Today

Stevinson Trails Leader by One Stroke; Bono Is Third.

Choices Score in W. G. & C. C. Event; Other Golf Results.

GEORGE P. JAMES, popular chairman of the golf committee, shot a 77 yesterday to take the lead in the qualifying round of the annual Columbia Country Club championship.

With half of the field of close to 800 slated to turn in medal scores today, James led his closest rival, the defending champion, Miller B. Stevinson, by 1 stroke. James was out in 38 and back in 39. His total for the 18 was 7 above par.

Everett L. Bono, hailed as one of the big tourney threats, was 1 shot back of Stevinson with his 79. No one else broke 80, although A. S. Gardiner, sr., was encamped in fourth place with his even 80.

It was announced yesterday that Martin F. McCarthy, National Amateur participant and recent winner of the Anacostia amateur open, would be unable to take part in the Columbia event, due to press of business.

Favorites Triumph.

Batting Strength of Giants Concentrated in Outfield

Central Likely Contender For Title

Two Victories Last Week Show Mt. Pleasanters Have Much Power.

(This is the first of a series of articles dealing with the football prospects in the Washington Public High Schools.)

THAT the football team at Central High School this season is far above the average in quality as well as reserve strength can be shown in the early season victories already tucked away at the expense of Alexandria High and Charlottesville Fives last week.

Already the Central eleven, which has floundered about in the last few years, is on the decided up grade and Coggin's brigade is likely to be recognized as a serious contender to the public high school football championship.

Pair of Great Guards.

In Capt. Pistolas and Nicoloupolos, the Mount Pleasant eleven has a pair of the best looking guards in local scholastic circles. Both have proven, especially in the game with Alexandria last week, that they have everything in the way of what it takes to make real forwards. George King, too, has impressed with his able direction of the plays to date.

At present the Central mentor is starting Wheedon and Delisio at the ends, Holmes and Hay at tackles and the above-mentioned duo at guard. Either Fishbein or Dunn will take care of the snapperback post, with the latter given a slight edge.

George King, of course, is more or less a fixture at quarter, but Don Dunlop, who saw considerable service at this spot last year, may eke his way into the picture. Coggin started the opener with Dunlop and Jones at the halves and then in the Charlottesville Fives battle crossed up the opposition by inserting the 15-year-old Richardson and Bryant.

Figuring Out Combination.

Which combination of backs best fit into the scheme of the Central mentor's attack is hard to diagnose, but the writer believes that with such wholesale changes in the back field, the wily tutor has more than his share of material behind the line.

Frank Kocsis, really and truly a fine little back and being stamped as Central's bid for a class A triple threat gridder, failed to appear in the first game, having been struck down by an infected toe, but he was in harness in the Charlottesville embroglio and was the shining light in the battle under the arcs.

Two transferees from Roosevelt, Rube Hayman and Bill Harris, who will be eligible to play in Central's interhigh games five weeks from now, will give added strength along the forward wall.

A late change in the Central schedule has just been announced with Emerson substituting for St. John's today, due to the latter's inability to muster into condition.

Being a Co'nel, Suh, Offers Its Worries, Sez J. J. Lake

Hard to Acquire Accent; Then, Too, Just 'Spose There Was War.

ONE week as a Kentucky colonel has brought great worries to James J. Lake, the tycoon of Ninth street and local sports announcing.

"How does it feel to be a colonel—after one week?" the old maestro of mirth was asked.

"Well, suh, ah'll tell yo' all," he commenced very impressively, taking a liberal drag from a two-by-four cigar in a very lord of the manor manner, "Youse have no idear phwat a terrific strain de whole beezeness has caused me, suh, begorrah! Ah can't seem to get these bloomin' accents woikin' roight, suh, oy, gevalt!"

Oh, Boy! But It's Tough!

"It must be pretty tough after all these years of handling dialects with profusion to add a new one," the interviewer sympathized.

Yu dun't knowing he helf of it, suh, egad!" agreed the bewildered colonel, woefully replacing the wilting carnation in his lapel with a stalk of celery from the table. "In all my years as an announcer of sports events, as an actor and as a radio crooner, I have never encountered anything like it."

"Colonel, aside from the vexation and harassment of trying to get your dulcet Southern accent in working order, just what has been the psychological effect of your new title so far?"

"To tell the truth, I don't feel a bit different," answered Col. Lake, speaking very confidentially—which means that he removed the carnation from his lapel and spoke without a dialect.

Just One Camp—9th Street!

"Besides the worry about the accent, I am perturbed about what to do in case of war. As you no doubt know, I am also an aid-de-camp of the Governor of Kentucky. If they think I am going to camp anywhere but on Ninth street, they're crazy, and would I be shot for insubordination in case I refused to camp in time of war?"

"There is just one change that I can really feel. I feel that I can order a mint julep with more authority now," explained the colonel, reaching for the glass. The interviewer fled to escape temptation.

North, South Carolina Furnishing Entrants; Rules Simple.

THERE is a good chance that one or more winners in the popular Post world series contest may be from some point so distant that transportation to Washington to view the games will cost more than it would cost local residents to purchase seats. Contestants from the deep South predominate in the far-away entries. North and South Carolina are particularly well represented, although they do not hold a very decided edge over other Southern States.

Maryland and Virginia, of course, are furnishing almost as many entrants as the District. Philadelphia and Western Pennsylvania contribute more than their quota. Peculiarly enough, most of these out-of-town entrants pick the Nats to win the initial game of the series—even with Hubbell opposing them on the mound.

To join the hosts of baseball fans who are taking advantage of The Post contest, which will enable the winners not only to see all three of the games played here, but also to take a few friends along, you simply fill in the form shown above, giving your guess as to the score by innings, total runs, hits and errors, and the batteries for the first series game.

Heston, D. C. Pro, Is Tennis Victor

Rye, N. Y., Sept. 26 (AP).—Paul Heston, of Washington, D. C., today won his opening match in the National professional tennis championships, defeating Gordon Lynn, of Southampton, Long Island, in straight sets, 6—4, 6—2, 6—0.

The victory sent Heston, who was seeded No. 4, into the third round as he drew a first round bye.

The definite withdrawal of Karl Kozeluh, of Czechoslovakia, and Hans Nusslein, German star, seeded No. 1 and 2 in the foreign ranking, permitted Julius Boise, of Sewickley, Pa., to advance to the third round and James Mitchell, of Richmond, Va., to the second.

Seeded second to Vincent Richards in the draw, Hunter dropped only three games, winning 6—2, 6—0, 6—1.

District's Pros Compete for Md. Title

BALTIMORE, Sept. 26 (Spl.)—Al Houghton, Kenwood C. C. pro and current wearer of the crown, is figured to repeat when the Maryland open golf tournament gets under way at Five Farms. But to do so he must fight off 25 pros and 19 amateurs seeking his purple robes.

Former title holders seeking the laurels are Charley Betschler, Rodgers Forge, pro; Glenn Spencer, Maryland C. C., and Gene Larkin, Chevy Chase.

Among the amateurs the play of Ernie Caldwell and Spencer Overton, both of Hillendale, should center early interest. Both played at Cincinnati recently in the national amateur. Dave Crook, Rolling Road, amateur king of the Middle Atlantic shooters, also will be watched.

Five D. C. Boys Win Old Line Positions

FIVE Washington youths, one more than had been expected, will appear in University of Maryland livery for the opening game of the season Saturday, at College Park. The added starter is Bucky Buscher, half back.

Three days ago Buscher seemed destined to occupy the role of alternate. Two days ago Buddy Yaeger, 180-pounder from Baltimore, made a forced landing on his nose. So, yesterday Buscher stepped into his position.

Scrimmage Postponed.

Maryland's scheduled scrimmage with Catholic U. yesterday was postponed. It may be staged today although coaches of both schools were undecided last night. The Terrapins spent two hours brushing up on signals and forward passing. In St. John's they will meet a more experienced eleven, but, are confident.

Improved blocking and a more savage brand of tackling delighted the eye of "Dutch" Bergman as he watched Catholic U. varsity maul the Frosh for five touchdowns in a spirited scrimmage lasting an hour and a half. All the varsity men were injected into the fray as Bergman tested every part of the machine which will be called upon to stop LaSalle in the inaugural.

Coach Jack Hagerty spent the best part of the afternoon drilling Georgetown backs in the art of batting down passes. Freshmen did the passing, and infrequently made connections with the lad on the receiving end. Callahan, the big center, will play a roving game on the defense, and together with his ball-carrying brethren looked good.

After many lean years in their feud with Georgetown, Mount St. Marys is looking forward to victory this time. Ten of the men who appeared here last year will be back, and Hagerty fully realizes the difficult task his men face.

Five positions have been definitely settled on the George Washington team. Capt. Lee Carlin and Finis Parrish will start at the back posts.

Parrish Cinches End Job.

With Freshmen employing Catawba plays and unorthodox formations, the squad went through a lengthly scrimmage yesterday on the Tidal Basin field. The Frosh had indifferent success penetrating the varsity line, and a spread-eagle formation was topped almost before the ball carrier had the pass from center.

5 New Teams Compete In Columbia League

Five new teams made their debut in the Columbia Heights Bowling League, which inaugurated its season last night at the Arcadia Alleys. Ambassador Laundry took the odd game from Pete and Louis, a team which replaces Chaconas Market, and Kline swept its match with Disner, rolling the high team game of the night, 614. Daily News, another of the newcomers, bagged team set honors with its 1,686 as it whitwashed Vincent's Barbers. Pioneer Market outrolled Independent Laundry, winning the odd game in the remaining match.

Charley Wells, of Ambassador Laundry, turned in the high individual game of the evening, 137, while Nick Chaconas, of Pete and Louis, spilled 380 pins for high set.

A record of six years' standing was swept out of the books last night at Arcadia, where Mrs. Martha Kauffman rolled a game of 150 in the Ladies Lutheran League. The new mark replaces Mrs. Reynolds' 145 effort hung up six years ago at Convention Hall.

The Internal Revenue Ladies League high team set of 1,341 was rolled last night by the Audit Review. The Special Advisory Committee's 487 captured the high team game, Miss Engman won high individual set with 293 and Miss Orlove rolled the high game with 111.

High team game of 569 and high set of 1,642 went to the Columbians in the Washington Ladies League last night. The Columbians took three from the Elgees. May Morgan's 131 was high game score and Lucille Young's 365 set the mark for high set.

The "W's" took high team and game set with 1,573 and 544 in the Men's Postoffice Department League last night. Individual set and game went to Mahoney, who rolled a 365 set and 129 game.

Jackson Is Key To Giants' Infield

the plate the batter hits from, means hasty chopped balls, line drives, pop flies heading eternally down that third base lane.

If Jackson's knees stand up, and he can play just traces of the kind of ball Jimmy Dykes turned in at third base in three consecutive series for the Athletics, there's not much to choose between the Giants' and Nationals' infields, though what edge there is rests with Washington.

Pegler

Says Sharkey - Loughran Bout Is Just Crash of Hollow Shells.

By Westbrook Pegler.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26—Jack Sharkey, the prize fighter who took up failure as a vocation in life and made a brilliant success of it, is fighting his old friend, Tommy Loughran, in Philadelphia, tomorrow evening. Here is a contest of the lithe, lean bodies in which it ought to be possible to stir up the widest disinterest.

It will be a battle of the hollow shells, and it would be hard to imagine anything of less consequence than the outcome.

Those of us in the sport-writing trade who are approaching the age for memoirs and almanac statistics will recall that on the occasion of their first meeting, Sharkey fetched Loughran a push in the face and sent him sleep-walking into the arms of Lou Magnolia, the referee.

Asked for Seat.

Mistaking Magnolia for one of the gentlemanly ushers and himself for a cash customer, Loughran asked to be shown to a comfortable seat. Sharkey pursued him with intent to inflict great bodily harm, but Magnolia, with quick, shrewd judgment decided it would be against the interests of the ennobling sport to permit a contestant to take a sock at anyone who even thought himself a customer.

So he restrained Sharkey and another quaint and curious episode was entered in the record of the male Sarah Bernhardt, whose principal attraction over a long and profitable career was not his talent as a common fist-fighter but his knack for the dramatic and unconventional.

Probably if Magnolia had permitted Sharkey to take one more sock at Loughran the result would have been even more startling. Sharkey looked very homicidal as he charged across the scaffold, but even if he had hit Loughran again it was not likely he would have inflicted any serious bodily harm.

"Looks" His Chief Asset.

He always looked homicidal, but the gross aggregate bodily harm which he inflicted in all his career was no more than you could cure with a few cents worth of collodion and puckering power.

But if Magnolia had let him go he might have mistaken himself for Loughran and tagged his own chin for a knockout which would have been difficult to score under the rules, but highly entertaining.

He was always creating delicate problems in his fights, and any referee who worked with him had to be prepared to act as governess, keeper or nurse in an emergency. In his fights with Harry Wills and Jack Delaney, both of which ended to his advantage but not altogether to his credit, he broke down and wept like a melancholy inebriate in a village cooler.

In his bout with Philip Fallova Scott, the fainting fireman from London, he drove in a number of low fouls and broke into a screaming tantrum so shrill that Magnolia, who was the referee of that evening, too, said, "All right, for heaven's sake, stop hollering and hit him again; but hit him on top of the head this time, as he is very high-waisted and anything below the eyebrows is out of bounds."

The bout with Harry Wills was the one in which Sharkey established his reputation. Wills was disqualified for hitting while holding and Sharkey was carelessly deemed to have removed a menace. But the rule against hitting while holding was especially revived for that evening only. Many prize-fighters were in the habit of hitting while holding, notably, Harry Greb, who never was disqualified or even challenged for the offense.

Many Others Did It.

Many others, notably Willie Stribling, have done the same since Wills' time, but nobody has ever been ruled out in a main event in New York since that night.

If Wills had been permitted the same freedom of action that Greb, Stribling and others of more pallid complexion and less truoblesome political affiliations were allowed, he would have beaten Sharkey very easily. However, Wills had been syndicated by a group of local politicians who wished to promote him into a match for the heavyweight championship and the opposing politicians who viewed such a possibility with great alarm were much relieved when he was heaved out of the ring.

Shibe Arrives For Boat Regatta

JOHN SHIBE, Philadelphia baseball mogul of Athletic fame, and motor boat enthusiast par excellence, is in town—making arrangements to win the President's Cup race.

Shibe sems just as serious, just as determined about this boat racing business as he is about the national pastime. He takes the wallops—and there are plenty of them in this business of trying to annex a major speed boat title—but like a rubber ball, the harder you hit him, the higher he bounces. This characteristic has earned him the right to be dubbed "The Thomas Lipton of speed boating."

Shibe's troubles with speed craft have centered mainly about the ill-fated Miss Philadelphia, which made its local debut by turning turtle and killing its pilot in a previous President's Cup race.

Temperamental Miss.

To say that Miss Philadelphia was a temperamental maiden is putting it mildly. Sometimes she would behave beautifully and at other times she cut all sorts of didoes. Miss Philadelphia ended her racing existence when she was ruled out of the recent Detroit Gold Cup races for misbehavior.

Shibe obtained an option on the Delphine VI from Horace Dodge and motored the hull with the powerful engine from the ill-fated, temperamental Miss Philadelphia. The combined Delphine VI-Miss Philadelphia is the boat that has brought John Shibe and a crew of mechanics to Washington with high hopes of annexing the President's Cup. The hybrid craft will race under the name Ethyl-Ruth III and, if successful, Shibe will either purchase the hull from Dodge or have one exactly like it constructed to house the powerful motor.

WMAL to Broadcast D. C. High Grid Games

According to an announcement yesterday afternoon from Carleton Smith, assistant manager of the Washington unit of the National Broadcasting System, radio station WMAL will bring to the air the play-by-play accounts of the Inter-High football games direct from Central High Stadium.

The games will be handled by the local announcers, among them, Robert Youse, who had considerable experience handling the large college games on the Pacific Coast. The first of the ten-game series will be broadcast Friday, October 13.

An added feature of the broadcast is that the games will be played on Tuesday and Friday, and will not interfere with the Saturday featured football attractions over the national hookups.

Alexandria Council Sends Note to Parents at Fort Humphreys.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
207 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Mayor Edmund F. Ticer last night at city council meeting presented a resolution regretting the recent action of the Alexandria school board in refusing admission of the children of officers and men at Fort Humphreys after the council had agreed to increase budget sufficient to cover the tuition. It was adopted and a copy sent to the fort.

Councilman Barley notified the council that on October 24 he will introduce a resolution to elect members to the school board to fill vacancies caused by the expiration of the terms of several members.

Councilman Garrett offered a resolution rescinding the action of a previous meeting to publish the names of tax delinquents, to amend that action to include only those owing city taxes up to and including 1931. No action was taken on this matter, the council adjourning to executive session and consider this question.

City May Get Pork.

The Alexandria Welfare Department, through Superintendent R. W. Boeringer, hopes to distribute some of the pork which is being cured by the Government. This was brought out in a talk by Mr. Boeringer before the Sixth Ward Citizens Association. He also announced the Red Cross had aided approximaetly 600 families with Government flour, but warned citizens that help given by Federal, State and city governments will not cover all necessary welfare work during the coming winter.

The association will also petition the city council to employ a full-time librarian at the George Mason High School.

Invitations were sent to the candidates for civil and police justice and the House of Delegates to address the next meeting.

Fairfax County Facing Short School Terms

Large Enrollment Forces Hiring of Two Teachers Not in Budget.

The large increase in enrollment in public schools of Fairfax County and decreases in the State school appropriations will probably result in shortening the school term.

In preparing the school budget for this year provision was made for the hiring of five extra teachers. The school population has increased so rapidly since opening the five teachers were found to be insufficient, and it has become necessary to appoint two others.

These two extra teachers will receive tentative appointments until formally approved by the County School Board, one at the Lorton School and the other at Franconia.

County Superintendent of Schools W. T. Woodson stated yesterday that unless further economies can be effected which he believes impossible, or the State assembly increase school funds when it meets in January, there is no way to avoid shortening the term.

Third Murder In Eight Days Puzzles Police

Three Detained in Probe of Man's Death After Beating in Fight.

An apparent third murder within eight days puzzled Homicide Squad detectives last night, following the finding of a homeless, middle-aged man, fatally beaten on a lot in the Southeast section.

The victim, William Thomas, 56, no fixed address, was found lying in weeds early yesterday morning on First street, between N and O streets southeast. Police removed him to Gallinger Hospital, where physicians thought he was suffering from acute alcoholism. They treated him also for bruises on his head and forehead.

Police said they believed Thomas had been beaten in a fight and began to investigate.

They arrested William H. Gray, 44, colored, 115 M street southeast, and Arthur Warden, 50, 1251 First street southeast, and booked them in Fourth Precinct for investigation. A third man, reputed to have been an eyewitness in the alleged fight was detained, but not registered.

Heating Plant Boilermakers Ordered Back

As One Labor Dispute Nears End Others Are Added.

Developments in labor union disputes threatening to tie up all Federal building projects here reached a new high yesterday as one strike was ordered halted, a general strike was threatened, the list of jurisdictional disputes were increased by one and Senator Robert F. Wagner expressed confidence another would be settled soon.

Michael J. McDonough, president of the American Federation of Labor building trades, announced last night the boilermakers will be called upon to return to work at the Central Heating Plant. They struck September 11, protesting erection of smokestacks by iron workers.

Decision to recall the boilermakers, ending a strike which made 110 men idle, was reached at a meeting of the Building Trades Executive Council, which will report today at the opening session of the building trades convention.

Carpenters in New Dispute.

The latest jurisdictional dispute at the heating plant was initiated by carpenters who are protesting the setting of conveyor belt pulley linings by elevator constructors. This work is 95 per cent finished.

More serious is the fight against installation of boiler insulation by bricklayers. According to L. W. Fuller, superintendent for the Rust Engineering Co., the Washington Building Trades Council has threatened to call a general strike if this work is not given to asbestos workers.

Caulking of window frames has been suspended while ironworkers and bricklayers determine which trade is to complete the work. It was started by the iron men. This dispute is not interfering with other work, Fuller said.

Fuller Places Blame.

Blame for the boilermakers' strike was placed upon the local building trades council yesterday by Fuller. With its cooperation, the walkout could have been avoided, he declared. The plant was scheduled to be completed January 1. Delay will result in 52 buildings being deprived of heat.

Senator Wagner said he expected an early settlement of the carpenter-ironworker controversy over radiator inclosures which caused a shutdown at the I. C. C.-Labor building September 15. For several days he has attempted to communicate with William L. Hutcheson, international carpenters president.

Hutcheson notified Labor Department conciliators last week he would not order the carpenters back to work unless the inclosures are given to them. They struck September 1, resulting in the complete shutdown two weeks later.

Thomas M. Rives, Chevy Chase, Md., was recommended for appointment as superintendent of the District Jail yesterday by the Board of Public Welfare.

Rives is a Federal rehabilitation expert. The District Commissioners, it was said, will approve his appointment tomorrow. He will take office October 1.

7,500 Workers Regain Jobs

Postal Employes Losing Out by Transfer to Be Reinstated.

Approximately 7,500 custodial employes of the Postoffice Department automatically separated from the service under the Postoffice buildings transfer scheduled for October 1, will be reappointed at once for a temporary period.

This was announced last night by Postmaster General Farley, who signed an order calling attention to the provisions of President Roosevelt's executive orders of June 10 and July 27. These provide for transfer of administration of 1,565 postoffice buildings from the Tresury Department to the Postoffice Department.

Personnel affected will be appointed to their same positions at their old salaries for a period not exceeding four months, Farley said. Within such time, employes may be permanently reappointed without reexamination or loss of Civil Service status, the order provided.

Only about 83 employes of the Washington City postoffice and the Georgetown branch are affected.

Fairfax Dairy Men to Query New Milk Code

Increase to Producer But Not to Consumer Now Provided.

Opportunity to examine any milk marketing agreement for the Washington area before its submission to the Agricultural Adjustment Administration was asked last night by dairy farmers of Fairfax County, Va., at a mass meeting.

The agreement being drafted for the Capital and environs envisages price increases to the producers without a corresponding increase in consumers' price, according to the Maryland and Virginia Milk Producers Association.

Meanwhile, Elwood H. Seal, special counsel to the Senate Milk Investigating Committee, learned that I. W. Heaps, marketing agent for producers for the Baltimore and Washington areas, was linked with Lawrence Woodin, a National Dairy Products Corporation executive, in the Maryland Dairy Council.

Previously Unrecognized.

The council was organized to promote milk consumption. Secretary of Agriculture Wallace recently refused to recognize it because it was unincorporated. It has since been incorporated; but officers have not been chosen.

The Fairfax County farmers passed resolutions commending Mr. Seal, and Senators William H. King and Pat McCarran for the thoroughness of the Senate inquiry.

The marketing code provided a 3-cent per gallon increase to the producer for basic milk, or that used in bottle form, and a 2-cent increase for milk used in creammaking.

Milk Higher Here.

The A. A. A. have observed, it is understood, that milk is 2.9 cents higher here than the average over the country.

Independent milk distributors not invited to participate in the drafting of the agreement have called a meeting of the newly formed Independent Milk Producers Association October 6.

Jefton Darr, attorney for the independent Arlington-Green Meadows-Fairfax Farm Dairies, announced last night that producers who also distribute milk in the suburbs of Washington are invited to join the organization.

An agreement for the Baltimore area was signed yesterday by the Maryland State Dairymen's Association and Secretary of Agriculture Wallace. It fixes a minimum price to the producer of 22½ cents for Class 1 milk and 17 cents a gallon for Class 2 milk. Retail prices were fixed at 11 cents per quart delivered to the home. The wholesale price for stores is 10 cents a quart.

Grayson Faces Court in Bank Plot Charges

Former Government Aid Pleads Not Guilty; Held "Tip-Off" Man.

Pleas of not guilty were entered by John Cooke Grayson, 65, former chief clerk of the chief national bank examiners' office of this Federal district, at his arraignment in District Supreme Court yesterday on two indictments charging conspiracy and embezzlement in connection with the operation of the defunct Park Savings Bank.

The arraignment before Justice F. Dickson Letts came as a surprise. Grayson had been reported seriously ill with heart disease in Charlottesville, Va., but he walked into the courtroom, accompanied only by his brother, Admiral Cary T. Grayson, and his attorneys.

He was accused, also, of having received approximately $5,000 in credits for tipping off Stunz when bank examiners were to visit the bank, giving warning with the remark, "The camels are coming."

An auditing committee, C. G. Degman, B. G. Ladd and William A. Maio, was appointed to inspect the group's books. New officers will be elected at the next meeting, October 31, in the Buchanan School auditorium, Thirteenth and D streets southeast.

2 in Downtown Holdup Jailed; Loot Recovered

Maurice Shelton, 24, Brookmont, Md., and Murray W. Zeigler, 28, East Orange, N. J., a former New Jersey State policeman, had confessed last night, police announced, they were principals in the holdup and slugging of Maurice J. Morrison, assistant manager of the G. C. Murphy Five and Ten Cent Stores, early Monday evening.

The prisoners, who seized $4,000 Morrison carried in a bag in front of the American Security & Trust Co. on Fifteenth street northwest, after attacking him with a blackjack, are in jail, Shelton at First Precinct Station and Zeigler in Ninth Precinct. Neither had been formally charged.

Crowds See Holdup.

The holdup occurred shortly after dusk, as crowds of amusement-seekers milled through the streets. Morrison was on his way to make his regular night deposit at the bank.

He was slugged at the base of his skull with the blackjack and his attacker lunged for the money bag at the same time. Morrison resisted, but the bandit's companion, seated at the wheel of a taxi at the curb, joined him and the money was torn from his grasp.

Shelton grabbed the money bag, but tossed it away in Lafayette Park, just before he was arrested at the point of a gun by Park Policeman J. C. Bracey. Shelton, in his attempt to escape, ran up Fifteenth street, and then west on H street, where Bracey stopped him.

Shelton Gives Clews.

Zeigler was captured through clews given by Shelton as to his whereabouts. Detective Sergts. E. F. Lewis and J. J. Tolson found Zeigler in his fashionable apartment in the Northwest section. They also found the two automatic pistols the men carried, one of them near the recovered loot in Lafayette Park.

"Hello," he said, and then a little later: "I'm sorry I did it. I needed the money."

Police said Shelton had been out of work a short time.

Stock Fraud Loser Paid After 2 Years

Salesman Fined, Forced to Make Restitution.

It was an old story with a different ending. Two years ago Mrs. Kathryn F. Lonergan, 3432 Connecticut avenue northwest, lost $190 in a fraudulent stock deal.

Yesterday the money was returned. A man, who had represented himself as a stock broker to Mrs. Lonergan, was arrested in Wilmington, Del. He faced his victim in a postal inspector's office and returned the money.

Identified as Richard C. Guest, the man was found guilty of using the mails to defraud. He was fined $500 and ordered to make restitution. Mrs. Lonergan, an employe of the Internal Revenue Bureau, was one of several victims.

Numbered!

The number is 90793½. It was issued by the Patent Office to Charles Toucey Coiner, of Mechanicsville, Pa., designer of the Blue Eagle emblem. He immediately transferred title to the Government.
